

both as to health & studies is very gratifying: and I am truly obliged by your kind attention to him. He seems from his letters very happy; and I hope he will continue to be sensible of the great advantages which he enjoys, and go on as contentedly to the completion of his course at the Gymnasium & then to the university, to qualify for the career to which he is destined.
The arrangement which you have in view to promote his French studies is quite satisfactory; or at least is next best to that which you designed.

With great esteem
My best regards
