

London Bolton Row May 26.
1840.

My dear Sir

I had hoped I have been able to forward to you the accompanying packet by my friend Capt.
Washington, who went to Bonn a few weeks ago with his family who I believe are still there:

I unfortunately missed the opportunity, and must trust to another combination to forward the packet to you now. You will pardon me the liberty I have taken to request your kind acceptance of a copy of each of my three letters & the last of them
