My Dear Sir

A part of a volume has just appeared from the Geographical Society which contains an interesting memoir by Captain Burnes on the course of the Indus and other matters. As I think it will interest you I gladly seize an opportunity which presents itself of sending it to you. It will always give me pleasure to take advantage of any occasion by which I may bring myself to your recollection. I often regretted that my line of study did not lead me to profet by a more frequent intercourse with you during my stay at Bonn.

Captain Burnes is a young and enterprising man, from whom much may be yet expected. He is a native of Montrose in Scotland, and is now on a visit to his family.
