

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is arranged in a vertical column and appears to be a list or index of names or titles, possibly in a historical or scientific context. The characters are somewhat faded and difficult to decipher precisely, but they seem to be in a Latin or Germanic script.