„Particularly deserving of attention among the more recent exploits are those of Mr. Theodore F. Bevan, extending from the Papuan Gulf up to the great streams which drain a vast tract of country south of the main central ranges. These resultful efforts came to a close in 1887 with his fifth expedition; but we trust to see this vigorous explorer, after the display of so much courage and perseverance, again braving the dangers in the fields of geographic research.“ — Sir F. von Mueller, F.R.S.
