EARLY CHRISTIAN ETHICS IN THE WEST

By H. H. SCULLARD, M. A. D. D.
Professor at New College, London.

The object of this work is not to present a treatise on Christian Ethics, but to trace the early history of Christian Ethical Thought in the West. The author passes "briefly in review some of the principal moral ideas which confronted the Christian Church in the first four centuries, and compares them with the corresponding ones found on Christian soil. From their resemblances and differences, their alliances and their conflicts, some idea of the course of Christian Ethics in the West will be gained."

THE SOUL OF PROGRESS

By The Right Rev. J. EDWARD MERCER, D.D.,
Bishop of Tasmania.

Being the Moorhouse Lectures for 1907. The First Series delivered under this Lectureship in St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne.

From the PREFATORY. — "In the first place I have tried to show that the Christian Religion can meet the deepest social needs of the individual and of the race. I have approached the subject indirectly—first defining the needs of the grounds of experience, and then showing that a soulless universe can never satisfy them. . . .

"In the second place, I have tried to make the social movement conscious of its soul. It is surely a matter of supreme importance that the great masses of thinkers and workers should recognise the spiritual character of existence and of human progress. . . .

THE MYSTERY OF NEWMAN

By HENRI BREMOND

Translated by H. C. CORRANCE. With an Introduction by
Rev. GEORGE TYRRELL.

"The handsome and well-finished volume before us is one that everyone interested in Newmann will feel bound to read, and will read to the end with unflagging attention. It is far away the best criticism on Newman that has yet appeared, full of cordial appreciation and yet no unreasoning panegyric." — Westminster Gazette,

TENT AND TESTAMENT

A CAMPING TOUR IN PALESTINE
WITH SOME NOTES ON SCRIPTURE SITES

By HERBERT RIX, B.A.

Twenty-Five years Secretary of the Royal Society of London. The volume is furnished with an index, maps, and numerous illustrations. It is published at 8s. 6d. net.

"The result is a thoughtful, well-written, even learned work, far from the vain outpourings of the tourist. The narrative, though heavily charged with information, is wonderfully unembarrassed, and the word-pictures which abound are true to life." Athenaeum.

THE APOLOGETIC OF THE NEW TESTAMENT

By Rev. E. F. SCOTT, M.A., of Prestwick.
Author of "The Fourth Gospel: Its Purpose and Theology."

It has long been recognised that some apologetic motive is at work in almost every book of the New Testament; and this aspect of the writings is here made the subject of a separate study. The author examines the arguments by which the New Testament writers maintain the truth of their religion. He considers their defence in its relation to the various forms of contemporary criticism and unbelief against which it was chiefly directed. He seeks to determine the influence of the apologetic motive in the presentation and development of doctrine.

NATIONAL IDEALISM AND A STATE CHURCH

By STANTON COIT, Ph.D.

This work constitutes a plea for the maintenance of the Church of England as a means to national character-building and well-being. The author, while rejecting trust in personal agencies beyond the limits of human society, advocates the State organisation of the spiritual influences within the community. He defines religion as the steadfast and reverent focussing of a nation's attention upon what is believed to be the source of the supreme blessings of life, in order to secure their possession. Accordingly, he pleads that the State Church should not be disestablished but transformed, (1) by abolishing all tests for the clergy except those of intellectual equipment and moral fitness, and (2) by democratising its government.

THE HISTORICAL EVIDENCE FOR THE RESURRECTION OF JESUS CHRIST

By KIRSOPP LAKE, M.A. (Oxon.).

Professor of New Testament Exegesis in the University of Leiden, Holland.

This treatise is an investigation into history, and is concerned primarily, not with the spiritual evidence of religious experience, but with the testimony of early Christian literature.

Ready. Large Crown 8vo, above 320 pages. Cloth, 6s.

NEW THEOLOGY SERMONS

By Rev. R. J. CAMPBELL, M.A.
City Temple, London.

These Sermons are a practical demonstration of the way in which the principles of the New Theology are expounded by the leader of the movement. Sermons of an epoch-making nature which it will be absolutely necessary for all to possess who are interested in the present movement in religious thought.

"Most important of all, if any one still harbours the idea that progressive religion has no "message," no "Gospel," no fine preaching-fibre, a perusal of these sermons should disillusion him." — Christian World.
