

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is faint and difficult to decipher but appears to be organized in a structured manner, possibly a list or a set of instructions.