

9-11; ZS. d. Ges. f. Erdk. 1881, 3; SILL. J. (3) XXIII, 417-418; Naturf. 1882, 424-426.

G. v. HELMERSEN. Studien über die Wanderblöcke und die Diluvialgebilde Russlands. Mém. de Pétersb. XXX, Nr. 5, 1-56. Geologisch.

MILNE and HOME. Report on the boulder Committee with Remarks by the Convener. Proc. Edinb. Soc. XI, 1880/81, 246-296.

A. S. PACKARD. Glacial marks in Labrador. Americ. Natur. 1882, January.

KOUDRAOSEFF. Ancient glaciers on the Kola peninsula and on the West coast of the White Sea. Nature XXV, 301; Proc. Petersb. Naturst.

Glacier scratches in the Catskills. SILL. J. (3) XXIII, 338.

TENISON - WOODS. Pseudo - glacial phenomena. Nature XXVI, 80-81 (L.)

In NW-Australien wurden an durch Wasser herabgespülten Granitplatten kritzelnähnliche Vertiefungen bemerkt.

Glacial Period in the Caucasus. Nature XXVI, 139; Iswestija XVIII, H. 2.

T. C. CHAMBERLAIN. Bearing of some recent determinations on the Correlation of the eastern and western Terminal Moraines. SILL. J. (3) XXIV, 93-98. Ausdehnung des alten Gletscher in Nordamerika zur Eiszeit.

E. KAYSER. Gletschererscheinungen im Harz. Verh. d. Ges. f. Erdk. 1881, Nr. 10, 345-350, cf. Fortschritte 1881, III, 728.

J. D. DANA. The Flood of the Connecticut River Valley from the melting of the Quaternary Glacier. b) The question as to the elevation of the land. SILL. J. (3) XXIV, 98-105. Schluss der früheren Abhandlung. Betrifft die Frage der Hebungen.

D. MACKINTOSH. Additional discoveries of High level-marine drifts in North Wales with remarks on driftless areas. Geol. Soc. 22./2.; Philos. mag. (5) XIII, 370-371. Geologisch.