

At Zöblitz in Upper Saxony, several hundred people are employed in quarrying, cutting, turning, and polishing the serpentine, which occurs in that neighbourhood, and the various articles into which it is manufactured are carried all over Germany, The serpentine of Portsoy is far superior to that of Zöblitz in colour, hardness, and transparency, and when cut is very beautiful.

SECOND