

Handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Gothic or similar, appearing as a header or title. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting bleed-through from the reverse side.

Second line of handwritten text, also appearing to be bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.

Third line of handwritten text, continuing the bleed-through from the reverse side.

Fourth line of handwritten text, continuing the bleed-through from the reverse side.

Fifth line of handwritten text, continuing the bleed-through from the reverse side.

Sixth line of handwritten text, continuing the bleed-through from the reverse side.

