

Handwritten text at the top of the page, likely a header or title, written in cursive.

Main body of handwritten text in cursive script, consisting of several lines of text that are difficult to decipher due to fading and bleed-through.

Handwritten text at the bottom of the page, possibly a signature or a closing phrase.

Handwritten text at the very bottom of the page, appearing to be a date or a reference number.