

Faint grid lines forming a table structure, likely a ledger or account book page. The grid consists of approximately 10 columns and 20 rows, with a prominent vertical line separating the first column from the rest. The content within the grid is illegible due to fading.