LATEST TELEGRAMS.

Hong Kong, August 11. An English steam-boat was attacked by pirates yesterday evening near Wuchow. One man was killed, and three wounded. The robbers escaped, with 500 taels and a chest of opium.

Zermatt, August 11. Three tourists from Berlin—Dr. Zeller, Lieutenant Erler, and First Lieutenant La Quiante—who started on Tuesday to ascend the Weisshorn (14,800 feet) by way of the Schalligrat, and had been missing since then, were found yesterday. Lieutenant Erler had fallen and broken his leg, the other two were well.

Teheran, August 11. The Shah has at length acceded to the requests of the people. The refugees who had sought the protection of the British Ambassador have left the Embassy, with the exception of 200, who have personal claims. The priests who fled from Teheran are returning. Illuminations have been ordered throughout the country.

Constantinople, August 11. The Sultan's condition yesterday was very grave. Today His Majesty is better. The condition is considered serious but not critical. The Sultan is fully conscious and issues irades. He has suffered for some time from gravel. The people are visibly agitated, but perfect quiet prevails in the city.

Bolzen, August 11. Herr Hermann Ziegler, a merchant belonging to Stuttgart, was found dead on the Rosengarten group in the Dolomites, as the result of a fall.

Constantinople, August 11. No official communiqué as to the illness of the Sultan has been published. This is regarded as a sign that His Majesty is worse. A report that he was dying lacks confirmation. The report of his death is also false. The disease is said to be uraemia.

Paris, August 11. The Persian Ambassador in Paris has received from the new Grand Vizier—so some of the newspapers report—a telegraphic intimation that the Shah, in fulfilment of his promise to establish a Constitution in Persia, has convoked a Parliament, which includes a group representing the broad classes of the population.

Paris, August 11. According to the Petite République, frequent thefts have occurred lately in Fort Vincennes; and it has now been discovered that they have been committed by a mixed and well organised band of civilians and soldiers who have stolen, not only provisions and war materials, but valuable models, so that in some cases they have been guilty of high treason.
