TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

HONG KONG DISASTER.

Hong Kong, September 23.

The steamer "Shaoshing", which has arrived here from Canton, reports having seen Bishop Hoare's body in the water off Castlepeak Bay. A party has been dispatched on board the Stanley to recover the body.

The offer of the Governor of Macao to send the gunboat "Rio Lima" to stand by the stranded steamer "Heungshan" has been declined with thanks, as Commodore Williams has dispatched torpedo craft for the purpose. It is unofficially reported that the Heungshan's back is broken.

The salvage steamer "Protector" is proceeding to the spot.

A dredger has been dispatched to the assistance of the stranded "Kinshan", and success is confidently expected to attend her efforts to save the steamer. An attempt to tow off the "Fatshan" has failed. Her position is, however, believed to be safe.

ANOTHER TYPHOON.

Manila, September 23.

A typhoon has struck the Philippines to the south of Manila. The telegraph wires have been blown down, and no reports have yet been received of the damage done in the provinces.

At Cavite, the arsenal and the shipping in the harbour have suffered, and the gunboat "Arayat" is ashore.

THE METEOR INCIDENT.

London, September 23.

Reuter's Bureau is informed that no representations have been made by the German Government to the British Foreign Office in the matter of the "Meteor" incident. The latter has received a detailed report of the matter, and this entirely agrees with the version already published by Reuter, and has been communicated to the German Government.

Reuter's Bureau also learns from the German Embassy that the report that they have been requested to make representations to the English Government in the matter of the "Meteor" is untrue. They have merely been charged to establish the facts of the case. These they have obtained, and sent in the usual way to Berlin. The facts are entirely in accordance with the statement published by Reuter.

THE SUEZ CANAL BLOCKED.

Port Said, September 23.

According to a Lloyd's telegram the English steamship "Caledonia" has gone aground in the Canal and is blocking the passage at the passing station, 133 kilometres north. Salvage crews have been sent to the spot.

Later.

Traffic in the canal has been resumed. The "Caledonia" cannot yet be refloated but her cargo is being removed.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

THE CUBAN REVOLT.

New York, September 22.

All the newspaper dispatches from Havana this morning are markedly pessimistic in tone. All declare that Mr. Taft is finding his job harder than he expected, and that the need for American intervention is becoming hourly more apparent. It is not at all improbable that this pessimism has been assumed, so to speak, to order, with a view to help Mr. Taft in the pressure which he is bringing to bear upon President Palma and his Government, for, strange to say, the trouble now comes from the official people in Havana, not from the insurgents in the field.

The latter have not budged an inch from the terms originally set forth as their minimum, and Mr. Taft is well aware of them, although he has not yet been in personal or direct communication with the rebel leaders in the field. But President Palma has now plucked up courage to declare that there shall not and cannot be a new general election, and he no longer talks of sacrificing himself upon the altar of patriotism. It may, of course, very well be that both sides are bluffing, but Mr. Taft, evidently thinks that the moment has arrived at which a gentle hint at the strength of the forces behind him may be useful.

One Havana dispatch declares that the firmness displayed throughout by the insurgent leaders is largely due to their belief that the United States Government is desperately anxious not to be driven into military intervention in Cuba. However this may be, it is quite certain that Gen. Guerra holds all the trumps, so far as the purely Cuban game is concerned. Guerra has 6,000 well-armed men within twenty miles of Havana and men are daily flocking to his flag in large numbers. He is a pretty prudent man, but if he should be tempted to attack Havana while the American Commissioners are there the "fat would be in the fire" with a vengeance. Admittedly, he would not have much difficulty in taking the city, in spite of any force that the Government could bring to bear against him. Doubtless he is restrained solely by the presence of some half-dozen American warships in the harbour.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan says those ships ought not to be where they are; and he is said to be preparing a big speech denunciatory of the whole proceedings of President Roosevelt.

Havana, September 22.

Mr. Taft is reported to have expressed himself in hopeful terms, with regard to the arrangements to meet the representatives of the insurgents in the field, declaring that something might come of it. Nothing of a definite nature has been suggested by the hurried reading of the briefs submitted by the Moderate and Liberal leaders, and the mediators, after sifting the grievances of both sides, define them as a demand by the insurgents for a new general election, and an absolute rejection of the proposal on the part of the Government.

Gen. Pino Guerra's augmented force of 5,300 men entered the province of Havana, and was advancing to encamp outside Marianao, when, to Mr. Taft's great displeasure, Señor Zayas and a number of others were sent out to meet the insurgent leader.

Gen. Guerra then retired to a point 10 miles to the south of Havana to await the decision of the American mediators. The Executive Committee of the Moderate party has agreed to abide by the decision of Mr. Taft and Mr. Bacon, provided the Liberals lay down their arms, and also undertake to accept the decision.

New York, September 23.

According to the latest news from Havana, Mr. Taft and Mr. Bacon have given up hope of arranging the matter in dispute between the rebels and the Government in Havana. They are of opinion that, a decision in favour of either party would only bring about a temporary establishment of peace, and consider that intervention by the United States is the only way to bring to an end the civil war. It is not intended thereby that American intervention must be followed by American rule.

A later cable somewhat contradicts this statement, and says that it seems as though the end of the revolt was imminent, without the intervention of the United States being necessary. Messrs. Taft and Bacon had an interview yesterday with the rebel leaders who have nominated a committee of seven men with full powers to represent the Liberals at tomorrow's conference. Fifteen hundred American sailors and marines are being held in readiness for landing in Havana, whence they will be conveyed in 30 railway coaches to Columbia Camp. This precautionary measure is taken in case the rebels, dissatisfied with the negotiations, attack the town.

TROUBLE WITH THE NEGROES.

Atlanta (Georgia), September 23.

Numerous acts of violence to white women by negroes, have caused the greatest excitement among the white population here. Yesterday a general attack on the negroes began. A mob proceeded to the negro quarter, set on the negroes and negroes with sticks and threw stones at them. The militia was called out but it was a long time before they arrived. It is believed that some 30 negroes have been killed here and in the neighbourhood.

Later.

Police investigation has established the fact that 9 negroes and one negress were killed in the anti-negro riots.

VANDERBILT AUTOMOBILE CUP.

New York, September 23.

At six o'clock yesterday morning the elimination trials for the selection of the five American competitors for the Vanderbilt trophy began over the Nassau county course, which is 29.71 miles in circuit, and round which competitors have to drive 10 times.

There were 12 entries. Eight ambulances from the Nassau Hospital were stationed at different danger points along the course. The car entered in the name of Mr. C. A. Coey, and driven by Leblon, was leading at the end of the third round. Mr. C. A. Singer's car, which was driven by Mengini, was wrecked in the first round. One of the tyres burst and the car swerving struck a telegraph pole. Mengini and his assistant were thrown out, but neither of them was seriously injured.

THE "MONGOLIA" REFLOATED.

London, September 23.

The Central News says that the refloating of the stranded Pacific liner "Mongolia" is one of the most remarkable instances on record where a steamer, after having run ashore in a most dangerous position, floats off unassisted. As showing the serious view taken at Lloyd's of the vessel's position, no less than 50 guineas per cent. was paid for re-insurance on Saturday. In fact, doubts were entertained of the ultimate salvage of the vessel, so pessimistic were the first reports. The salvage expedition, which had been successful in refloating the sister ship "Manchuria" at Honolulu, on the day the "Mongolia" ran ashore, immediately left for Midway Islands, but is not due there for another two days. Meanwhile the "Mongolia", which is stated not to be seriously damaged, has been instructed to await the arrival of the steamer "Buford" before proceeding either to Nagasaki or San Francisco for repairs.

NEWS FROM FRANCE.

CHURCH AND STATE.

Paris, September 23.

The pastoral letter of the French bishops with regard to the separation was read without incident in all the churches of France this morning.

THE FRENCH GARRISON IN CHINA.

Frankfort, September 23.

The Frankfurter Zeitung announces from Tientsin that the General commanding the French garrison there has received orders to cease making any dispositions for reducing the garrison. The strength of the garrison is to remain unchanged.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

THE CZAR'S CRUISE.

St. Petersburg, September 23.

The members of the Imperial family went on shooting excursions along the cliffs on Thursday and Friday; the Imperial flotilla is at Penttilä.

THE REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT.

St. Petersburg, September 23.

The news, first published in the English papers, of a conspiracy against the Imperial family, is declared in influential circles to be entirely untrue. The Palace police as well as the town police when they were informed that the Imperial family were expected back for the regimental fête of the Chevaliers of the Guard, paid particular attention to the inhabitants of Peterhof as well as to strangers who had arrived there; numerous arrests took place but the arrested persons, among them a Palace servant, were nearly all set free for lack of proof. The much talked-of gardener, who as usual played a rôle in all the alleged attempts and who has become a legendary personage, is at liberty. Also nothing is known here of the suicide of an officer from fear of dismissal. Apart from the illness of the Empress Dowager, the Czar gave up his intended visit to the regimental fête, because he wished, in order to take advantage of the beautiful weather, to extend his cruise further than was originally intended.

In the matter of the explosion at the villa of the Minister President, M. Stolypin, 12 more persons have been arrested who, one and all, have admitted their complicity in the crime. At the head of the organisation was a Jewess who at first would not confess, but who later, owing to the evidence of another arrested person, was induced to do so.

During the funeral service for General Trepoff at Peterhof, seven persons were arrested in the Cathedral, but these arrests were not the consequence of an attempted outrage but resulted from remarks as to Trepoff's activity made publicly by the arrested persons.

Riga, September 23.

Last evening at about 6 o'clock as the Governor General, M. Sollohub, was walking in Vessovia Street, a bomb was thrown from the window of a house; it exploded in the road and wrecked a shop window, but did no further damage. A careful search of the house failed to lead to the discovery of the thrower of the bomb.

Kursk, September 23.

An extraordinary assembly of the Government of Kursk held here, has by 98 votes to 3, excluded from the order of nobility four ex-members of the Duma, who signed the Viborg Manifesto of July 23rd. Among the four excluded is the former Vice-President of the Duma, Prince Dolgorukov.

Warsaw, September 23.

In the prison at Mokotoff near Warsaw, 200 political prisoners have refused to take any food in order to obtain alterations in the regulations as to their meeting acquaintances, and also to obtain better food.

A whole company of a Jekaterinenborg regiment has been brought here from Lodz and sentenced by the criminal court to life-long penal servitude for mutiny.

Sosnovice, September 23.

A Cossack company of 300 men, led by an officer of Gendarmerie, surrounded a workman's house in the suburb of Stadlen this afternoon, in order to destroy a bomb factory. The occupants of the house fired on the military who returned the fire. Six workmen were killed and four wounded, while three bombs were confiscated. The wounded were removed to the police barracks. Some soldiers were wounded.

THE RUSSO-JAPANESE INCIDENT.

St. Petersburg, September 23.

The announcement in the English papers of a collision between Japanese fishermen and the Russian authorities in Kamschatka must, according to intelligence from Vladivostok, refer to occurrences which took place in July last. In that month Lieutenant Sotnikoff with 10 Cossacks and two villagers, was sent to the mouth of the Vorofsky river, in order to watch over the fishing industry there. The lieutenant encountered some Japanese fishing thieves and had them arrested. They demanded an explanation and were told that they had been arrested for fish-robbery. Thereupon one Japanese killed Lieutenant Sotnikoff with a dagger; his companions were also attacked. The matter was given to the State Attorney to settle.

Tokio, September 23.

The fishing smack "Kieteimaru", which reached Hakodate from Kamschatka on the 19th, reports that when the cutter ran up the Kaicha river in Kamschatka in order to get fuel and water, he saw on heaps of earth not far from the river's mouth, portions of decomposed human bodies, half washed away by the rain. On nearer inspection they turned out to be the corpses of 11 Japanese, and from the pieces of a boat found at the same time, it was concluded they belonged to a boat named the "Kajetsumaru", missing since July 1st. Blood-spattered clothes, swords and bayonets which were also found, suggested that these Japanese had died a violent death. Natives, of whom enquiry was made, testified that the "Kajetsumaru" was surprised at night by Russian soldiers, who killed the crew and destroyed the ship by fire.

A POLISH DEPUTATION TO A BISHOP.

Siedloe, September 23.

A deputation, accompanied by numerous mounted men handed to the Bishop of Lublin, who is on a tour, a beautiful cushion on which was embroidered the emblem of the Polish Monarchy, a one-headed white eagle with a scarlet beak. On the dress of the riders, who were in Polish national costume, and on their banners was the white eagle. The Jews offered the Bishop bread and salt.

THE CRETAN QUESTION.

The representatives of the four protectory Powers have informed the Minister President that the Powers agree to the proposal of the Government that the King of Greece should nominate Zaimis to the High Commissionership of Crete. Zaimis will leave for Crete next week on board the cruiser "Psara".

SPAIN AND THE VATICAN.

After frequent exchange of notes between the Spanish Government and the Vatican as to religious associations, an agreement has been arrived at on the basis of a former Concordat, which will remain unaltered.

THE MANCHURIAN RAILWAY.

Charbin, September 23.

Agents have been sent by Yuan-chi-kai to persuade the Chinese working on the railway to return to Tchili and to enlist in the regiments organised by Yuan-chi-kai, on the grounds that Chinese are preferred for this service, who know the district, can speak Russian and know where the troops guarding the railway are stationed.

THE OPEN DOOR IN MANCHURIA.

Tokio, September 23.

The opposition of the Russian Press to the opening of the Sungari and other rivers in Manchuria to international trade has been received here with astonishment, since the closing of the Sungari would make the principle of the "open door" entirely non-effective. The opposition is regarded as especially inopportune now, when Japan is showing herself ready to maintain cordial relations with Russia.

NOTES FROM ALL QUARTERS.

A remarkable police episode has just taken place at Geneva, where three young Russians have been arrested under circumstances which at first appeared mysterious. Full explanations, however, are now published. The three young men are students, and their names are George and Leo Kereseldize and Nestor Magoloff, and they are accused of being concerned in one of the most audacious acts of brigandage ever perpetrated, even in Russia. At the small garrison town of Duchedeske, in the Caucasus, on the evening of April 12 last, fifteen minutes before the change of sentries took place, six men entered the barracks in correct uniform, giving the password. Stunning a sentry alone on duty inside the building, they entered the store room, where was a box containing £40,000 for the pay of the troops, and got clear away before the relief sentries arrived. The money is believed to have gone to the revolutionary coffers.

A curious mishap befell one of the competitors in a preliminary heat for the sculling championship of France, held on the River Marne. He was leading his opponent very comfortably when his skiff was suddenly lifted into the air, and he was thrown into the water. The explanation given (says the "Telegraph's" correspondent) was that a man in charge of two horses towing a heavy barge had stopped an instant to allow a motor-boat to pass; he failed to see the scullers coming, urged on his horses, and the rope tightened at the very instant the skiff passed over it, throwing the amazed oarsman into the air. Although his opponent finished the course, he refused to accept a verdict in his favour. He generously gave a walk-over to the unfortunate sculler, by name Delaplaine, who, in the final, was thus able to win the Coupe de Paris and the sculling championship, for the second year in succession.

The Rev. Thomas H. MacFadden, Vicar of Kilmarnagh, Kilkenny, left ten children, ranging in age from five to nineteen years, and the following will which has just been proved in London—"The children will be alike until 23 yrs., except that Frances for 45 jointly the others the majority of the oldest at 23 years. The grandmother is to be and have both have control and possession." It would be interesting to know the present state of mind of the executors.

The "Engineer," in an interesting article on "Spring Wheels," throws very cold water on the efforts of the numerous inventors who are endeavouring to devise a satisfactory substitute for the pneumatic tyre, and asserts that an examination of the specifications filed by these persevering persons reveals the fact that as a body they are entirely ignorant of the precise nature of the mechanical problems which they have set themselves to solve. "The transcendent merit of the pneumatic tyre," says the journal in question, "is that the carrying load is diffused over the whole circumference of the wheel. There is no isolated effort. The pressure of the air is everywhere the same. No purely mechanical device can secure this result in perfection. The nearest approach to it, perhaps, was a wheel tried many years ago, in which the tyre was built up of wood blocks, shaped like the voussoirs of a bridge, solid india-rubber blocks of suitable shape being interposed between each pair of blocks. The load was carried always on an elastic arch and the stress was distributed all round the wheel. But there is no spring in the world which can compare with air under pressure. It has no appreciable mass and no inertia. It will not wear out. It costs nothing for renewal. The weak factor is that it must be enclosed in an elastic tube, and so far no substitute for rubber has been found of which this tube can be made. It is in this direction that inventors should seek success... From time to time it is stated that an elastic wheel full of promise, is being made which will solve every difficulty. Such statements deserve the respect shown to venerable ruins. They have antiquity in their favour and nothing else. All experience past and present tells the same story. No purely mechanical spring wheel can be made which will answer for heavy fast service. The hope of the motor omnibus lies in the production of a cheap substitute for india-rubber or the production of a resilient wheel which will employ air under pressure as a spring."

The metamorphosis of the steam engine-driver into the electric engine motorman is an interesting process now going on among the drivers of the New York Central Railway. In six weeks' time the thirty-five big electric engines, already built by the company, for use over the twenty-five miles of suburban lines, in and out of the Grand Central Station, will begin regular running, and a class of 125 drivers, "engineers" as they are denominated, has begun practical instruction in the mechanism and management of the engines. They must have had at least two years' experience of the lines running in and out of New York, and thus be already familiar with the signals and general rules

Thanks to the welcome break in the rainy weather, the threatened danger of a flood in the Elbe seems to have passed. The river continued to rise with alarming rapidity all day on Sunday, particularly in the forenoon, and to a less extent during the night; but yesterday morning it was officially reported to have reached its highest point. The steamers on Sunday, both up and down stream, were fairly filled with passengers.

DEATH OF A GREAT TEACHER OF SINGING.

One of the most renowned masters and teachers of German song, in its essential significance as well as in its technical treatment, Professor Julius Stockhausen of Frankfurt-on-the-Maine, is no more. He passed peacefully away on Saturday last in the 81st year of his age. Some few years ago he was well known in London, and highly appreciated by the critics as an interpreter of Lieder. His father founded the Académie du chant in Paris, and he himself was a pupil of Manuel Garcia. For nearly a quarter of a century he had directed the famous school of singing which he founded in 1879 in Frankfurt and to which many of the foremost singers of the day owe at least a part of their training; among them Scheide-mantel, Lillian Sanderson, Hermine Spies, Max Alvary, and Sistermans. His "Gesangsunterrichtsmethode" is a standard work of solid value.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 1st Grenadier Regiment No. 100. The band plays about 12.40 p. m. in the Neustadt.

of the railway. There has been keen competition among the old drivers for the promotion to the new engines, and for years to come there will be little need to seek motormen from outside sources. The familiar oil-stained and grimy steam engine-driver and his coaly stoker will soon have disappeared. In every respect the conditions of the engineer will have been improved. The old open dusty cab has given place to a roomy neat compartment, with oilcloth-covered seats, from which the controller and the brake are easily handled. The whistle and the bell are retained in the new engines, and it will be long before the latter's jangle is made unnecessary by the enclosure of the tracks through streets of country towns, which is gradually going on. The whistle is a more powerful instrument than ever, with a deep sound that is a cross between an automobile's toot and a fog-horn, and is audible at a distance of two miles and a half. As the engines are double-enders, the engineer simply changes his seat to the other side of the compartment, and in itself the elimination of the necessity to go to the turn-table will mean an important saving of time and increase in the utility of the engine.

A correspondent sends us the following. We cannot help suspecting that he omitted to look at the date of the paper, for the story is of hoary antiquity. However, it may be new to someone so we give it in our correspondent's own words. "We read in a Texas paper the other day an account of a duel between Col. Alex. Shott, and Judge D. Nott.—Nott was shot and Shott was not—in this case it would have been much better to have been Shott than Nott—There appears to have been a rumour that Nott was not shot, but Shott avows that he shot Nott—in which case either the shot Shott shot not, or Nott was shot notwithstanding. Then, on the other hand, as accidents with firearms are unhappily so frequent it may have been possible that the shot Shott shot, shot Shott himself, when things would resolve themselves to their original condition and Shott would be shot, and Nott would be not. We however incline to the opinion that Nott was shot, and Shott was not. Anyhow it is very hard to find out who was shot."

A correspondent of the Times who, in his travels through Russia, has moved among all classes, says that the cherished possession in many houses was an album containing photographs of assassins. A girl of seventeen called her collection her "pantheon." On its first page was a picture representing a girl thrusting into the hands of her lover a revolver, with which he was to go forth and assassinate. Then followed photographs of Kalayeff, who assassinated the Grand Duke Serge, of Sozonoff, who assassinated Plehve, and of many others—assassins all. There was also an extract from a letter written in prison by Marie Spiridonova, who killed M. Luzhanofsky, the Vice-Governor of Tamboff. On the fly-leaf of the album was written in English:—

Lives of great ones all remind me
I can make my life sublime.

A royal reception was promised Mr. Bernard Shaw if he would attend the production of his "Caesar and Cleopatra" in New York on Oct. 29. He replied to the invitation on a post-card addressed from "The Coast of Cornwall":—"It is just that royal reception that makes it impossible for me to come. If I could come quietly without consulting America, without delivering a hundred addresses to enormous crowds, without a salute of 101 guns, and without the risk of being forcibly naturalised, elected President, and subsequently seized and imprisoned by Mr. Comstock, then I might come. Besides, I am writing a new play, an astonishingly good one. I had no idea I had so much good left in me."

BENIGHTED MOUNTAINEERS.

Italian Alpine chasseurs have during the past two days rescued a party of French climbers from Nice from a position of desperate peril. The party, under the direction of a guide, had climbed the Fremmanmorti Peak, when the sky, which had been bright, became thickly overcast, and a heavy storm came on. Scarcely able to see in front, even the guide lost his bearings, and for three hours the party strayed aimlessly hither and thither, exposed to all the force of the storm. Night was now fast drawing on, and as the wayfarers were worn out with fatigue as well as lost, the position was one of the greatest danger. Luckily, after a little more rambling, one of the party noticed a distant light, and towards this they walked, shouting loudly for help. After a time shouts were heard in reply, and before long the wanderers were met by several Italian Alpine chasseurs, under their lieutenant, who, attracted by their shouts, had left their mountain outpost station to succour them. That night was spent in the soldier's quarters.

ANAESTHETICS IN CRIME.

Chloroform and automobiles are beginning to be associated with the operations of the swell mob predatory class in France. It is stated that a young girl of 18, belonging to a well-to-do family, was on Tuesday met on the Place Friedland by two well-dressed men, of whom one seized her arms and the other put a handkerchief to her nostrils and she became unconscious. She was then carried to an automobile, and was afterwards found in a lonely spot in a dazed condition. Another chloroform story is that a man frequenting wealthy circles has been arrested in a leading Paris hotel as he was proceeding to rob a lady overcome by a narcotic contained in a bouquet of flowers which he had presented to her. He is stated to have masqueraded under the name of Prince de Tehlendro.

FOWLERS IN CLOVER.

Africa and the capacious East may be all very well for the Nimrods who can be satisfied with less than lions or tigers, but for the ordinary sport of the fowler the less densely populated countries of Europe seem to offer all that can reasonably be desired. Hungary figures so largely as a game-exporting country, that the country might almost be described as the covert of Europe. Moravia is also a paradise for small shot. Herr Anton Dreher has been entertaining a party at his Moravian shooting-box, and nine guns brought down in a single day's shooting 3,868 partridges. It is probable that no grouse moor in England or Scotland ever yielded a "bag" like this.

LATEST TELEGRAMS.

Stockholm, September 24. The Dagens Nyheter reports that Luvto, the leader of the Finnish "Red Guard", and two other Finns were arrested on Saturday in a house in Westmannastreet, in which a bomb factory had been discovered. All three men had arrived here on the previous day in the steamer "Bore". Two Browning revolvers and a pistol were found in their rooms.

Constantinople, September 24. In contradiction to reports which have been circulated elsewhere, that Prince Ferdinand had spoken in strong terms to Nedshib Pasha Melame and that Nedshib Pasha had assured him that the Sultan would issue an Irade in favour of Bulgaria and Macedonia, it is asserted in official circles here that such reports are incorrect; and that, on the contrary, according to the report of Nedshib Pasha, the Prince had given formal assurances of the loyal attitude of Bulgaria towards Turkey.
