NEWS FROM FRANCE.

THE FRENCH SENATE.

Paris, January 14.

After the House had passed the Labour Ministry Estimates, a discussion began on the estimates of the Ministry of Public Works.

M. Perrier referred to the French railways and remarked that France had only two lines leading into Italy while Germany had eight; this state of things should be remedied not only for economic but for political reasons. The speaker asked if the Italian Government had granted their consent to the construction of a second line from Modane to Susa on the Paris-Turin section.

M. Barthou, Minister of Public Works, replied that he had every hope that the line from Modane would be reconstructed. The time had come when the question of lines leading into Italy must be solved in the national interests; the Government would hasten their decision.

These estimates as well as those of the Colonies were then passed and the House adjourned.

A TURKISH OFFICIAL IN DISGRACE.

Paris, January 14.

The Agence Havas announces from Smyrna that Kiamil Pascha, whom the Sultan had sent as Governor General to Smyrna, believed that he had fallen into disfavour and fled to the English Consulate General. Thence he appealed to the Sultan by telegraph to allow him to return to his home in Cyprus. The military commandant has been appointed temporary Governor of Rhodes.

Constantinople, January 14.

Kiamil Pasha was Wali of Smyrna and was banished to Rhodes on account of the robberies committed by his son Said Pasha. He still remains at the English Consulate General although the Sultan has offered him free choice of a place of residence in the Turkish empire.

Later.

Kiamil Pasha has left the English consulate after receiving permission from the Sultan to return to Constantinople.

THE MOROCCAN CRISIS.

Toulon, January 14.

The cruiser "Charlemagne" arrived in the roads here from Tangier this afternoon. She will enter the harbour basin tomorrow to undergo repairs. The "Charlemagne" brings the news from Tangier that the situation there is satisfactory. During her stay in Moroccan waters, officers and men of the crew went ashore daily, without encountering any hostility. Several officers were present at the reading of the Sultan's proclamation ordering Raisuli's deposition. It is believed that Raisuli still remains in the thickets in the vicinity of Zinat. During the bombardment of this town the French ships refrained from attacking, and remained at a distance of 7 kilometres from the coast. Admiral Touchard has announced his intention of returning with the cruisers "Suffren" and "Saint Louis" at the beginning of February. According to one report the armoured cruiser "Condé" is to proceed to Tangier.

Berlin, January 14.

With reference to the complaints made by the Paris Temps on the occasion of Major v. Tschudi and Captain Wolf having entered the Moroccan service the Nordd. Allg. Ztg. states: Major v. Tschudi, who has hitherto been serving in the railway regiment and the telegraph department, is an officer who is a good linguist and proficient in all technical branches; he accompanied the German envoy Dr. Rosen on his journey to Fez and was then engaged by the Sultan as his adviser in any technical questions that might arise. It is possible that he may also be employed by the Sultan, as is allowed by Article 108 of the Algeciras decrees, in drawing up estimates and plans for public works for which tenders are in the near future to be asked. The right to choose his advisers for his enterprises unquestionably falls to the Sultan as sovereign of an independent country. Whether Herr v. Tschudi has at the same time received private instructions from the firm of Krupp, in order in some way to further their private interests, we do not know. In any case these can be no breach of the regulation that public branches of the service in the Shereefian empire cannot be utilised for private interests or of a breach of the clauses of the Algeciras decrees as to the carrying out of public works. Captain Wolf goes to Morocco merely as the Major's companion. Neither he nor the Major have been engaged as instructors.

London, January 15.

The Daily Telegraph announces from Tangier that a store has been opened in Mogador for the sale of Chassepot rifles and cartridges which will be offered to all the natives who are leaving for the interior.

Madrid, January 14.

It was announced at the Ministry for Foreign Affairs today that, in consequence of the flight of Raisuli, the reasons which justified the presence of French and Spanish warships in Tangier waters no longer existed; the warships will therefore be ordered back if the Sultan guarantees the establishment of a police force.

Madrid, January 15.

The Ministerial Council has empowered the Minister for Foreign Affairs to come to an understanding with the French Government as to the withdrawal of some of the Naval forces lying off Tangier.

GAS-EXPLOSION.

Posen, January 15.

A violent explosion occurred today in the meter-house of the Town Gas Works. The building was entirely destroyed and the neighbouring buildings suffered great injury. Almost all the windows and many of the doors in the houses in the Graben and Dammstrasse were shattered and some of the rooms were wrecked. There was no loss of life and four people only were slightly hurt. The cause of the explosion has not been ascertained as yet.
