THE KINGSTON DISASTER.

Kingston, January 22.

The work of clearing away the débris goes on uninterrupted; two banks have reopened their premises and thereby relieved the inconvenience caused by the lack of money. Many merchants are making arrangements to reopen their establishments by the end of the week. The electric tramway company has partially resumed its service. Large orders for building material &c. have been placed in England and America.

Frankfort o. M., January 22.

The Frankfurter Zeitung learns from New York that further severe earthquake shocks have been felt at Kingston.

THE SWETTENHAM INCIDENT.

FEELING IN AMERICA.

New York, January 22.

It is almost impossible to exaggerate the sensation caused here by the quarrel between Rear-Admiral Davis and the Governor of Jamaica, of which the newspapers give every possible detail. In some quarters the affair has aroused slumbering anti-British prejudice, and intemperate language can be heard and read. But most people express genuine regret that such an incident should have been possible between, above all people in the world, a British Governor and a United States naval officer of the first rank, and confidently predict that it will be satisfactorily explained and arranged.

The firing of a salute by the American warships, after the Admiral had been requested for admittedly good and sufficient reasons to refrain from performing that ceremony, was evidently the result of a misunderstanding, but the landing of armed men from those same ships without either permission asked from or request made by the British authorities is thought to be difficult of explanation, and further information on the subject is awaited at Washington. The hope generally expressed is that the unhappy incident will be very speedily closed by frank, diplomatic procedure. Meantime, it is to be feared that the various funds started here for the relief of the sufferers will have to be closed forthwith.

NEWS FROM FRANCE.

THE WAR AGAINST THE CHURCH.

Paris, January 22.

At today's Cabinet Council the Prime Minister, M. Clémenceau, announced that he would today introduce in the Chamber a proposal whereby the formality of declarations as to public assemblies would be removed but would still remain operative for educational officials.

At today's meeting of the Senate the Public Education Budget was discussed. The Minister of Education, M. Briand, replying to several Members of the Right with regard to the Law of 1904 which forbids congregational education, said that the Government had taken up the gauntlet thrown before them by the Catholics as gently as possible. The latter had answered with an implacability which might prove pregnant with fate for them. They would never succeed in deceiving the country. Laïcising would be carried out in spite of their opposition.

The general debate was then closed.

M. CLÉMENCEAU ON THE AIMS OF THE MINISTRY.

Paris, January 22.

At the banquet of the Republican Committee for Trade and Industry M. Clémenceau made a speech in which he assured those present that it was the firm intention of the Government to deal justly with all, friend and foe; they were determined to maintain peace at home and abroad and would only introduce such reforms as confirmed the rights of the working classes and carried on the work of the French revolution and the founders of modern France.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

THE REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT.

Warsaw, January 22.

The strike contemplated on the occurring of the anniversary of the revolution was a failure. By order of the authorities the schools are closed. Terrible cold prevails here.

Lodz, January 22.

Today being the anniversary of the revolution all work in the factories is at a standstill; shops and banks are closed and there is little traffic in the streets.

St. Petersburg, January 22.

The 22nd of January passed off quietly and work went on in nearly all the factories. Towards evening the typesetters and foremen of the newspaper printing works laid down their work so that only a few journals will appear tomorrow. During the night the premises of an electro-technical institution were searched by the police. At 9 a. m. the laboratory was closed, seals being placed upon the doors. Students and other visitors to the institute were detained during the morning, bomb cases and arms are said to have been discovered.

Legal proceedings are to be taken against members of the central committee of the Popular Socialist Party among whom are some Duma candidates. The efforts of the Social Democrat Party to provoke a strike today in memory of the events of January 22, 1905, have proved a failure. The day passed off everywhere quietly and without incident save in Lodz, where the factories and shops were closed and no newspapers appeared.

The Ministry of the Interior has laid before the Imperial Council a Bill providing for the inalienability of persons in their own residence and of their correspondence. By this Bill every person arrested without an order from a magistrate must be brought before a magistrate or released, within 24 hours.

RUSSIAN TRADE.

St. Petersburg, January 22.

Russia's trade by sea with the Far East is in a deplorable plight. Owing to there being absolutely no demand for Russian wares in the Far East the "Volunteer Fleet" has been running at a great loss, especially as no exporters will run the risk of sending cargoes out to the Far East. The Russian Steamship and Trading Company has just suspended its sailings, and refuses to accept any freight for the Far East.

INTENSE COLD.

St. Petersburg, January 22.

Telegrams from various parts of the empire announce a continuance of intense cold; 47 degrees below zero (F.) being registered. The South East railway is blocked by snow. The harbour of Odessa is frostbound, so that steamers lying there were unable to render assistance to a ship wrecked outside. Many deaths from frostbite are announced. The schools in various towns have been closed.

THE ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP A RUSSIAN SHIP.

Cairo, January 22.

The three men implicated in the projected bomb outrage on a steamer are to be forwarded by the next mail boat to Russia.

THE MOROCCAN CRISIS.

Tangier, January 22.

The Dragomans of the French and Spanish embassies visited Mohammed el Torres today to hand him the joint Note of the Paris and Madrid Cabinets, translated into Arabic, with the same formalities as the Franco-Spanish Note of December 5th.

The French and Spanish Admirals will leave Tangier roads tomorrow. It is believed that a French ship, probably the despatch-boat "Forbin", will remain, as hitherto, in the roads.

Tangier, January 22.

There is a rumour that the commander of the Mahalla, Ben Ghazi, has ordered all the tribes of the Fahs to join the Mahalla tonight near Zinat. It is believed that Ben Ghazi intends to take up the pursuit of Raisuli who is with the Caid Benim Suar.

A DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Tokio, January 22.

The main building of the Traffic Department has been burnt down. The fire is believed to have been caused by an over-heated stove; the damage done amounts to a million Yen.

JAPAN'S FOREIGN RELATIONS.

Tokio, January 22.

Marquis Saimiji, the Prime Minister, expounded the Government's policy in the House of Peers today. He said that the Anglo-Japanese alliance was firmly established, the relations with other Powers became ever more friendly, the negotiations with Russia were going on successfully and the progress made since the late war pointed to further developments in the future.

DRAMATIC NOTES.

LONDON THEATRES AND AMUSEMENTS.

(From our London correspondent.)

Nothing startling in the way of novelty in the theatrical world is to be reported as having taken place last week. The chief topic of conversation has naturally been the invitation of the German Emperor for Mr. Tree to give his Shakespeare representations at the new Royal Opera House, Berlin, which Mr. Tree will do in April; he is himself looking forward to his visit with the utmost interest. He assures me that he will spare no pains nor expense to give such representations at the German capital as shall prove worthy of the high mark of favour bestowed on him.

At Berlin Mr. Tree will present "Hamlet" without scenery, also "The Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Twelfth Night" in addition to "Antony and Cleopatra". The performances are to commence on April 12.

Mr. Arthur Bouchier has given us a very fine revival of "Macbeth" which is now to be witnessed every Wednesday and Thursday afternoon at the Garrick Theatre.

On the occasion of the opening of the new Playhouse next Monday by Mr. Cyril Maude, Mme. Clara Butt will sing "God Save the King" and Mr. George Bernard has written a prologue which will be spoken by Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude.

"Toddles" will that night be played for the 170th time and after it Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bouchier will appear in "Sixes and Sevens". Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hicks will sing a duet, and Mr. Beerbohm Tree will terminate the proceedings by playing in a one-act piece.

At the Savoy Theatre, Mrs. D'Oyly Carte revived "The Gondoliers" last night, every available seat in the house having been taken long before. This appears to be the most successful of all the recent revivals.

Mr. G. P. Huntley has returned from Holland where he has been with the object of discovering local colour for his part in "Miss Hook of Holland", that of a middle-aged Dutch distiller.

America has been very kind to Mr. Willard during his Transatlantic tour; it ends at Cleveland, Ohio, on April 6. On his return to England Mr. Willard will take a well earned rest before appearing once more in London.

A new comedy entitled "The Palace of Puck" has been written by Mr. William Locke and has been purchased by Mr. Frederick Harrison for the Haymarket Theatre, when wanted. "Lady Huntworth's Experiment", however, seems to have taken a fresh lease of life and is doing decidedly better at the Haymarket Theatre than it did at the Criterion.

The Lord Mayor of London has accepted the offer of the Alhambra management to give a special matinee on Friday next for the relief of the unfortunate sufferers in Jamaica.

Miss Margaret Cooper has returned to the Palace Theatre and received a very hearty welcome.

LOCAL.

H. M. the King intends to pay a visit to H. M. the King of Portugal in March next. He will proceed to Lisbon by sea from Hamburg. The visit will probably last three weeks.

H. M. the King has approved of the appointment of Mr. Ulysses J. Bywater as Deputy Consul General of the United States of America in Dresden.

GENERAL NEWS.

(From our London correspondent.)

Severe comments have been made in London during the past few days on the action taken by Sir Alexander Swettenham, the Governor of Jamaica towards Rear-Admiral Davis, the commander of the American vessels despatched by President Roosevelt to help the sufferers at Kingston.

Great excitement has naturally been caused in America at the astounding action taken by Sir Alexander Swettenham, and general indignation is being expressed in England at the manner in which the friends in need have been treated.

Earlier reports of the number of deaths caused by the terrible earthquake at Kingston turn out to be far below the marks and no less than 1,800 bodies have now been found. More than half of them have not been identified.

An officer connected with the Balloon Section at Aldershot has recently stated that Great Britain would be able to meet in mid-air the aerial fleet of a foreign power.

Nearly 500 men are being trained for service in Britain's future aerial fleet. This aerial force is to comprise balloons, kites, and aeroplanes. One of the balloons is to be launched within the next few months.

Princess Henry of Battenberg with two of her sons attended a service in memory of Prince Henry of Battenberg at Whippingham Church, Isle of Wight. The Battenberg Chapel, which contains the remains of the late Prince, was tastefully decorated with flowers.

Among the company present at the German Opera, Covent Garden, for the performance of "Tristan and Isolde" was the Duke of Orleans.

The American Ambassador and his family are expected to arrive in London on the 27th inst. from the United States.

Lady de Winton, widow of Sir Francis Winton, Comptroller of the King's Household, when His Majesty was Prince of Wales, has for some days been lying seriously ill at her apartments in Hampton Court Palace.

Addressing a meeting of the Eddisbury Division of Cheshire last Saturday, Lord Stanley of Alderley said the question of reforming the House of Lords had lain dormant since 1885, but he thought the Liberal Party were now deeply in earnest with regard to the matter.

An accident happened to a motor-omnibus at Barnes on Sunday night. When passing along Barnes Terrace just by the White Hart Hotel, it suddenly swerved to one side, breaking down the railings nearest the river, and, running down the bank on to the tow-path, it plunged into the water.

The fore part of the omnibus sank about four feet deep into the river mud. Luckily there were only two passengers who were on the top and they escaped uninjured. The conductor jumped off before the vehicle entered the water, and the driver got to shore through managing to clamber over the front of the car. It is believed that some of the steering gear had given way.

The motor 'bus was recovered on Monday morning and taken back to the garage. The 'bus was hauled from its position in the water by means of a traction engine, and is stated to be little the worse for its exploit.

General Booth is endeavouring to purchase the Southend Kursaal and pleasure grounds, which with the adjoining hotel were constructed about 10 years ago at a cost of £100,000. The object is to convert it into a labour colony, and £50,000 has been offered for it, the price asked being £75,000.

Perhaps the latest addition to the "thought reading" controversy in London is the challenge of Trilby and Svengali to the Zancigs, through the manager of the Hippodrome, Mr. Fred Trussel. They say if the Zancigs will undertake to perform the act at present being produced by them at the Hippodrome, before competent judges, they will be prepared there and then to duplicate the act of the Zancigs at the Alhambra.

The Public Control Committee recommend that regulations shall be framed to take effect in London on February 1 under the Dogs Order, making it compulsory that dogs on the highway shall wear collars bearing the name and address of their owners.

An inquest was held last Saturday on the young carpenter, John Collins, who was found lying unconscious behind a circular saw in the Chemical Research Department at Woolwich Arsenal. Death was evidently due to the saw having thrown off wood which had struck deceased, fracturing his skull, when he was trying to feed a length of wood into the circular saw. A verdict of "Accidental death" was returned, the jury declaring that there ought to be a guard attached to the saw.

Lovejoy won his billiard match with Harverson by 732 points. He eclipsed all previous efforts by making a break of 603 which included 284 cannons, the previous best having been the 159 consecutive cannons made by Cook against Lovejoy in 1905.

Great demonstrations testifying the immense popularity of Lord Charles Beresford were witnessed last Saturday at Malta upon his relinquishing the command of the Mediterranean Fleet, and sailing for England.

Dr. Bunbury, Protestant Bishop of Limerick, died last Saturday at Limerick aged 77.

Dr. Alexander Peddie whose death at the age of 97 is announced as having taken place at Edinburgh was the oldest medical man in Scotland.

The Offices in London of Mr. Charles Frohman have been removed from the Aldwych Theatre to the Hicks Theatre in Shaftesbury Avenue.

By permission of Lady Naylor Leyland, the annual exhibition of the Royal Amateur Society will be held at Hyde Park House, Knightsbridge from 7 to 10 March.

In spite of poor health, M. Revoil has decided to undertake the post given to him of French Ambassador to Spain.

An attempt has been made to wreck a mail train from Dublin to Belfast near Newry. A number of stones had been placed on the line between the sleepers. On arrival at Newry the locomotive was found to have been badly damaged.

It is well known in London that the Lady Mayress is an excellent cook and an expert needle-woman, whilst much of her spare time is devoted to gardening at Grange Mount, Upper Norwood.

At the same time Lady Treloar has no sympathy with the modern woman, and is totally antagonistic to smoking and the growing love for club life among women.

The Town Hall Committee of Holborn Borough Council have considered the scheme of Alderman Ridge, to convert the ground floor of the Town Hall into shops. The cost of the alterations in making five shops is estimated at £1,700.

Very few bright colours were worn by ladies on Sunday last at the Church Parade in Hyde Park, the predominating colour being various shades of orchid and dull red.

The Earl and Countess of Morton will soon take up their abode at Dalmahoy Castle, Midlothian, in which the late Countess who died last week, had a life interest.

Lord Tweedmouth arrived at Nice on board the Admiralty yacht Enchantress, and went ashore to visit friends.

On the return of Lady St. Helier from abroad she will go to Newbury where she is having a house built. Meanwhile her ladyship's house in Harley Street has been lent to Mr. and Mrs. Allhusen as additions are being made to Stoke Court.

Mr. Alfred Vanderbilt who sailed from New York last Saturday will attend a conference in connection with the coming International Horse Show at Olympia.

Mr. Root the American Secretary of State who is on a visit to Earl de Grey at Ottawa says he has often visited Canada, and likes Canada and the Canadians. In that, he declares, he is a representative of the people of his own country.

Miss Connie Ediss had a great send off last Saturday at Waterloo Station when she started en route to Johannesburg. She has a nine week's engagement in South Africa and may then go to Australia. Miss Ediss thinks that there is no place, like the "dear old Strand", and that she will soon be longing to get back there.

Criticising music generally, Sir A. Mackenzie rather denounced Richard Strauss. He declares composing to be quite easy nowadays, as no one takes any notice of rules, but does just what he likes.

The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire spent the last week-end at Brighton on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sassoon.

CURRENT TOPICS IN AMERICA.

(By letter dated January 7th, from our New York correspondent.)

THE SITUATION IN CUBA.

When first the Cuban disturbances necessitated the interference of the American Government, it was pointed out that certain circles in the Pearl of Antilles, principally business circles, were again eagerly advocating a lasting American Protectorate in Cuba, by asserting that the Cubans could never govern themselves in independence, and that disturbances, most prejudicial to business interests, would always break out again. The agitation for the establishment of an American protectorate is still being carried on sub rosa in Cuban and American circles. And now the New York Herald openly and without hesitation enters the lists in favour of an American protectorate after the pattern of the English protectorate in Egypt, and causes every day press opinions and others to be cabled from Cuba championing to the same extent the institution of a protectorate of that kind.

In view of this agitation it must be admitted that there are in the United States numerous circles which count upon Cuba sooner or later falling under American control, simply because the Cubans can never restore law and order for any length of time. The delight in "revolutionizing" is in the very blood of the Cubans, in fact in that of all the inhabitants of the tropical districts of America. The American Government has, however, striven hitherto not to interfere in Cuban concerns more than is absolutely necessary; it recognises that, even if both Cuba and the United States would reap much advantage from such a protectorate, America would nevertheless be laying upon herself a far heavier burden than that which the Philippines have already proved.

It remains but to wait and see how much support will be accorded by public opinion to this agitation which is being thus zealously carried on. The new Cuban elections take place in a few months; they will result, it has already been prophesied, in a Liberal victory; 73 per cent of the Liberal election are negroes and the negroes will then rule the island. The Moderate Party, which was in power up to the American intervention, states, however, that it will never submit to be ruled by the negroes and that the new elections will be followed immediately by a revolution. The leader of the white Liberals is Señor Zayas, who is a candidate for the Presidency, as is Señor Miguel Gomez. The latter is a white, but sides with the negroes. The controversy between these two threatens to cause a rift in the Liberal party. In view of a situation so uncertain it is easy to understand that American business interests in Cuba are in favour of the permanent control of Cuba by the United States.

THE JAMESTOWN EXHIBITION.

The exhibition to be held next summer in Jamestown, Virginia, will be the occasion of a great military spectacle. The "Jamestown Exhibition Company" has sent an invitation to all foreign Powers to allow themselves to be represented by battleships or army officers, and nearly all the countries appealed to have consented. Chili will send two battleships, Italy, Portugal and Sweden one each, while it is rumoured unofficially that Great Britain, France, Germany, Japan and possibly Russia will be represented by a fleet of their most modern ships. The programme for the exhibition, which takes place to mark the 300th anniversary of the first settlement of Jamestown, includes various manoeuvres both ashore and afloat, balloon races, international athletic contests, in which latter foreign countries will be strongly represented, submarine races and other events of that kind. It is interesting to note that various American circles have protested against the "extravagant militarism" of the Jamestown programme. A New York journal remarks on the point that it cannot see that the desire to break the peace of the world is likely to be increased by such spectacles any more than a by panorama of the Battle of Gettysburg or by the depicting the bombardment of Jerusalem at the pleasure resort on Coney Island.

LOCAL.

Our London correspondent's reference to Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree's forthcoming visit to Berlin leads us to express the wish that the management of the Royal Theatres here would endeavour to induce Mr. Tree to extend his visit to Germany and give one or two performances in Dresden. Mr. Tree has long been recognised in London as the greatest producer of plays yet seen, and his production of "Midsummer Night's Dream" was almost bewildering in its exquisite scenic effects. Mr. Tree excels particularly in his management of stage crowds, and the behaviour of the mob during Antony's oration over the dead Caesar and at the jousts in "Richard II." were triumphs of stage-management. It may not be generally known that Mr. Tree was the creator of the part of the "Private Secretary" in England, a part played afterwards with such extraordinary success by Mr. Penley, later to become famous as "Charley's Aunt".

Among the numerous special attractions at the Press Ball "Wild West", which takes place on February 1st, none are likely to be more popular than the Cabaret of Artists, and the Nigger Variety show, for the programmes of both are to contain highly novel and original numbers. In the former, musical representations, as yet undreamed of, will be given by chanteuses more Indian than the Indians, by pianists whose patten will delight everyone, and by musical prodigies whose violin playing will put Mischa Elman completely in the shade! The Nigger Variety show will take place in the Ratskeller and will contain many priceless gems of real Yankee humour. For this show the management have secured niggers such as even in America have never been encountered. A number of marvellously trained, quite unique animals will perform astounding feats.

All the theatrical pieces down for performance will be quite new to Dresden. For example, a highly melodramatic opera "Black Salome" will cause such side-splitting laughter that money is sure to be turned away from the doors. It will also be supremely interesting to hear "Pagliacci" and the "Lustige Witwe" given by performers of somewhat more swarthy hue than usual. There will also be Roman and Japanese wrestling, marvellous recitations and instrumental performances in the real American style; in short the cosy Ratskeller will, for the occasion, be the home of the Muse of laughter.

In view of Herr Walther Bachmann's Schumann recital on Monday next, the many admirers of that popular Dresden pianist will be interested to know that, when he won the Mendelssohn Prize at the Leipzig Conservatorium, Professor Joachim wrote of him that he was a "predestined Schumann player"; and further that Herr Bachmann often had the honour of being "commanded" by the late King Albert to the Castle to play Schumann compositions, of which the sonata in F-sharp-minor, that stands first on next Monday's was His Majesty's favourite. It is also an interesting fact in Herr Bachmann's musical experience that the last concert attended by King Albert was a Bachmann-Trio evening when that Sonata was the pianoforte solo.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 177th Regiment. The Band plays about 12.30 p. m. at the Schloss Platz. Until further notice, owing to the rebuilding of the Augustus Bridge, the guard and band will march over the Carola Bridge.

CONCERT NOTICES.

At the concert to be given this evening at 7 o'clock in the Palmengarten by Ada Thomas (piano) and Hans Neumann (violin) the following programme will be performed: Bach's C-minor sonata for violin and piano; Bach's chaconne for violin; Sherwood's sonata in F for violin and piano (manuscript); piano solos: Brahms' Intermezzo in E-flat, Rhapsody in B-minor and Capriccio in B-minor; Cesar Franck's sonata for violin and piano.

Michel de Sicard (violin), who recently appeared with great success in London, has chosen the following programme for his concert in the Palmengarten on Saturday, January 26th: Bach's concerto No. 2 in E; Tenaglia's (1600) aria; Ries' Perpetuum mobile; Wagner's Romanze; Sevcik's Danse Slave; Saint-Saëns' concerto No. 3 in B-minor; Paganini's Le streghe.

The bitterly cold night had no effect on the attendance at the subscription ball in aid of the funds of the Albert Verein given at the Central Theatre on Tuesday evening and patronised by Royalty. The whole of the seats on the floor of the house had been removed, a large space being available for dancing; tables were placed under electric lighted canopies round the walls. On the stage were green pillars festooned with pink roses, at the back being a bandstand in which the theatre orchestra, under the conductorship of Herr Pittrich, played alternately with the military band of the 2nd Grenadier Regiment, conducted by Herr Schröder, stationed in the second circle.

His Majesty King Friedrich August arrived just before nine o'clock and took his seat in the Royal box which had been arranged in the centre of the dress circle, having on his left H. R. H. Princess Johann Georg and on his right H. M. Queen Carola, on whose right were T. R. H. Prince Johann Georg and Princess Mathilde. As a prelude to the ball a short performance took place on the stage, Madame Charlotte Wiehé singing some half dozen songs, and the well known humourist Felix Schweighofer giving an exceedingly amusing monologue, his account of his first visit to Strauss' "Salome", causing much laughter.

The performance concluded with an exhibition of bioscope pictures of the entry of Prince and Princess Johann Georg into Dresden. The final picture shows the Burgomaster addressing the newly married pair, and the energetic movement of his lips, no sound, of course, being heard, has an indescribably comic effect, and seemed much to amuse the Prince and Princess.

Dancing then began and continued with much spirit until the small hours. His Majesty did not remain long after the performance, but Queen Carola did not leave until nearly 11 o'clock.

The Central Café had been transformed into a maze, the waiters being in 17th century costume; the decorations of the room were most effective, but the smell of paint was somewhat overpowering. The tunnel became for the nonce a devils' kitchen and was exceedingly popular throughout the evening. The scheme of colour was of course red, the band wore crimson robes, and the waiters, each one attired as a Mephistopheles, added yet another dash of scarlet to the scene. At intervals a ballet of some twenty girls performed a weird dance to the music from Offenbach's "Orphée aux Enfers" round a large brazier which stood in the centre of the room and which, with its blue-illuminated skeleton heads, represented, presumably, the fires of hell. The ceilings of the numerous alcoves in the "tunnel", covered with some shining material in which were set large bats, their wings studded with electric lamps, had a curious but most picturesque effect.

The second circle was crowded with spectators who seemed never to tire of gazing at the brilliant toilets and bright uniforms of the gay throng below.

Supper was served in the Wein-Restaurant and foyer of the theatre, but as time went on it was easy to see that the "tunnel" was far the more popular resort and it soon became almost inconveniently crowded. The large attendance must have given great satisfaction to the promoters of the ball, and the funds of that most deserving institution, the Albert Verein, should have been considerably augmented.

On the occasion of the Soirée of the Lehmann-Osten Ladies' Choir on Tuesday evening, the Palmengarten presented a festive appearance with its serried rows of gay costumes and keenly interested countenances. The honours of the evening were divided between the Choir, the eminent choral composer Herr Jüngst, and the youthful pianiste Fräulein Johanna Thamm; and alternate pianoforte and choral performances were the order of the concert with which the Soirée began.

Fräulein Thamm once more proved herself an excellent exponent of the Dresden school of music; playing with brilliant, thorough, and often surprisingly smooth execution and correct expression such test pieces of intelligence and technique as Liszt's Concert Etude in D-flat and "Gnomonreigen", while her feeling for music of a graver and stronger cast was shown in her clear and forcible rendering of Max Reger's ingenious Prelude and Fugue for the left hand alone.

The Choir sang very accurately and musically eight numbers in all, some of which were by Professor Jüngst, and conducted by him with admirable effect; the others were a good selection from the choral songs of the Hamburg composer Thieriot, and went so well under the persuasive baton of Herr Lehmann-Osten that two of the longest had to be repeated; one of these being the "Abschied vom Meer", in which the baritone solo verse and part were contributed by Herr Guido Frank. Herr Frank possesses a tuneful voice of no great power but of a good quality with more of the tenor than baritone timbre; he was evidently suffering from hoarseness, but sang with spirit and was much applauded.

The close of the concert was marked by the ceremony of presenting the diploma of honorary membership of the Choir to Professor Jüngst. Director Lehmann-Osten delivered an eloquent address, and the diploma with a wreath and floral offerings were carried by a party of "Ehrenjungfrauen". Professor Jüngst returned thanks in a few words, expressive of his hope that the Lehmann-Osten Choir may flourish, to the credit of German art.

Richard Strauss' "Salome" has been given with great success at a special performance in the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, before a large number of invited guests. A great sensation was caused by the magnificent orchestra 138 strong. Olive Fremstad sang the title rôle, Carl Burrian being the Herodes. The first public performance was to take place on Tuesday evening.

On Tuesday night the thermometer again fell below zero and the unusually severe frost shows no sign of breaking. All the rinks are open for skating. The Akad. Sport Club play ice hockey every morning at Gordon's Rink, in George Bähr Strasse, commencing at 11.30.

Tram No. 9 which runs from Strehlen to the Waldschlösschen is to cross the Carolabrücke for the present owing to the lines on the Augustusbrücke having to be shifted to the temporary bridge.
