THE KINGSTON DISASTER.

London, January 23.

Reuter's Bureau announces from Kingston that since January 14th two severe earthquake shocks have occurred and two more were felt on Tuesday morning. Many buildings collapsed and great anxiety prevails among the populace. No further loss of life has occurred.

THE SWETTENHAM INCIDENT.

Washington, January 23.

That President Roosevelt intends to pass lightly over the Swettenham incident is shown by the following Note from the representative Secretary of State to the English Chargé d'Affaires: "I have the honour to confirm the receipt of your note of yesterday in which you communicate the instructions of the Foreign Secretary, Sir E. Grey, in the matter of the Jamaica incident. I hasten, in the name of the President to assure you that our Government values to the highest degrees the generous and ready courtesy and consideration shown by Sir E. Grey in his despatch, and also the cordial sentiments of your Government. The knowledge that it has been granted to our country to give practical proof of its friendship for your people at this time of need affords the President the liveliest satisfaction."

THE NEW IRISH SECRETARY.

London, January 23.

It is now officially announced that the Rt. Hon. A. Birrell, hitherto President of the Board of Education, becomes Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland in place of the Rt. Hon. James Bryce appointed Ambassador at Washington. Mr. R. McKenna, hitherto Financial Secretary, succeeds Mr. Birrell on the Education Board.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Washington, January 23.

President Roosevelt has sent a special message to Congress pointing out how very desirable it is to provide by legislation for the subvention of shipping and commercial enterprise in the building of large and fast steamers and the establishment of rapid steam communication with South America and the East. The President says that his attention has been particularly drawn to this subject by the information which the Secretary of State, Mr. Root, collected during his recent tour in South America. That information shows that this vast territory in the South, which ought to stand in the closest commercial relations with the United States, has scarcely any direct communication with them, its commercial connections being almost entirely with Europe. The Bill that has been laid before Congress is in no sense an experiment, but based on distinguished precedent, as, for instance, on the contract which the British Government not long ago made with the Cunard Company. It was not consistent with the dignity of the United States that their main commerce with the East should be left in the hands of their competitors. South America must be won for the commerce of the United States, and that commerce must have its own communications with Hawaii and the Philippines.

The President of the Panama Canal Commission, Mr. Shonts, has resigned his office; President Roosevelt very reluctantly accepted the resignation.

COLD IN ITALY.

Unusual cold prevails throughout Italy. Large masses of snow have fallen, presenting an unusual natural phenomena in Rome and Naples. In Milan today the thermometer fell to 7 degrees below zero, Celsius, in Rovigo to 10, in Livorno to 4. The trains on the Rome-Naples line are held up by snow.

THE HAGUE PEACE CONFERENCE.

The Hague, January 23.

The local correspondent of Reuter's Bureau states that Professor von Martens who, at the instance of the Czar, is paying a series of visits to the European cabinets in order to obtain information on various preliminary questions relating to the Hague conference, will be accompanied on his tour by Baron de Nolde, Secretary in the Russian Foreign Office, an expert in the domain of international law. After visiting the Hague the Professor will go to Rome and Vienna. No date for the opening of the Conference will be fixed until Professor von Martens has laid before the Russian Government a report on his mission. In view of this circumstance and owing to the necessity of grants being made by the various Powers to their representatives at the Conference, it is expected that the Conference will not begin before the middle of the summer.

It is denied officially that the Netherlands Ambassador in Vienna has informed a reporter of the Neue Freie Presse that the question of the neutrality of the Netherlands will be discussed at the second Peace Conference. The Ambassador merely expressed his own views on the neutrality of small States and attached no practical but purely theoretical importance to them.

The Minister for Foreign Affairs made a definite statement in the Lower Chamber on December 12th last that there would be absolutely no discussion at the peace Conference of the question of the neutrality of the Netherlands.

NEWS FROM FRANCE.

THE WAR AGAINST THE CHURCH.

Paris, January 23.

The official journal will publish tomorrow the constitution of an association cultuelle, which is to be called the French Catholic Apostolic Church. The Association will have its quarters in the former Barnabite monastery.

A decree is also published whereby the archiepiscopal Palace in Paris is placed at the disposal of the Labour Ministry.

AN ECHO OF THE DREYFUS CASE.

Paris, January 23.

The army commission is to lay a proposal before the Government whereby those officers of the Reserve and Territorial army cashiered for complicity in l'affaire Dreyfus, especially M. Reinach, member of the commission, will be reinstated.

DIPLOMATIC CHANGES.

Paris, January 23.

The President of the Republic has approved the following appointments: M. Jules Cambon, hitherto Ambassador in Madrid, has been appointed Ambassador in Berlin, in the place of M. Bihourds who retires. M. Revoil, hitherto Ambassador in Berne, will go to Madrid. Senator d'Aunay has been appointed Ambassador in Berne. The Ambassador to Denmark, M. Crozier, moves to Vienna, Count Horrie de Beaucire being appointed Ambassador in Copenhagen.

STUDENT RIOTS IN AUSTRIA.

Lemberg, January 23.

Some days ago the Ruthenian students at their matriculation at the University here declined to take the oath in the Polish language. This morning some 200 students, armed with sticks and clubs, made their way into the Aula of the University where promotions were going on, and damaged the furniture, the portraits of the Rectors and the gas fittings, and then continued their work of destruction in the adjoining premises, the University office, the lecture rooms and corridors, breaking the windows and piling up benches dragged from the lecture rooms in the porter's lodge. The Secretary of the University was severely wounded in the head by blows from a stick. The rioters refused to give up their identification papers. When the police attempted to arrest the ringleaders at the entrance gate, 150 students professed themselves ready to go to the police station and submit to cross examination.

The immediate cause of the disturbance was the refusal of the Rector to grant the use of the Hall to the Ruthenian students for the purpose of holding a meeting. The Polish lecturers in the University have determined to prevent the Ruthenian students by force from entering the University.

ITALY AND THE RELIGIOUS ORDERS.

Rome, January 23.

The Agencia Stefani announces from Constantinople: the Italian and French Governments yesterday handed to the Porte Notes couched in similar terms, announcing that the following religious establishments belonging to the Dominican mission in Constantinople and Smyrna and to the Franciscan mission in Tripoli and Barca have finally passed into the protection of Italy: the church, school and monastery of the Dominican fathers in Galata; the monastery and chapel of the Dominican fathers, and school of the Dominican sisters in Yedi-Kouli; the Dominican establishments in Makiskeni and Smyrna; Franciscan establishments in Tripoli, La Miscia, Datrara, Homs, Ben Ghazi and Derna.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

THE REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT.

Warsaw, January 23.

Several persons attacked a mail van at Andrzej station in the Kjelze district and shot the soldiers guarding the mails. The post office official managed to remove his cash to a safe place.

NAVAL APPOINTMENTS.

St. Petersburg, January 23.

The Minister of Marine, M. Birilef, has handed in his resignation which has been accepted. Admiral Dichov, Adjutant General, is to be appointed Naval Commander in Chief and his assistant, who is not yet nominated, will be entrusted with the charge of the Ministry.

RELIEF FOR THE JEWS.

Moscow, January 23.

It has been decided as a temporary measure to hand to Jewish merchants trade permits for 1907 without demanding from them police passes suffering them to remain in a place and carry on business. This order remains in force until the question has been decided in the Senate.

THE MOROCCAN CRISIS.

Tangier, January 23.

The report of the resumption of operations against the Caid Zellal of the Benim Suar tribe, to whom Raisuli fled, is confirmed. The Mahalla has been reinforced by the troops occupying Arzila and by Ben Mansur's men and has moved to Zellal's residence, 10 miles off. The Wadrass tribe is also to join the Mahalla. All the troops will take part in a decisive engagement today at which, it is said, the War Minister El Gebbas will be present.

The French battleship "Suffren" put to sea today.

Later.

The Mahalla while on the march set fire to all the huts lying in their path. The War Minister El Gebbas has decided not to grant a pardon to the Caid Zellal on account of his disloyalty.

LOCAL.

The establishment of the firm F. Olivier in Prager Strasse was yesterday honoured by a visit of the Archduke and Archduchess Ferdinand of Austria.

Reports from Southern Europe show that an abnormally low rate of temperature prevails. The thermometer stands at 3° F. in Trieste and at 9° F. in Constantinople. Extraordinary cold weather, too, prevails in Italy, and so much snow in the streets of Rome and Naples has rarely been seen before. The temperature in Milan on Tuesday morning was 21½° F., in Rovigo 14° F. and in Livorno 23° F.

On Saturday the 26th, Miss Watson will lecture on Rembrandt, his Life and Works, illustrating with a large number of fine prints and photographs. Like all the preparatory lectures, this one will be held in Miss Watson's rooms at Uhland Strasse 38 II, commencing promptly at 11.30, and will be followed on Tuesday by a visit to the Gallery for further study of the artist's works.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 2nd Grenadier Regiment No. 101. The band plays about 12.40 p.m. in the Schloss Platz.

GENERAL NEWS.

(From our London correspondent.)

A message was received on Monday by Messrs. Elder Dempster that the "Port Kingston" passed Port au Prince, Hayti, on Monday, therefore it is fair to assume that she is on her way home.

The art exhibition at the Guildhall in aid of the Lord Mayor's Cripples Fund will be opened on Tuesday, February 12 by the Duchess of Albany.

At the banquet of the German Benevolent Society at De Keyser's Royal Hotel on Saturday, March 16, the Lord Mayor will preside.

Mr. W. S. Gilbert wishes it to be made known that in the present revival of the Gilbert-Sullivan operas at the Savoy Theatre, his responsibility is simply confined to that of stage-management.

On Monday night last there were some extraordinary scenes in the London Music Halls, in consequence of a strike of performers which took place at six of them.

These halls were the Holborn Empire; the Grand, Clapham Junction; the Duchess, Balham; the Empire, Islington; the Empire Palace, Croydon; and the Hippodrome, Ealing; all controlled by the Walter Gibbons Syndicate.

The performers refused to "go on" acting under instructions from the National Federation of Music Hall Artists and Employés, which called its members out owing to Mr. Walter Gibbons having broken his agreement to concede the demands of the Federation relating to conditions of employment.

No doubt the worst scene was that at the Holborn Empire where crowds had assembled to witness the show only to find there could be next to none. Money therefore had to be returned to those who declined to wait and other artists were promptly telephoned for from all parts of London and some sort of performance was proceeded with.

Until Mr. Gibbons signs the Federation's charter the same thing will occur night after night. It is of course feared that serious results will accrue when the more important syndicates and companies are attacked.

A communication has been received by the Duke of Argyll from Sir E. Grey, announcing that the Government approves of the Franco-British Exhibition to be held in London at Shepherd's Bush in 1908.

In West Ham another sensation was created when it became known that two more members of the Board of Guardians had been arrested—Messrs. Tom Watts and Alfred Skinner. They have been charged before the Stratford magistrates for conspiring with Bond and others.

This now makes ten guardians and officials on trial in connection with the contract scandals, not to mention one guardian who committed suicide.

Yesterday, the marriage took place of Mr. Hugh Gladstone, a cousin of Mr. Herbert Gladstone, M. P. the Home Secretary, to Miss Cecil Talbot, a cousin of the Earl of Shrewsbury, at Holy Trinity Church, Sloane-st. The service was taken by the Bishop of Southwark and there were seven bridesmaids attired in white satin, with wreaths of gold leaves.

Among the guests present were the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, the Duke and Duchess of Montrose, Lord and Lady Londonderry, Lord and Lady Brownlow, Theresa Countess of Shrewsbury, Lord and Lady Brougham and Vaux, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gladstone, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Talbot and Lady Emma Talbot.

Mr. B. Fletcher Robinson, a well known London journalist, died at his London residence on Monday morning. He had been suffering for the past ten days from typhoid fever.

Mr. Harry Thaw was taken to the court-room where he to be tried on Monday for the first time, but the hearing of the case was adjourned until Wednesday. He had not previously left his quarters in the prison cell for seven months.

There were 200 jurymen who responded to their names, and at the beginning of the actual business, it will take a long time to select a jury from this number to try the case.

According to the report of the Military Secretary of the American Army on the Militia, more than thirteen millions of the men in the United States are available for military service.

It appears that Sacco, the fasting man, who is attempting to break all records by fasting for fifty days at Olympia, looks absolutely as if he is dying. Efforts are therefore being made to put a stop to the fast.

He has been for thirty days in a little wooden hut, which he is not able to leave during his fast, as the side will have to be broken in by a carpenter before he can get out of it. His appearance is wretched in the extreme.

The Royalty Theatre was opened by M. Gaston Mayer on Monday night with his season of French plays. M. Henri Lavedan's "Le Marquis de Priola" was the piece selected and it was played to a crowded audience, which included Prince Victor Napoleon. Countess de Grey, the Countess of Warwick and M. de Soveral, the Portuguese Minister, were also present.

M. le Bargy gained the triumph of the evening and is undoubtedly a comedian of the very highest rank. His acting is absolutely powerful; he was ably assisted by Mdlle. Gabrielle Dorziat who played in exquisite style.

With its splendid season of German opera and the prospect of an equally brilliant French season, London is just now satisfying the wants of the most fastidious so far as its theatres are concerned.

The will of Miss Harriette Clarke, of Park House, Macclesfield has just been proved. She left £120,093 and bequeathed £88,000 to various institutions.

Mrs. Mary Martin of Beechwood, Withead, Patcham near Brighton, left £135,267.

Prince Karl Anton von Hohenzollern, colonel-in-chief of the German Dragoon Guards, is expected in London at the end of the week and will stay at the Carlton Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Jan Malcolm have been on a visit to Lord Curzon at the Priory, Reigate.

There is no chance of the Rev. R. J. Campbell resigning of his own accord, but he will, no doubt, do so if requested. This he announced when preaching at Brighton at the Union Church.

Princess Estelle de Broglie was unable to appear at the Tivoli on Monday evening in consequence of having been seized with nervous prostration, after rehearsal. It may be a week before she makes her re-appearance.

A fearful discovery was made at St. Paul's station, S. E. and C. R., on Monday afternoon, when a tin trunk, from which an offensive odour was coming, was forced open at the lost property office, and the bodies of two babies were found.

The trunk had been lying for several months at the lost property office and bore a label with an address at Hastings which has been kept by the police.

Thomas Attenborough, once a famous cricketer, was found dead with his throat cut on Monday last. He was a great friend of the late J. J. Shaw.

The Sultan has expressed his desire to bestow the second class of the Imperial Order of Osmanieh and the second class of the Imperial Order of the Shafabat on Captain W. H. Bennett, of the 3rd Battalion Cheshire Regiment, who has just returned from a visit to Constantinople, in recognition of his services to Turkey.

His Majesty has also accepted the dedication of a new book on Turkey which will soon be published by Captain Bennett.

The "Philadelphia" which sailed from Southampton arrived at New York on the 19th inst.

Excavations at Thebes have brought to light what is believed to have been the palace of King Cadmus.

Mr. Weideman, the London man whose body was found at the foot of a ravine near St. Agnes, France, is now known to have met his death through slipping and falling 200 feet, from the edge of a crag.

Mr. W. C. Ashwell, a well known member of the New York Stock Exchange, was killed by a tramcar in New York on Monday last. He was one of the pioneers of the Kimberley mining industry, and sold all his holdings to Mr. Cecil Rhodes.

Princess Henry of Pless is at present on a visit to her sister the Duchess of Westminster at Eaton Hall.

The Prince of Monaco, who had been paying visits in England, has returned to the Continent.

CURRENT TOPICS IN AMERICA.

(By letter dated January 7th, from our New York correspondent.)

AN IMPORTANT LEGAL DECISION.

Judge Hosmer of the Superior Court in San Francisco has given an important decision in the matter of the earthquake there. The case was one brought by one Walters against the Williamsburg City Fire Insurance Co., and the judge decided that under the earthquake clauses in the Insurance policies, damage by fire is included—fire that is, which is a consequent of the earthquake—and not only the damage caused directly by the earthquake. In this case it was a question of compensation for damage caused by the fire which broke out in San Francisco after the earthquake of April 18th last year. The judge recognised the appeal of the company to the earthquake clause in the policy, but laid upon the company the burden of proof in a case where property was destroyed by the fire which was caused by the earthquake. Should this decision of Judge Hosmer's be confirmed, the company will not be obliged to pay in any case in which they can prove that the fire was caused by the earthquake.

GERMAN-IRISH FRIENDSHIP IN THE STATES.

Several American journals which pay particular attention to the interests of the sons of Erin in America are urging an increased rapprochement between German and Irish in the States. These journals, among them the National Hibernian and the Irish World, assert that there has long been a tacit agreement between the Germans and the Irish; witness, for instance, the share they both took against an alliance with England during the Boer war and during various periods of American history, when Germans and Irish joined in opposing nativistic tendencies and championing religious freedom. United they were so strong numerically, politically and financially, that the possibility of an alliance with England at the expense of American relations with other countries was quite out of the question. Brotherhood of German and Irish in America may, perhaps, be a beautiful thought, but, asks a New York journal, is it desirable that the descendants of two races should join in brotherhood as such, and not purely as Americans? There is yet another obstacle to such brotherhood and that is that your Irishman is a born politician and plays a great political rôle in America also. The danger might well be that the Irishman would alone reap the advantage from such a defensive and offensive alliance, for the German in America does not feel at all comfortable on the slippery ice of politics. One fact alone emerges from this consideration and that is that no two peoples in the heterogeneous population of the United States are so closely connected by marriage as the German and the Irish.

THE BUREAU OF AMERICAN REPUBLICS.

By the grant of 750,000 dollars for the erection of a permanent home for the "Bureau of American Republics" the importance of this Bureau is visibly increased. All or nearly all American Republics contribute to the maintenance of the Bureau, but of course, the largest contributions come from the United States. The Federal Government has already voted 200,000 dollars for the fund to be devoted to the establishment of a permanent home for the Bureau in Washington, although their actual share was only 71,000 dollars. The contributions especially from the smaller Republics, came in very slowly, but now, through the generosity of Andrew Carnegie, it has become possible to proceed with the erection of the building without waiting for the contributions of the other Republics. The work of the "Bureau of American Republics" is carped at in many quarters and described as of no particular importance. It arose from modest beginnings, and has achieved no very striking results up to the present, but it has clearly shown, that it can be made an important factor. The publications of the Bureau have already contributed much to furthering the relations between the United States and the other American Republics. Its chief claim to importance lies in the fact that by its means a Pan-American congress can be summoned, whenever necessity arises, in the most rapid manner.

LOCAL.

Dresden as a rule is mighty decorous and so, although the advertisements and puffs preliminary made fair promises anent the Gaukler Fest, it was with some misgivings that one attended this annual festival of Dresden's Art Students. Let us frankly admit that, once inside the Exhibition Building on Wednesday evening, all misgivings were set aside and one even felt that the fine imposed by the Janitors on any one who dared to appear on such an occasion in ordinary evening dress was more than justified. For here was a fancy dress entertainment not in name only; with very few exceptions everyone was in fancy dress, and in some cases considerable accent might have been laid upon the word "fancy"! Was it that one could not rid one's thoughts of the colour scheme of the "tunnel" at the Central Theatre the night before? at all events, scarlet seemed to fill the eye; there were scarlet pierrots, scarlet jesters, scarlet devils, scarlet witches, scarlet gipsies, scarlet tramps, the very band were dressed in scarlet. But another very favourite costume which served admirably in throwing up the brighter colours was that of an Arab. Everywhere one saw the white robe of a Sheikh surmounted, however, in most cases by a scarlet fez. But there were other costumes in plenty; Turks, Tyrolese, Pompadours, huntsmen, Russians, clowns, matadors, Indians, mandarins, Japanese, jockeys jostled one another in mad confusion, and provided a delightfully kaleidoscopic maze of colour. Candour forbids one to say that all dresses were appropriate to their wearers. Gentlemen of singularly ample proportions do not look their brightest and best when attired as "Mephistopheles" nor do ladies of similar physical development quite represent one's idea of "snowflakes". But of excellent costumes there were plenty, and one gentleman in particular who was got up to represent the champion cross-channel swimmer might have worn his costume at a Covent Garden Ball, and have been fairly confident of gaining a silver tea set, or some other costly prize such as Mr. Forsyth is wont to give as the reward of originality. Perhaps the best costumes in all the motley throng were those of a wondrously petite and attractive-looking Geisha and a very handsome Toreador, both of whom attracted much attention. Some of the tramps, too, were most lifelike, and one of them during the course of the evening was "run in" with commendable violence by a captain "von Köpenick". Mention, too, must be made of two Italian mendicants, who with a real monkey and an accomplished accordion player made their rounds and sang songs in Italian which, if not vero were at least ben trovato.

As is usual on these occasions, dancing was not the only attraction, for the entertainment was honoured by the presence of Prince Johann Georg, and some entertaining fare had to be provided for the Royal visitor. Accordingly there was first, a procession of revellers—we hesitate to translate "Gaukler" "buffoons"—before his Royal Highness, preceded by an address spoken by the Prince of the Revellers, Don Whiskerandos, from camel-back. Then came the clou of the evening, a burlesque circus performance with a burlesque band led by a very burlesque conductor in a wonderful costume imprinted with a full musical score. Roars of laughter and rounds of applause greeted the "fairy of the ring" who, with a very palpable moustache, galloped all round the arena on an unmistakably human quadruped. Hardly less successful was the champion weight lifter who with wonderful vrai-semblance and tremendous effort lifted a bar-bell, which may have weighed quite half a pound. There were clowns with their usual inanities, acrobats only a trifle less supple than the real thing, performing bears, dogs &c. and a horse that, in spite of being minus its front legs and having reversed hocks on its hinder extremities, performed prodigies of dexterity in the haut école. There were other side shows of hardly less merit; living pictures whose artistic worth was only equalled by the Hibernian fluency of their entrepreneur, an Indian camp where highly interesting dances were given by artists whose Hindostanee showed an inevitable tendency to devolve into Teutonic, a Cabaret where singers of fame showed that they need only claim them and positions on the Dresden opera stage are assured to them, a lottery where, if lucky, you might obtain for a mere song sketches, oil-paintings, water-colours, drawings, &c. executed, mayhap, by the person who stood next you clad in vermilion tights and a jester's cap; a fortune tellers' encampment where the future was foretold to you with ease and celerity, and H. R. H. Prince Johann Georg may almost feel abashed that so many persons know his future, such was the crowd that filled the tent when his fortune was being told.

In short, the evening was a great success, the arrangements were excellent and nothing was more calculated to make one forget the cold outside than the warmth, cordiality and good fellowship within; and, while congratulating the "Gauklers", one can only condole with those who failed to avail themselves of the opportunity to attend one of the cheeriest events of the Dresden season.

An especial honour is to be paid the promoters of the press ball "Wild West", for His Majesty King Friedrich August has signified his intention of being present. This is the first time His Majesty has honoured this annual carnival.

The list of attractions promised at the ball seems to grow even larger. Besides the main performance, 500 ladies and gentlemen of the Dresden Liedertafel, the Lehmann-Osten choir, the Royal Ballet corps and the mandolinist troupe, besides the Cabaret and the nigger variety show, a number of stalls will be erected, presided over by members of the opera and Schauspielhaus companies. At these stalls flowers, champagne, sweets, postcards &c., will be on sale; there will also be a genuine American bar and, as already announced, a lottery of Meissen porcelain. Among those who will sell at these stalls, will be Fräulein Abendroth, Fräulein Keldorfer, Fräulein v. Chavanne, Fräulein v. d. Osten, Fräulein Kessler, and Fräulein Therese Malten, as well as many of the popular actresses from the Royal Theatre. The bands of the Gardereiter and Schützen regiments will provide the dance music.

Beginning on Monday next the working committee will open an office every day from 4 to 7 p.m. in the Exhibition Building where all information as to the ball can be obtained.

The Trio Italiano gave their initial concert in Dresden on Wednesday evening. The Palmengarten was only about a quarter filled owing partly to other attractions and partly no doubt to the severity of the weather. This is to be regretted because the playing of this Trio is excellent and their ensemble and balance is most commendable.

Professor Umberto Moroni is a good pianist with a musical touch and a clear, crisp technique. He had excellent support in Professor Virgilio Ranzato (violin) and Professor Carlo Guaita (violinello). The programme consisted of the Beethoven Trio in B-flat op. 97 and two trios by Italian composers: Trio in D by Ferroni and Trio in E-minor by Zanella. The performance of the great B-flat trio by Beethoven lacked anything like a semblance of the depth and power that lies in the great master's music. It would have been wiser to have selected an earlier opus, such as the Trio in E-flat op. 1, or the C-minor Trio. Their playing of the two trios by their own countrymen was a coat of another colour, especially Zanella's Trio which is also the better of the two. It contains some beautiful and interesting if not original themes and really had something to say. The Andante and Scherzo contain some exquisite passages and the performance of the Trio was superb.—H. M. F.

Paris, January 24. The cold in Paris yesterday was so intense that nine persons were frozen to death.

London, January 24. William Whiteley, the founder of the Stores in Westbourne Grove, was shot today by a man who immediately afterwards committed suicide. Revenge is supposed to have been the motive of the act.

Bombay, January 24. The Pioneer says: "According to information received from Peshawar, the relations with the Thakka Khel Afridis are very unsatisfactory, as that tribe has recently ventured to make several incursions into British territory, and has carried off two police officials and several other persons as prisoners." The Pioneer says further the Government is not inclined to do anything at present, but if a change does not soon take place in the demeanour of the Afridis, decided measures will become necessary.

Rome, January 24. The extraordinary cold continues. Much snow has fallen in the country round the city. Railway and tram communication is interrupted. On the lines between Rome and Sulmona and Rome-Naples trains have been blocked-in by the snow. In Rome itself the charm of the snow scene has been spoiled by continuous rain throughout the night. In Venice a great part of the surface of the lagoons is frozen over. The principal canals are free, but large blocks of ice are floating in them. The steamer traffic inside the town has been partly stopped.
