THE KING AND QUEEN OF DENMARK IN ENGLAND.

Their Majesties the King and Queen of Denmark arrived in England on Saturday morning, on a State visit to King Edward and Queen Alexandra, anding at Portsmouth, thence to travel to London. It was a very fine morning, and the King's yacht, 'Victoria and Albert," which had left Flushing at six o'clock the previous evening, was escorted down Channel by the armoured cruisers "Antrim," 'Cochrane," "Devonshire," and "Natal." All four are cruisers of the latest type, and capable of a speed of 22 knots. The "Victoria and Albert" is also a very fast steamer, so that the voyage could be made easily at a very high speed.

At Spithead, the Channel Fleet, which had arrived on Friday, was anchored in two lines, the ships being dressed over all with flags, with the Danish Ensign flying at the masthead of each ship. It was just before ten o'clock when the King's yacht, with her attendant cruisers, was seen approaching the eastern entrance to Spithead. As soon as she and her escort had passed the Nab lightship the Channel Fleet thundered forth a welcome to England.

By a quarter-past ten the yacht was alongside the South Railway Jetty, having received another Royal Salute, fired by the gaily-dressed ships in harbour, led off by the "Victory," flagship of Admiral Sir Day H. Bosanquet, Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, on passing through the narrow entrance on her way up to the jetty. Large crowds of people had assembled along the shore to witness the arrival of the King and Queen, and these heartily cheered their Majesties.

The Prince of Wales, in Naval uniform, attended by Commander Sir Charles Cust, R. N., arrived at Portsmouth Harbour Station at ten o'clock from London, and drove on to the jetty as soon as the yacht was berthed, and His Royal Highness, who was received with Royal honours, went on board the "Victoria and Albert" to welcome the King and Queen on behalf of King Edward. The King of Denmark wore the uniform of the Buffs (East Kent Regiment), of which he is the honorary Colonel.

It was three-quarters of an hour before the official landing took place. As the King and Queen left the yacht the band played the Danish National Anthem, and guards of honour presented arms. His Majesty, accompanied by the Prince of Wales, inspected both the seamen and Royal Marine guards. Queen Louise had taken her seat in the Royal train, which was waiting, and His Majesty, having taken leave of the officers on the jetty, followed. The train left at eleven o'clock for London which was reached at one o'clock. H. M. King Edward and Queen Alexandra were at Victoria Station and after the monarchs had greeted each other in a special pavilion erected for the occasion they drove to Buckingham Palace.

In the evening a State Banquet was given in Buckingham Palace at which the corps diplomatique and several of the Ministry were present. H. M. King Edward proposed the health of the King and Queen of Denmark, bidding them heartily welcome. They were no strangers to the British Coasts, King Edward recalled the friendly reception he had had on his many visits to Denmark. The King of Denmark expressed his thanks for their cordial and hearty reception and added that King Edward's words would be highly esteemed in Denmark. He took the opportunity of thanking King Edward for the high honour paid him in appointing him honorary Colonel of one of the most famous regiments of the British army, the regiment with which one of his ancestors had been connected and which had fought so bravely at Blenheim shoulder to shoulder with his own people.

ion of the Chief of the General Staff belong those of the cavalry and Imperial Yeomanry which are to take place in Scotland. The Yeomanry will thus have an opportunity for more practical training than if they are trained separately from other troops. The Chief of the General Staff has long recognised the necessity of conducting seige operations, and the experience gained in the Russo-Japanese war has shown the utility of such training. Accordingly, manoeuvres are to take place at Chatham at the end of July and beginning of August, which will conclude with a frontal attack on a modern fortress.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

THE IDAHO TRIAL.

Though the defence attempted in various ways to throw a shadow of improbability around Orchard's recital, and several times confronted him with persons for the purpose of paving the way to controverting his confession, the witness stood the test well, and held tenaciously to his story. Several times counsel flared up, and once Mr. Hawley said that Mr. Richardson was telling a falsehood, when he intimated that Orchard was a "fixed witness,"

Orchard declared that he had not heard the story that the railway detectives had arranged to draw spikes, as an apparent attempt to derail the train at Cripple Creek, and charge him with attempted train-wrecking.

He declared that during the strike at Cripple Creek, although he possessed no passport, the soldiers never stopped him. Scott told him if he had trouble with the soldiers to notify him. Orchard said that Moyer was sent to Cripple Creek with the request that witness should accompany him to Ouray and Silverton, whither the Telluride miners had been deported. Moyer told Orchard that the mine-owners' thugs had threatened to beat him (Moyer), if they caught him outside Denver. Orchard went for the protection of Moyer. Both were heavily armed with shot-guns and pistols furnished by Moyer. No trouble occurred

On their arrival at Ouray, Moyer was busy with the miners, and was eventually arrested for desecrating the American flag, on which he drew pictures. Orchard said that he took the guns back to the miners' headquarters at Denver, where he later obtained a gun to kill Gregory.

Mr. Richardson asked if witness did not know that Moyer still had his gun, which had not been discharged. Orchard replied that this might be true, as there were more than two guns at headquarters.

FLOOD AND STORM.

A telegram from Louisville (Kentucky), reports a cloud-burst at Gradyville which caused the death of 10 persons. Big Creek was turned into a raging flood and, overflowing its banks, washed away most of the houses in Gradyville; 21 persons are

The State of Illinois has been visited by a whirlwind, four persons in New Minden being killed; in West York two persons lost their lives, while 30 were injured.

A missionary, who has arrived at San Francisco in the "Coptie", gives details of a typhoon and tidal wave which visited the Caroline Islands in the latter half of March and destroyed the Wolea group of islands. The tidal wave poured over the land and covered it with a mantle of sand, swept up from the bed of the ocean. 1,500 persons lost their homes and on one island 250 people were drowned. The storm lasted 3 days. All the trees and bushes were uprooted or buried in sand when the tidal wave came up. Hundreds saved themselves by swimming until the water retired again. The German authorities sent a steamship with provisions for the natives.

THE U.S. AND JAPAN.

The Tokio journal Dshidshe Shimpo writes that it would be wrong to believe that the unfriendly attitude of the population of San Francisco is shared by all Americans. The journal expresses complete confidence in the Washington Government which will be in a position to satisfactorily settle the latest anti-Japanese excesses in San Francisco.

The Hodshi Shimbun, on the other hand, urges that the matter should be regarded without reference to local conditions. The future relations of Japan and the United States thereby come in question. Japan must insist on her demands.

The leader of the Opposition in the Japanese House of Peers, Viscount Tani, has described the rising against the Japanese in San Francisco as entirely wanton and said "If diplomacy should not succeed in obtaining a satisfactory solution of the matter, only one way lies open to us, viz. an appeal to arms. It is certain that America will give way since the American people are always influenced by purely commercial points of view."

A SCHILLER-GOETHE MEMORIAL.

The German inhabitants of Cleveland, Ohio, have presented the town with a Schiller-Goethe memorial which was unveiled in the presence of a large number of people on Saturday. The memorial is a copy of that at Weimar. There was loud cheering when a telegram from the German Emperor was read aloud. The band played "Heil dir im Siegerkranz" those present, with bared heads, singing the words. The Vice-President of the United States, Mr. Fairbanks, also sent a congratulatory telegram. During the ceremony poems specially written for the occasion by distinguished German poets and authors were recited.

REPORTED MURDER OF PRESIDENT CABRERA. A Reuter's telegram reached London from Mexico yesterday stating that Señor Cabrera, President of Guatemala, was murdered on Sunday. The news lacks confirmation.

THE BADEN-BADEN MURDER.

A Karlsruhe telegram says that the Washington lawyer, Karl Hau, who mas extradited from England on December 20 last, on a charge of wilfully murdering his mother-in-law, Frau Molitor at Baden-Baden, and who has been in prison here for several months, and under examination as to his mental condition, has made a full confession of the crime.

The Karlsruhe Lokalanzeiger says that Hau's wife drowned herself in the Pfaeffikon Lake, in Switzerland.

A later telegram denies that Hau has officially confessed his guilt, but it is surmised that he acknowledged it to his wife, who was thus impelled to her rash act.

NEWS FROM FRANCE.

FRANCE AND JAPAN.

A note of the Agence Havas denies the report that France has offered her good services to America in the matter of Japan. Nothing in the relations between Japan and America proclaims the necessity of such services. Only so much is true, namely, that friendly discussions have been going on with the United States relating to the recently concluded Franco-Japanese agreement.

A SOCIALIST MEMORIAL.

The Minister of Education, M. Briand, and the Under-Secretary of State, M. Dujardon-Beaumetz, visited St. Etienne on Saturday for the purpose of representing the Government at the unveiling of a memorial to the former Deputy, M. Girodet, the first socialist mayor of St. Etienne.

At a meeting of socialists held in the evening opposite the Labour Exchange the Deputy, M. Pressensé, made violent attacks on M. Briand's po-

The unveiling of the memorial duly took place on Sunday. Some hundred adherents of the party of united socialists tried by whistling and insulting shouts to make a demonstration against M. Briand, but they failed in their object, since M. Briand was greeted with lively demonstrations of sympathy by the mob, which filled the market place.

DISSATISFIED VINTAGERS.

A mass-meeting of dissatisfied vintagers was held at Montpellier on Sunday, at which the leader of the movement, M. Marcelin Albert, made a speech. Those present adopted a resolution to pay no more taxes, and to regard the dismissal of all the municipal authorities in the South as a fait accompli.

At midday a monster-procession was formed, which, amid beating of drums and braying of trumpets, marched through the streets. An enormous crowd lining the streets greeted the vintagers, especially their leader and the many women who were in the procession with encouraging cheers.

At 3 o'clock the head of the procession arrived at the Esplanade. Here a platform had been erected and M. Marcelin Albert, who was carried shoulderhigh by his followers and placed on the platform, made amid continuous applause a speech, in which he said that in the name of eight hundred thousand beggars he brought forward their grievances. The assembled multitude adopted a resolution declaring that they would pay no more taxes and that the dismissal of all the communal administrative authorities of the South was now to be taken as an accomplished fact.

After M. Marcelin Albert, the Maire of Narbonne, M. Ferroul, spoke. He said the South would now act, and on the following evening at 8 o'clock when the alarm-bell rang he would throw his badge of office in the face of the Government. (Applause, and great sensation.) Thereupon M. Faucillon, of Carcassonne, another municipal official, called out that he would set an example, and threw down his badge on the ground. (Loud and continued applause.) M. Albert than called on the crowd to swear that they would remain united in defence of the wine industry with all the means at their command. The crowd agreed and gave MM. Albert, Ferroul, and Faucillon an ovation. After this demonstration, the procession began slowly to break up and disperse. In spite of the enormous assemblage no serious accidents occurred.

The Bishop of Montpellier has given permission for the churches to be kept open at night, so that the people may find shelter in them.

A similar demonstration was held in the Brignoles district of Toulon by 15,000 vintagers. Violent speeches were made and in the end a resolution moved by M. Blache, President of the General Council, was carried, declaring that the vintagers would march to Paris if their demands were not granted.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

THE TERRORIST MOVEMENT.

In a suburb of St. Petersburg an unidentified armed man set on an official of the factory owned by Herr Arthur Koppel and robbed him of 6,800 roubles.

On Saturday morning on the Kammeno Ostrovsky Prospect the eashier of an electrical factory was attacked by two men armed with revolvers. They stabbed him three times with daggers and robbed him of a satchel containing 5,000 roubles, intended to pay the men's wages with. The man's assailants were arrested by the police with the help of the bystanders.

THE DUMA.

The Duma was occupied on Saturday with the agrarian question, the Socialists making violent attacks on M. Stolypin; M. Maschensko concluded his speech with the words: "The Government has challenged the nation; the challenge will be accepted." The Cadets explained their policy, maintaining that expropriation was an axiom of agrarian reform.

UNREST IN THE BALKANS.

A despatch has reached Athens from Adrianople reporting that a band of Greek emigrants who were leaving Bulgaria, were attacked on the Turko-Bulgarian frontier by a patrol; 6 Greeks were killed and six dangerously wounded. Great excitement prevails among the Greek population.

It is announced from Monastir that a fight has taken place not far from Velovistik between a Turkish patrol and a Greek band; the leader and 3 men of the latter were killed.

NEWS FROM PERSIA.

Serious disturbances have broken out again at Kermanshat in consequence of local election disputes. The populace is divided into two parts, of which one is favoured by the Governor; 2,000 adherents of the other party have fled to the British consulate.

The situation is made worse by the fact that Sindshali and Kurds are making predatory raids in the vicinity, and soldiers are taking part in the disturbances inside the town.

There does not seem to have been a collision between the soldiers of Prince Salar ed Dauleh and the Shah's troops; the latter are awaiting reinforcements. Salar ed Dauleh's forces consist, it is said, of 3,000 men, including 300 cavalry. A hundred Cossacks have left Teheran for the expected scene of the battle.

THE HERKOMER CONTEST.

By 6 p. m. on Saturday 129 cars had reached Munich. Herr Willy Jessurun's Opel on taking a curve on the Lindau-Munich section broke a wheel. The ear ran into a ditch, one of its inmates breaking his arm and another being injured in his head. Herr Karl Deimann's N. A. G. had to retire from the contest in consequence of a defect, The last car to reach Munich was the Horch belonging to last year's winner, which is now not competing.

A telegram from Kochel announces that the hillclimbing contest began at 9 a. m. Herr Ladenburg's Mercedes won, the time being 224/5 seconds. Herr Pöge's Mercedes, regarded as chief claimant for victory in the contest as a whole, has had to retire owing to machinery defects. The contest had to be interrupted for half an hour until Herr Flinsch's Mercedes, which also broke down owing to machinery defects had been removed from the track.

After 65 cars had passed that section Herr Langen's Züst became defective through the motor over-heating. Herr Simpson's Dixi, Herr Quass' Fiat and Herr Achenbach's Achenbach-Hexe - an earlier telegram described this car as already hors de combat-were forced in consequence to turn round; a gap of three quarters of an hour ensued.

In Sunday's competition for the best appearance of any car the prize was won by the Benz belonging to Herr Otto Mühlberg of Loschwitz.

A further telegram from Kochel, despatched at 2.30 p.m., states that, while after the three quarters of an hour's interruption the cars were despatched at regular intervals of from one to two minutes, at 2.15 another long pause ensued. Lieut. Max Wiskott's Adler collided with one of the stone pillars of the iron railing bordering the Kesselberg Street and broke a wheel. The iron railing was torn away for a distance of twenty-five meters. None of the occupants of the car were injured. Owing to the accident, the starting time of the remaining competitors was delayed.

LONDON LETTERS.

(From our correspondent.)

HORSES. II.

London, June 8. The International Horse Show, which yesterday commenced its career for one week, at Olympia the Gigantic, in Kensington, will certainly remain the most stupendous Exhibition of its kind ever held, here, or anywhere else.

This fact which, in my last letter, I promised to emphasise, in order to lay stress on another fact, namely, that the horse is not only living nowadays, but kicking also, metaphorically and otherwise, is easily explained. The Show has been promoted by an Anglo-American Syndicate of millionaire horsebreeders and horsemen, to whom money is of no consequence whatever. It is freely stated that £20,000 had already been spent on preparing and advertising the Exhibition before Olympia opened its doors yesterday morning. I can quite well believe that, and even a higher figure than £20,000 would not surprise me in the least.

The exhibition is being held under the auspices of an international board of directors. Look at their names! They are enough for me. Those representing England are the Earl of Lonsdale, Carlton House terrace, S. W. (chairman), Sir Gilbert Greenall, Walton Hall, Warrington; Mr. Arthur E. Evans, Bronwilfa, Wrexham; Mr. R. G. Heaton, The Ferry Chatteris, Cambridgeshire; Mr. John Kerr, Loud. water, Rickmansworth; Mr. H. H. Konig, Ardenrun. Place, Blindley Heath, Surrey; Mr. Walter Lloyd, Moonhill, Cuckfield, Sussex; and Mr. Walter Winans, Surrenden Park, Pluckley, Kent. The American directors are: - Mr. Alfred G. Vanderbilt and Mr. Clarence H. Mackay, both of New York; Mr. E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia; and Mr. Lawrence Jones, Louisville, Kentucky. The Canadian directors are -The Hon, Adam Beck, Toronto; Mr. George W. Beardmore, M. F. H., Toronto; and Sir H. Montague Allan, Montreal. Then there is a distinguished list of Continental representatives. Baron Du Teil Du Havelt and Baron De Neuflize represent the Société Hippique, Paris; Comte Eug. D'Oultrement and M. A. Dupuich, the Société Royale Hippique de Belgique, Brussels; Col. Punt and Mr. A. Van Hoboken, The Hague International Show, the President and Don Luis Zappine, the San Sebastian International Show; Generale Luigi Berta, Italy: and Herr Heinrich Otto Traun, Germany. The English manager is Mr. Frank F. Euren, who is so well known as the secretary of our annual Hackney Show, whilst Mr. James T. Hyde, of the National Horse Show Association (New York) is the manager for America and Canada, the Press arrangements being in the trusted hands of Mr. W. D. Nixon, whose task, just now, is very far from congenial, as it becomes more difficult than ever for the best-meaning of Press Managers, to oblige everybody, without offending somebody or other.

Olympia has undergone many transformations in the course of recent years, but hardly changes so great as those it had to undergo within a few days, after the close of the Royal Military and Naval Tournament held there until the last days of May. The Great Hall, in the arena of which the performances take place three times a day, is simply unrecognisable.

The judging ring in the centre is a wonderful sight. The floral treatment alone, it is estimated, has cost some £2,000. The ground is peat, but wherever grass may be grown there is grass. The sides of the arena are of turf, covered with flowers; the water jump and the Belgian jump stand in thickets of chestnut trees and sycamores; out of the hedges that form the outer circle to the ring spring young may-trees in full blossom.

The roof is adorned with huge banners, representing in their heraldry whatever nations of the world breed horses. Olympia's roof is a span of some pretension, and its decoration is costly in proportion.

The Anglo-Saxon Tharmacy

In fact, the impression which Olympia gives, even to an old show hand, is that nothing that money could do has been lacking to make the show not only thorougly attractive, but something quite out of the common in such exhibitions. The immense hall has been turfed and laid out as an English park; while the floral displays, the hedge round the great ring, and the fresh-looking, white gates add to the rural effect, and give charm to the whole. Judged simply as a horse show, the exhibition is probably unique. The liberal offer of some £7,500 in prizes has secured over 2,000 entries of which about 1,500 are from this country, about 350 from America and Canada, 100 from France, and the others from Belgium, Holland, and Spain This is an enormous number, especially when we consider that under the County Council regulations the large Agricultural Hall at Islington can only accommodate some 600 horses. The judging of the 124 classes into which the show is divided, even with judging going on in two rings simultaneously. must prove a colossal task. At the Shire Horse Show the judging of 17 classes takes two days: while at an ordinary agricultural show six classes are considered a good day's work for one set of judges.

What is perhaps the most notable innovation is connection with the show is that each day the proceedings are divided into three distinct exhibitions. The proceedings commence at nine o'clock and go on until noon. They commence again at 2.30 p. m., and go on until five o'clock. Then, at 7.30 p. m. the evening show commences, and lasts until 11. As the hall is to be cleared after each of these shows, and a fresh audience secured for the next, this innovation will be watched with some curiosity, and it will certainly be a great achievement if three satisfactory attendances, each demanding separate payment for admission and seats, can be secured for a six days' horse show in London. The fact that the show is to be made 2 great social event, and will include a gala per formance before their Majesties the King and Queen, who will be accompanied by the King and Queen of Denmark, and that large numbers of Americans are in London almost entirely for it, will no doubt go a long way towards making it s big success; but even when this is said, the innovation of the three shows a day can only be looked upon as a most courageous one.

Almost more wonderful than the arrangements n the Great Hall are those at the back of it, round it, and even in the galleries above, for the accommodation of the well-nigh innumerable horses of all sorts that have been sent by eager exhibitors from nearly all parts of the world to Kensing-The stables alone are worth more than one visit. It is a magnificent display, and, at the same time, an extraordinary labyrinth, in which even grooms and stablemen cannot always find their Therefore, I suppose, I must not grumble that I have frequently lost my way, looking for particular four-footers. So, for instance today, in trying to find Mr. Stansfield Collier's Battak ponies, the only specimens of their breed in this country, about which the Globe yesterday grew quite excited; these ponies were bred in the Battak range of hills in Sumatra, and were exported from Delhi last summer. "They have handsome heads set on high-crested necks, and are full of spirit and muscle. It is asserted by eminent authorities that Battak ponies have shared in an especial degree the benefit conferred by Arab blood introduced into the breed about sixty

I quite believe, in fact I know it, for, when a boy in far off Java, I experienced their Arab impetuosity to the full. I was in a pony-carriage, drawn by two magnificent Battak ponies, jet-black, with long manes and flowing tails. They took fright, bolted, and soon broke the frail carriage to bits. I nearly lost my life then, after having been dragged over a rough road for half a mile, or so. shall not soon forget that Battak pony episode! In the Olympia stables, the famous carthorse greys of Mr. Ogden Armour repose beneath drapery of crimson and tassels of gold. Their names-Jim, Henry, Billy, Phil, Mac, and Dudeare written above them in letters of gold. But their backs are turned toward the glory! Upon the other side of the same stable stand the Guinness carthorses. These are bays, but the contrast they afford to the greys is not confined to the colour of their coats. The hanging of their boudoirs also is different. The Armour decoration is garish; the Guinness colour is the daintiest of light, pearly blue.

Only half of Mr. Walter Winans' total of horses for exhibition are accommodated here. He only orings to Olympia "sufficient for the day". As it is, the number is considerable enough, while the grandeur outspans vocabulary.

Twenty-five boxes there are-two long rows. Crimson and yellow are the hangings, and the gold beading would equip half a dozen thrones! There are many other extravagances to be seen in the Olympia stables, just now, but none, to beat those hailing from Yankeeland!

Yesterday I spent a considerable portion of my day at Olympia, and at 11.30 p.m. they had not finished yet! The programmes are evidently too long and will have to be reduced. It is really too much "horse", from 9 a.m. till midnight!

SWINDLING IN "SERUM."

The newest thing in Parisian roguery is the serum swindle, which shows how sharp an eye for the times has the continental swell mobsman. The trick is simplicity itself, and needs nothing hore than the materials for making a neat parcel and a certain familiarity with the gay city's easy 1 ys. The operator first finds out some one in easy circumstances who is under medical treatment. Then the coup is made in this way. The operator goes to the door, hands to the servant who opens a neat parcel with a chemist's name upon it, explaining that it is "the serum ordered by the doctor," and presenting a bill. The amount is usually paid and the swindle is a success. In one istrict the police have received many complaints brom persons victimised.

Siegfried, wishing to accomplish great deeds, takes farewell of Brünnhilde, entrusting her with the Ring. In the hall of the Gibichungs on the Rhine, Hagen, son of Alberich, is scheming to regain the Ring. He suggests to his half brother Günther to give Siegfried a draught which will make him forget Brünnhilde (of whose existence Günther is ignorant), and set him free to marry Gutrune, Günther's sister. All turns out as Hagen wishes: Siegfried arrives, drinks the potion and promises to win Brünnhilde for Günther. Waltraute, the Walkyrie, implores Brünnbilde to restore the Ring to the Rhine-maidens, to save Woton and Walhalla. Brünnhilde refuses and soon after, Siegfried arrives in Günther's shape, snatches the Ring, and after keeping vigil all night with his sword between him and her, leads her away to Günther. Alberich appears to Hagen and urges him to kill Siegfried. Siegfried comes back and is welcomed by all, but Brünnhilde recognises the Ring on his finger, and accuses him of having betrayed his friend Gunther by offering her violence Brünnhilde discloses to Hagen that spot, namely in the back. The Rhine-maidens in vain ask Sieg fried for the Ring. When resting from hunting, Hagen brings back Siegfried's memory by another potion. Siegfried tells the story of his life. Hagen kills him. The body is brought to Gunther's hall where Hagen quarrels with Gunther and kills him. Siegfried's body is placed on a pyre, onto which, when it is lighted, Brünnhilde, after singing a farewell to her dead lover, and proclaiming the end of the old regime and the dawn of a new world ruled by Love, leaps upon the pyre to perish with her dead lover. The Rhine overflows its banks, washes the pyre away and the Rhine-maidens snatch the Ring. Hagen rushes into the Rhine to get the Ring and is drowned. Walhalla is seen enveloped in flames. Composer: Richard Wagner, born 1813, died 1883.

LOCAL.

The well known piano teacher Mrs. Potter-Frissell gave a recital of her pupils in ensemble and solo playing at "Ehrlich's Musikschule" last Saturday evening. The hall was comfortably filled and the pupils one and all performed their pieces in a manner that spoke volumes for Mrs. Frissell's method. Many of the pupils were little tots who showed that great pains had been taken, not only in a technical way, but also in point of interpretation, to attain the desired results.

The most interesting performances were those of No. 1 Mozart's C-minor Fantasie for 2 pianos by Krägen; the playing of No. 11b Leschetizky's "Les deux Alouettes" and No. 13 1. movement of the G-minor concerto of Saint-Saëns evoked much applause. - H. M. F.

The programme of this evening's Wagner orchestral concert at the Royal Belvedere will be

(1) Huldigungs march dedicated to H. M. King Ludwig of Bavaria (first time).

(2) Prayer from "Rienzi".

(3) Wedding march from "Lohengrin".

(4) Tonbilder from "Das Rheingold".

(5) Funeral march from "Götterdämmerung".

(6) Wotzn's Abschied and Fonerganher from "Die

Wotan's Abschied und Feuerzauber from "Die Walküre".

(7) Introduction to Act III and dance of Die "Meistersinger von Nürnberg."

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 1st Grenadier Regiment No. 100. The band plays about 12.40 p. m. in the Neustadt.

Whoever has lost or left anything in the streets or squares of this city should enquire for the same at the Fundamt (lost property office) of the Königliche Polizeidirektion, Schiess Gasse 7.

The great Epsom carnival which took place last week, may well have earned the title "black", for

Coronation cup, a horse who held an unbeaten certificate and had passed the post first thirteen times in succession was last of four, and proved his inability to be more than a brilliant miler. In the Oaks Witch Elm was a sound favourite, but could not even get a place, the race being won by Glass Doll, whose name had not even been written by most of the bookmakers. Even then the cup of the backers' reverses was not full, for in the Acorn Stakes Lord Rosebery's Popinjay was confidently expected to win, but was beaten comfortably by a rank outsider.

The weather in England has seriously interfered with cricket, but more matches were finished than at one time seemed probable, for fitful sunshine after heavy rain made the pitches very difficult and bowlers had a happy time. The team of South African cricketers now in England had an useless visit to Cambridge in the early part of the week, rain causing the abandonment of the match. They were more fortunate in their fixture with Northamptonshire, who, left with 202 runs to get to win, were unable to do much with Schwarz's bowling and were fairly easily beaten, as they had been by Warwichshire earlier in the week. Surrey just beat Leicestershire and Lancashire gained a two wickets victory over Somerset, but the Middlesex-Essex, and Kent-Yorkshire match were both abandoned. Cambridge University fell easy victims to Yorkshire, Rhodes and Haigh rattling them out in their se-cond innings for a paltry 72. Worcestershire after only getting 87 their first knock, put up a great performance, for Burrows and Arnold got their opponents, Lancashire, out for 118 and Harry Foster and Bowley made the required 170 runs, their side thus winning by ten crickets. Oxford University after a good game, in which G. Foster made 163, were just beaten by the M. C. C.

The Chief Lawn Tennis Tournaments of the week have been the East Surrey, and the Northern Championships. In the former Gore, Rhodes and Ritchie are among the gentlemen winners of ties and Miss Eastlake Smith, Miss Greville and Miss Wilson among the ladies. At Manchester several famous players were engaged among them Brookes, Risely and Casdagli, Miss May Sutton, Mrs. Sterry and Mrs. Hillyard, EASY "BANKING".

Nantes is just now in the excitement of a bank smash. Four members of the staff of the Crédit Lyonnais resigned some time ago and set up a banking establishment of their own. By dint of small commissions and high interest they made a progress among that apparently inexhaustible class which continues to believe in the possibility of such things, and before long they had attracted a large body of working-class depositors. Now the inevitable has come. Disquieting rumours got abroad during the past week, there was a run on the bank, which soon necessitated closing the doors; the police intervened, and it is now stated that the unfortunate depositors will lose about £40,000 from the savings of their labour.

COMEDY IN ERROR.

A comical scene was enacted at Boulogne the other day. A brother and sister, the former aged 17, and the latter aged 15, were travelling by train together from Paris to London. They were making the journey by the permission of their uncle and guardian in order that they might learn English by residing for a time in the country itself. But the position looked to the station police at Boulogne altogether too idyllic to admit of an explanation so simple, and they declined to allow the young people to quit the station precincts. Being in custody as runaway lovers, the pair had to get out of the difficulty as best they could. The brother telegraphed to their guardian, but it required prolonged negotiation by telephone to obtain their liberty.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR TODAY

of the Royal Saxon Meteorological Institute.

Moderate south-westerly winds, dry but more cloudy, warmer. An early change in the weather probable.
