THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The Prime Minister made a statement as to the measures which the Government wished to have discussed before the end of the session. Among these are the Bill for providing small holdings in England, two Bills relating to taxation and renting of land in Scotland, the Bill for creating a Court of Criminal Appeal, a Bill to enable women to be elected to County, Urban and District Councils, a Bill relating to the employment of women in accordance with the terms of the Geneva Convention, and various less important measures.

In his reply Mr. Balfour discussed the comprehensiveness of this programme and said that if the Government adhered to it the idea of proroguing Parliament on August 24th, as intended by the Prime Minister was simply ridiculous.

THE BELFAST STRIKES.

The coal workers have resumed work, but the dock hands and carters are still on strike.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

THE HEAT-WAVE.

The terrific heat in New York still continues and creates much suffering among people and animals.

JAPAN AND THE U. S. A.

According to a telegram from Austin, Texas, a Japanese has been arrested there on a charge of photographing the forts and batteries. It is said that the prisoner has made a systematic tour throughout all the military posts in Texas. A number of photographs of guns, batteries and defence works were confiscated by the police.

THE MURDER OF AN ARMENIAN.

An Armenian, by name Hamparzumian, has been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the recent murder of the Armenian millionaire Tavshanjian. He has confessed and claims to be a tool of a band of blackmailers scattered over all countries. He has given a list of persons in America and Europe whose murder has been determined upon by the organisation. The American police are endeavouring to lay hands on the members of this criminal society and has requested the police authorities abroad to assist them.

The Evening Standard learns from its New York correspondent that, stimulated by the numerous appeals from citizens' unions owing to the many outrages on women and children which have taken place in New York, the police patrolling has become more active. Householders are now supplied with police cards giving the telephone number in order that they may summon policemen in case of need. In addition to the Italian "Black Hands," the Armenian revolutionary "Hunchakists" persistently blackmail their wealthy fellow countrymen, threatening them with death if their demands are not complied with. So widespread is the conspiracy and so elaborate are the operations of the blackmailers that Commissioner Bingham states it will be difficult to stamp out the evil unless the city provides a secret service fund. Not the least difficulty is that of obtaining the necessary evidence from the large foreign communities of New York, among whom a veritable reign of terror exists.

Thursday evening's New York Globe states that nine wealthy Armenians, who had previously been threatened in common with the murdered Armenian merchant, M. Tavshanjian, have again received demands, accompanied by menaces that they will share the fate of M. Tavshanjian if the demands are not complied with. The letters bear a red seal. Similar letters are alleged to have been received by Armenians in Boston and Chicago.

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE.

The second sub-committee of the second Committee of the Peace Conference discussed the German proposals as to the treatment of neutrals in the territory of the belligerent parties. The German definition of neutrals, viz. all subjects of the State in question not actually taking part in the war, was accepted unanimously. The German proposal as to the breaches of neutrality committed by neutrals was, after a long debate, referred to an examining committee as was the German proposal relating to actions which ought not to be regarded as actions in favour of a belligerent.

A very prolonged debate took place on the German proposals relating to the abolition of the enlistment of neutrals for the war service of a belligerent and relating to the veto on subjects of a State binding themselves to enter the service of a belligerent. Voting on these two proposals was deferred.

The Fourth Committee resumed the debate on the abolition of contraband of war. M. Renault, France, opposed the proposal, Lord Reay, England, supported it.

At the instance of M. v. Martens, it was decided to vote on the English proposal at the next sitting which will be held on Saturday, August 3.

THE KING OF THE BELGIANS THREATENED.

As King Leopold was visiting the new naval docks at Antwerp, he received an anonymous letter on board the "Alberta" threatening him with death.

The police have taken the utmost precautions to safeguard the King during his stay in Antwerp. An enquiry is going on.

DESTRUCTIVE LIGHTNING.

At Urano near Intra (Lago Maggiore) a number of students were overtaken by a storm while marching to the Alps. Two students were killed on the spot by lightning and 5 others were injured.

THE REVOLUTIONARY MOVEMENT IN RUSSIA.

In the course of the last few days four Terrorists have been arrested; on them were found detailed plans of the Imperial section of railway and of the Imperial yacht "Standart".

The examination of the participants in the attempted murder of the Czar in March has been concluded. A naval Lieutenant, by name Nikitento, is accused of being ringleader. The charges will be laid before the commander in chief at St. Petersburg at the beginning of this week.

THE SITUATION IN MOROCCO.

News from Port Sag confirms the report that the Shereefian Mahalla attacked the customs station erected by the Pretender at Marchion on the 23rd. The Mahalla lost 22 killed among them 2 Caid, and 25 wounded, while of the Pretender's forces 10 were killed and 6 wounded.

THE COREAN CRISIS.

Preparations are being made for the speedy transport of 4,000 sailors from Tshemulpo to Seoul. They will not, however, be sent unless it proves absolutely necessary.

The arrival in Fushan of 4,000 men from Kiushiu has commenced, since Marquis Ito has consented to the dispatch of Japanese troops to Seoul, in order to settle the burning question of the disarmament of the Korean army and the separation of the ex-Emperor from his troops and advisers. The Korean Cabinet is prepared to fulfil these demands if sufficient troops are placed at their disposal.

ALINARI'S photographs of the most famous works in the Dresden Gallery, to be had in all Art shops.

When this agreement became known the wives of the elder statesmen came in crowds to the Palace. Weeping and lamenting, they removed everything portable until the palace was empty of all possible mementos.

Vicomte Hayashi has informed a reporter that his mission ended with the signing of the agreement. He said China must take warning by the fate of Corea and put her house in order, since any powerful nation might feel constrained to make a precedent of the events in Seoul.

SCENES IN THE HOUSE.

Since the lamented absence of Mr. Chamberlain who was wont to act as fuel to the fire of Nationalist tempers, scenes in the House of Commons have been less spontaneous and, consequently, less frequent than in the last Parliament. Only once has a so-called "scene" degenerated from words to blows, when Mr. Chamberlain, having drawn a parallel between the slavish obsequiousness of the Liberal party to Mr. Gladstone and the blind subservience of the people of Judaea to the tetrarch Herod, cries of "Judas" arose from the Opposition benches, and Members so far forgot themselves as to participate in a free fight. It was curious that the term "Judas" was always reserved for Mr. Chamberlain, although Mr. Goschen, after having been a distinguished member of a Liberal Administration, did not hesitate to become Chancellor of the Exchequer under a Unionist Prime Minister after the Home Rule split. Possibly the members, who at present sit upon the Opposition benches, have better manners than their predecessors in that part of the House, but it is certain that the cry of "Judas" has never been raised when Mr. Winston Churchill has risen to speak, although he can hardly claim to have broken with his party as Mr. Chamberlain did on some great question of principle. Would Mr. Churchill deny that there seemed a fairer opening for a young man of talent, in whom no one believed more than himself, in the ranks of that party upon which he had been wont to shower that abuse, which no one can command better than he? The Irish Member is never so interesting as when he becomes righteously indignant, and on Thursday evening last the House was afforded the edifying spectacle of Messrs. Redmond and J. W. Russell, another renegade, creating a scene by reading in the House the letters, marked "private" be it said, of Mr. Moore, the Orange Member for North Armagh, to Mr. Bailey, one of the Irish Estate Commissioners. Mr. Bailey, it seems, began the correspondence, he having objected to certain criticisms passed on him by Mr. Moore in the House. Mr. Moore retorted by a most unwise threat to call Mr. Bailey to account for his actions as an Estate Commissioner, when Unionists returned to power. This was too much for Mr. Bailey, who like so many of his race, witty though they are, is evidently lacking of a sense of humour. He replied in the third person with portentous solemnity. Mr. Moore replied with equal stiffness and Mr. J. W. Russell, regardless of the fact that his action was a scandalous wasting of time of the House, must needs insist that this whole correspondence should be read to a bored assembly. Mr. Moore's personal explanation was merely a repetition of the matter of his correspondence and no one could doubt that Mr. Bailey can hardly claim to be considered impartial in the fulfilment of his duties. As if this unnecessary scene were not sufficient Mr. Redmond, still quivering with indignation, drew attention to a picture which appeared recently in the Daily Graphic purporting to be a faithful representation of an Irish "outrage", but which in reality seems to have been evolved from the imagination of a draughtsman of the journal in question. Mr. Redmond had the satisfaction of drawing Mr. Birrell, who rejoices in being sanctimonious, and who in chilling accents remarked that when it came to the public production throughout the Empire of pictorial illustrations of absolute inventions and trying to pass them off as historical pictures of actual occurrences for the purpose of inflaming the public mind, all fair-minded men, irrespective of party, would concur in unqualified condemnation of such a procedure. Can Mr. Birrell really have forgotten that he owes his present position, which he can hardly be said to adorn—seeing that he is now merely renowned as the father of two hantlings one of which he smothered in infancy and the other of which was still born—to the fact that through the length and breadth of England were scattered "pictorial illustrations of absolute inventions" accompanied by letter press which a distinguished colleague of his has described as terminological inexactitudes? The Daily Graphic picture is harmless indeed compared to the preposterous Chinese slavery cartoons, but Mr. Redmond and Mr. Birrell have a convenient memory and the only thing they never forget is that they must play to the gallery and that too, an Irish one.

SPORT IN ENGLAND.

The weather relented in England on Thursday and the second cricket matches of the week began in beautiful sunshine. Chief interest centred in the Notts-Middlesex encounter at Lords, for neither county has, as yet, been defeated this year, though the Middlesex team owe their unbeaten certificate a good deal to luck as they have only won 4 matches out of 9 against Notts' 9 out of 12. Notts won the toss, and although Bosanquet was among the opposing bowlers, all but one of the first eight batsmen reached double figures. Hardstaff, G. Branston making 44 and 46 and while Turner only required one run for his half century. Six wickets were down for 243. Kent are still without Hutchings and Knox is resting, but they managed to knock up 285 against Leicestershire. Yorkshire met Derby at Glossop and on a wet wicket Rhodes and Herst were as destructive as of yore, the former taking 6 wickets for 22, and the latter 4 for the same number. Yorkshire more than doubled their opponents' total for 3 wickets. Somerset only made 147 against Sussex, who looked like doing far better, but with Fry out after making 44, wickets fell rapidly and seven were down for 135. The Lancashire-Warwickshire match was delayed by rain and in 3 hours' cricket the latter County made 142 for 4.

The team for the second test match against S. Africa, which starts at Leeds tomorrow is the same as that which played in the first match, though possibly Crawford may stand down for Knox.

THE ARDENNES MOTOR RACE-MEETING.

The Circuit des Ardennes meeting commenced with the race under the Kaiserpreis formula. The circuit measures nearly 86 kilometres round, and, having to be covered seven times, makes the total distance about 600 kilometres. Twenty-two competitors started for the Coupe de L'Empereur race. The event proved a triumph for the Minerva firm, as the first three competitors to finish drove cars of that make. The result was as follows:—
Moore Brabazon (Minerva), 6h. 14m. 5s. 1
Koolhoven (Minerva), 6h. 14m. 32s. 2
Guinness (Minerva), 6h. 15m. 24s. 3
Harriot, on a Benz, was fourth.

"UNTER DEN LINDEN."

BERLIN THROUGH A FOREIGNER'S SPECTACLES.

Dear
It is the fashion nowadays to criticise Berlin, although it is but a short while back that that gifted Frenchman Huret sang its praises. And indeed in any critical survey of Berlin from a Foreigner's standpoint it is no easy task to refrain from eulogy. For as hardly any other city, perhaps no other indeed, Berlin by her untiring industry has found the way to impose upon us, who are above all things exigent, by her tasteful display so typical of Courts and festivities. I hope to give you in future letters in detail my impressions of this world city; let it for the nonce suffice if I endeavour to convey to you my impression of Berlin's most imposing thoroughfare. In this street every effort has been made to avoid insistence on its double avocation, double that is, because it is not only the representative street of the Capital but also the main artery of traffic and chief business street. It is this latter aspect, however, that I wish to dwell upon today. You would at once concede that no establishment makes a greater impression on the passer-by than that wonderful building denoted to Schulte's art gallery, and which was erected but a year ago to the designs of one of modern Berlin's masters in architecture. Its magnificent show-windows, always containing works of the first masters, are marvels of that decorative show-window architecture, now at its zenith in Berlin. The same impression is made upon us Americans, who are indeed moved to envy, by the other numerous business establishments of this street, regarded from an aesthetic point of view. There, for instance, on the far side of the street is the Art shop of the firm of Markiewitz, which will cause delight to the lovers of the historical style. Then there is the old established firm of Demuth, with its leather goods, patterns of correct taste. Above all the eye turns to the numerous jeweller's shops, which may be truly said to vie with those of their rivals in the Rue de l'Opera in Paris. To mention but a few, there is the establishment of Gebrüder Friedländer with its ever varying display of the latest ideas in jewelry; Aron's too with its dazzling gems; Markus', the rendezvous of all who go a-hunting for wedding gifts; v. Santen's famed as the home of the most costly precious stones. Besides these jeweller's naturally enough in this avenue of luxury are shops devoted to the toilet. To mention but one, who could pass by Braun's without many a glance at the fascinating display of exquisite confections. Foreigners will be especially attracted by such wonderful flowershops as that of I. C. Schmidt. Close by are firms of world-wide repute which send their wares across the oceans, such, for instance, as Felsing, the watch-maker, whose large clock shows us the correct time of all the capitals of the world, Arnheim, maker of fire proof safes, Lohse, perfumer, Hövell, confectioner, Reiser, hatter, Derold who purveys Cognac, Heinze, the lottery agent, the Kodak establishment and Loeb, agent for automobiles.

Special interest is attached by foreigners to the Cable room of the Lokal Anzeiger, where all day long a crowd scans the world's news, to the international travel-bureau of the Hambury America line, the North German Lloyd, the Union travel-bureau all institutions the importance of which, especially for Berlin, the modern central point of Europe, is immense. All our countrymen sojourning in Berlin cannot be sufficiently urged to take advantage of this bureau conducted so excellently and with such American precision. One word as to the palaces dedicated to Bacebus and Lucullus. Who has not heard of Café Dressel, Westminster, the Hotel Bristol, Kranzler's, the Café Bauer, the English Bar in the Unter den Linden Passage? I may pause here, for the luxury and wealth of delights of these resorts are known the world over. Besides the Palaces and business establishments it is on Unter den Linden that we find the Passage-Panoptikum and the Kaiser-Panorama.

Compared with all these edifices, the ebullitions of the modern spirit, the statue of old Fritz opposite the New Palace has all the charm of contrast. Nowhere, in fact, more than in Berlin do these contrasts strike one with more harmonious effect.

Yours, Paul.

H. R. H. the Princess of Wales, travelling incognito as Baroness Killarney, arrived in Dresden yesterday morning and drove to the Savoy Hotel where she is staying during her visit to this city.

Hon. Richard Bartholdt, Member of Congress for St. Louis and Delegate of the Inter-Parliamentary Union, with Mrs. Bartholdt and his sister, is staying at the Europäischer Hof.

M. Jules Boeufvé, formerly Chancellor of the French Embassy in Washington and now French Consul in Berlin, and the French Consul in Bremen have arrived in Dresden.

Tomorrow Monday evening at 8 o'clock and on Tuesday evening at the same hour the two concerts of the Koschat Quintet take place at the "Bergkeller", under the personal leadership of Herr Thomas Koschat, the composer of the best German Alpine songs. Each of Herr Koschat's concerts is a new triumph. The folk-songs of the Alps never fail of their effect, since every one—in whatever direction his musical taste lies—finds the popular and highly characteristic songs of the Koschat Quintet very pleasing.

Only these two concerts will be given; tickets for both may be obtained in advance from F. Ries, Kaufhaus. At the entrance to the "Bergkeller" at the time of the concerts the price of a ticket will be 1 mark, except to members of singing societies who will be admitted at 50 pf. each on showing their cards of membership.

The number of summer guests who visited Klotzsche-Königswald up to the 26th of this month amounted to 407 parties consisting of 992 persons. During last week the König Friedrich August Bath was visited by 2,300 persons while 210 persons took "cure" baths.

From the prospectus of the cure by magnetism, sent out by Herr Ludwig Tormin, Struve Strasse 30, we learn of the wonderfully beneficial results these cures has had on all who have tried them. We may once more lay especial stress on the fact that these magnetic cures of Herr Tormin are in no kind of way connected with hypnotism.

CONVERSATION IN THE SCHLOSS STRASSE.
"Morning, Paul, what's the news?"
"News? Why the Hau trial's over."
"Well that's not going to spoil my appetite."
"Nor mine, but I can't help thinking what fools those Carlsruhe people are."
"What, for cheering Hau? Oh, well, their heads wanted cooling like mine does. Let's go in here, into the Stadt Gotha and have a glass of beer—we can get the real thing there!"
"What do you call the real thing?"
"Where were you brought up? Why, Münchner Hofbräu, peerless beer, or if you prefer it, genuine Pilsener."

At Emil Richter's Art Salon in Prager Strasse will be opened tomorrow an exhibition of thirty-two water-colour drawings by the English painter Walter Crane, an eminent artist who is generally known only as the gifted representative of modern pre-Raphaelitism, as the creator of such spirited paintings as "The Bridge of Life", &c., which are distinguished by the depth of conception and the picturesquely decorative effect in the best sense of the words. The water-colours in which Walter Crane pictures India—its landscape beauties, its ancient monuments, and its human life—with a mastery that shows fully the extraordinary gift of observation possessed by the artist and his sharp eye for the picturesque as well as his powerful drawing, will therefore be seen with great interest. Besides Walter Crane's water-colours, the paintings of Charles Cottet, Paris, and Arthur Studd, London, remain on view, and to these we again call attention.

The programme of tomorrow, Monday evening's orchestral concert at the Royal Belvedere will be as follows:

- (1) March, "Feuert los!" Rossey.
- (2) Overture, "Erlkönig" Schubert-Amstberg.
- (3) "Frühlingserwachen" E. Bach.
- (4) Gipsy Serenade Nehl.

DISCOVERY AT LINCOLN.
Workmen making excavations for an electric cable in the St. Catherine's district of Lincoln, near the Kesteven (South Lincoln) police-station, found a number of human skeletons of full growth at no great depth from the surface. St. Catherine's Priory stood in the immediate neighbourhood, being established in the twelfth century, and it is thought possible that the skeletons now brought to light may have been interred in the graveyard.
