KING EDWARD ENTERTAINS THE FRENCH PREMIER.

The French Prime Minister, M. Clémenceau, left Carlsbad by automobile on Wednesday morning. On arrival at Marienbad he proceeded at once to the Hotel Weimar where he was most cordially welcomed by H. M. King Edward. The Premier lunched with the King and in the course of the afternoon returned to Carlsbad whence he left yesterday for Munich en route for Paris.

At luncheon M. Clémenceau sat on the right, Sir E. Goschen on the left of the King who paid the Prime Minister great attention. After luncheon all the other guests retired and M. Clémenceau remained for an hour alone with the King. At three o'clock he took leave of his Majesty, who charged him with messages to President Fallières and thanked him for accepting his invitation.

To the journalists waiting in the porch M. Clémenceau said that he could give them no details. All European matters including the Moroccan question had been broached. In the course of conversation it had been agreed that the international situation offered an entirely peaceful outlook. Immediately upon his return to Paris M. Clémenceau will give a report of his interview to Messrs. Fallières and Pichon and together with the latter agree upon a communiqué.

M. Fontin, Chef de Cabinet, said that the King's invitation was regarded as a great attention to France. King Edward wished to honour France in the person of M. Clémenceau; the invitation was also a sign of the enduring entente cordiale between England and France.

According to the Figaro M. Clémenceau said, after the breakfast with the King of England at Marienbad, that the conversation referring to general politics and in particular to Moroccan affairs had touched also on the visits to Wilhelmshöhe and Ischl.

ACCIDENT TO H. M. THE GERMAN EMPRESS.

On Wednesday afternoon H. M. the Empress when walking near Wilhelmshöhe slipped on the wet ground and injured a vein in her left leg. Her Majesty will in consequence be confined to a couch for some time. She has been obliged to give up the idea of going to Schwerin, Hannover and Münster.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

The Scottish Land Bill, which was recently criticised so violently in the Upper House by Lord Rosebery, has been dropped by the Government, since the Opposition had announced their intention of moving drastic amendments to it.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

THE CRISIS IN MOROCCO.

Mr. J. B. Lonsdale, Conservative, Member for Mid Armagh, directed the attention of the Government to the losses of Englishmen in Casablanca and to the statement of an English missionary that while the French, German and Spanish Governments had taken measures for the protection of their subjects, the British Government had taken no such steps; he asked, therefore, what was being done to protect the life and interests of Englishmen in Morocco.

Mr. Runciman replied that Sir E. Grey regretted to be obliged to state that according to the report of the English Consul the property of English and other inhabitants of Casablanca had suffered considerable damage. He, Sir E. Grey, had, however, no knowledge of the English missionary's statement mentioned by Mr. Lonsdale. The British Government held the view that the French and Spanish Governments must do all in their power to maintain order in the open Moroccan harbours. The Government had complete confidence in the steps taken by both Governments to protect life and property in these harbours. No other Power had sent forces to Casablanca and the British Government on this point found itself in agreement with all the other Powers. So far as was known, the British Colony had left Marakesh on August 11, and proceeded to the coast. The British Consuls in Fez and El 'Ksar had received instructions to take all measures in their power for the retreat to the coast of all Englishmen in their districts, should necessity arise.

SHOULD GOVERNMENTS PAY DUTY?

The Custom House in Sidney has confiscated a consignment of goods from London destined for the Government of New South Wales, since payment of duty on the same had been refused. A telegram from the Federal Treasurer to the Prime Minister of New South Wales pointing out the serious consequences of persisting in illegal action, was answered by a cable stating that the attempt to impose duties on State or Royal property was illegal, and was opposed to the finding of the highest Court of New South Wales which was to be looked upon as valid so long as no other legal decision had been given.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

The Globe learns from its New York correspondent that to Mr. Taft's speech so much importance had been attached by the Administration that copies were supplied in advance to the news agencies. It fits in fairly with the forecasts, necessarily endorsing and emphasising the anti-Trust campaign of President Roosevelt, while repudiating all intention of attacking bona fide business combinations and methods. Legislation was even hinted at, designed specifically to protect honest corporations against over-zealous State law-makers.

Before leaving Washington Mr. Taft talked informally with a few privileged reporters, and took occasion to declare that the views which he proposed to express in the course of his speeches on his way to the Pacific coast were those of President Roosevelt, as well as his own, and that they would not be confined to the Trusts, but would include such burning questions as the tariff and the regulation of the railways. As a matter of fact, he went over the whole ground in his first speech, and his subsequent utterances will presumably be merely elaborations of his arguments. Incidentally Mr. Taft posed to the reporters at Washington before starting on his journey as the ardent patriot who was prepared to sacrifice all personal desires and predilections on the altar of his country. He had, it seemed, just "drifted" into the position of a Presidential candidate. He would have preferred to pass the closing decade of his public work as a judge in the calm judicial atmosphere of the Supreme Court at Washington, but the country and the party had decided another course of usefulness for him, and he had no option but to obey the call.

The programme of Mr. Taft's tour includes calls upon the Emperor of Japan, the Emperor of China, the German Emperor, and King Edward. He is undoubtedly charged with a mission of the first importance, but neither he nor the State Department will discuss that subject. No fitter man for the mission can be found in the public life of the United States at the present moment, not even excepting President Roosevelt. He is a general favourite, a man of massive physical build, charming manners, and acute intellect. As a Presidential candidate, he is head and shoulders above all other Republican leaders in the running for the White House. Nevertheless, powerful influences are already at work against him, and plans are afoot which, if they are carried out successfully, will prevent Mr. Taft from obtaining the nomination of the National Convention next summer.

TERRIBLE MOTOR ACCIDENT.

The American millionaire Mr. Root and his whole family have lost their lives in a terrible motor-car accident. During a drive he was seized by the unfortunate idea of racing an express train. The car came to a curve when the railway tracks crossed the street, a fact of which Mr. Root seemed unaware. He himself was driving but failed to hear the engine's signal as he is deaf; the engine driver as a last resource attempted to reach the danger spot quicker than the motor-car; when Mr. Root saw this he also put on his top speed and the inevitable collision followed. The motor-car was completely wrecked. Mr. Root and his son were thrown under the engine and killed on the spot. His mother and sister were hurled far into a field and were also picked up dead. His daughter was mortally injured.

A BANK SMASH.

The Portland Trust and Saving's bank has been forced to cease payments, having been unsuccessful in spite of securities offered, of procuring a capital of 100,000 dollars. The liabilities are said to be 25,000,000 dollars.

THE MORENGA INCIDENT.

According to the latest intelligence received in Berlin, Morenga is at present near the Gamsib Kluft close to the frontier, but it is uncertain whether he is on German or English soil; no reliable information has, as yet, been received as to the number of his followers.

Herr Dernburg, Secretary of State, who is at Muansa, on hearing that Morenga had crossed the frontier, sent Lt. Colonel Quade to German South-West Africa.

WRESTLERS COME TO BLOWS.

Violent scenes occurred in the Circus Sporn at Düsseldorf on Wednesday evening. Some wrestling contests were going on and in one bout Steurs, a Belgian wrestler, took an unfair hold of his opponent Sturm of Berlin. Both wrestlers began to box each other's ears, while the public stormed the ring and had to be driven back by police and firemen. The judges disqualified both wrestlers, and the police prohibited their further appearance.

THE HEALTH OF DR. LUEGER.

Vienna papers announce that the condition of the Mayor, Dr. Lueger, has given rise to anxiety during the last few days; he has had repeated fainting fits.

STORM WORKS HAVOC IN JUTLAND.

Despatches from Copenhagen report that the North West part of Jutland was visited on Wednesday morning by a terrific storm which did enormous damage. The storm was accompanied by a powerful water spout which lifted roofs off houses and knocked down walls. Two horses standing in a courtyard were lifted 20 ft. into the air and deposited outside the courtyard. A dog is said to have been carried along in the air a distance of 200 ft.

AN EARTHQUAKE IN THE CAUCASUS.

News comes from Temir-Chan-Shura, Daghestan, that a slight earthquake shock lasting about five seconds was felt there on Wednesday morning.

MOSCOW STUDENTS IN REVOLT.

The Central organ of the Moscow revolutionary students announces that the Moscow students' Union have determined to prevent the resumption of regular lectures and to prepare a resolution, to be moved at a general meeting of the students in September, declaring the impossibility of studying while the autonomy of the Universities is limited.

THE RUSSIAN NAVY.

The London Daily Chronicle learns that Russia has concluded a contract with a North of England ship-building firm for the construction of battle-ships, cruisers and gunboats. The outlay will amount to 7 million pounds sterling.

THE CRISIS IN MOROCCO.

Reuter's Bureau announces that Tuesday passed off quietly at Casablanca apart from desultory skirmishing. On Monday the Arabs made an attacking movement but were driven back by fire from the ships' guns. There is some talk of discord in the Arab camp. The fanatics desire to renew the attack, but the majority are in favour of awaiting a French advance, in order to be able to attack them beyond the range of the ships' guns. The Spanish troops made a reconnaissance on Tuesday in order to find a place suitable for a camp and were subjected to Arab fire. The native authorities have had that part of the town inhabited by natives burnt down for sanitary reasons, a measure which puts a stop to the proceedings of those natives who, concealed in ambush there, shot at the Europeans.

The latest news from Fez is disquieting. It is feared that at any moment the Europeans may find themselves forced to leave the town; for even if they are well protected they may be exposed to insults. It is said that Muley Hafid, in loyalty to his brother, has refused to accept the crown and will do his utmost to quiet the excited spirits. It is reported from Tetuan that a battle has taken place between the Mahalla Buchta ben Bagdadi and El Merani and the Hlemas tribe. Many prisoners were sent to Tetuan. Nothing new has transpired as to Maclean's release.

News has reached Paris that the transport ship "Viuh Long" was probably to leave Oran on Tuesday evening to convey to Casablanca a rifle battalion of 800 men and 100 native volunteers (Goumiers). Later reports from Oran confirm this; the "Viuh Long" sailed as arranged.

The Paris Temps confirms the report that Admiral Philibert has announced by telegraph that General Drude considers a reinforcement of his troops necessary for the efficient defence of Casablanca.

The Journal reports that it was decided at Tuesday's Cabinet Council to concede various less important requests of Admiral Philibert and General Drude, having reference to improving the situation of the troops. No decision was arrived at as to the main question, the request for reinforcements.

The Ministry of Marine in Madrid learns from reliable sources that the Spanish and French warships will not be able, from the beginning of September onwards, to remain in certain of the Moroccan harbours which afford insufficient protection, on account of the annual stormy season which commences almost immediately.

The Spanish Cabinet Council has declared, the statements of the newspapers as to the fighting at Casablanca on the 18th were exaggerated. Spain will send no reinforcements.

The Spanish troops which were carrying out police duties had to remain in the interior of the town without taking part in the fighting unless they were attacked.

Reuter's messages, which have reached London, state that great anxiety for their safety prevails among the Europeans in Mogador since the French cruisers will not suffice for the protection of the town should the tribes revolt. Muley Hafid has been acclaimed Sultan in Marakesh with great jubilation and has deposed the Government. He is making preparations to lead 20,000 cavalry to attack the European troops before Casablanca. It is feared that the new Sultan will appoint new Governors in the harbour towns and will thus cause further disturbances.

News has reached Tangier from Fez that the Sultan has postponed the departure of the 30 notables who were to leave for Tangier. It was rumoured that the European Colonies were to leave Fez yesterday.

About 2,000 Moroccans who worked in the Beni-Saf mines laid down their work on Tuesday. They passed in procession through the streets of Tlemun threatening the Europeans. The mayor begged the military authorities for arms for the populace.

The Paris papers announce that the French Government will undertake no expedition into the interior of Morocco. It is said that the tribes in the neighbourhood of Casablanca are being supplied with war material. The battle at Casablanca on the 19th instant lasted half an hour; 400 Moroccans are reported to have been left on the field before the town. General Drude had declared that a reinforcement of 1,500 men was necessary. The Spanish troops still refused to take part in the fighting. The tribes in the interior continue to send thousands of mounted men to Casablanca. According to an article in the Matin, General Drude considered his force sufficient for necessary precautionary measures.

The French War and Marine Ministries decline to confirm or deny the announcement of the Temps that General Drude has demanded reinforcements. It is pointed out that troops, with an effective strength of 5,000 men, will shortly be at the disposal of General Drude, which will be quite sufficient to protect Casablanca, apart from unforeseen circumstances.

The Eclair stated yesterday that the Spanish Ambassador in Paris has protested against certain malevolent utterances with regard to the conduct of the Spanish detachment in Casablanca. Spain, said His Excellency, would loyally perform the duties she had undertaken, to help to organise the police in the towns on the coast so that all might be in order when Colonel Müller arrived on the 20th of September.

ENGLISH HONOURS FOR GERMAN DOCTOR.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and the Chapter-General of the Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in England have awarded its medal for saving life on land at imminent personal risk to Dr. Albert von Lecoq in recognition of great humanity shown by him under extremely trying circumstances. Sir Francis Young-husband, the Resident in Kashmir, has reported to his Royal Highness and the Chapter-General that in August, 1906, Captain J. D. Sherer, Royal Garrison Artillery, was travelling in Chinese Turkestan and met Dr. von Lecoq at Kashgar, when they agreed to travel back to India via the Karakorum route. After visiting Khotan, they left Yarkand for Ladakh on the 15th of September, taking the route via Kukja and the Tiznaf and Yarkand Rivers. Dr. von Lecoq was in poor health, suffering from attacks of dysentery and also from debility caused by two years' hardship and poor nourishment during his travels in Turkestan in the cause of scientific research. On October 2 Captain Sherer was taken ill with enteric fever and pneumonia, and after crossing the Karakorum Pass he was unable to proceed any further. On October 13 Dr. von Lecoq started for Panacuik with the caravan to obtain assistance, and arrived back at Captain Sherer's tent on the 21st with a dooly, 20 Ladakhis, and some fresh ponies. To perform this feat he was obliged to travel from dawn till sunset daily for nine consecutive days, crossing the dreadful Sasser and Murghi Passes twice. During this time this gallant gentleman lived on flour balls rolled by his Anjaulik servant and then dipped in melted grease, as he left meat and other stores behind him with a complete disregard of himself and his own health, fearing Captain Sherer would run short. On October 22 they started for Panacuik, and on November 2 arrived at Leh. Sir Francis Young-husband states that from his own experiences upon the same route he well knows that this service must have been of a specially arduous and severe nature. That Dr. von Lecoq, a mere road acquaintance of Captain Sherer and a man of different nationality, should cross the Sasser and Murghi Passes three times in fourteen days, the third time in a blinding snowstorm, the first-named Pass being 17,840 feet high and the summit consisting of some three miles of perpetual glacier, appears an act of self-sacrifice, humanity, and devotion which is deserving of exceptional recognition. The Prince of Wales and the Chapter-General have therefore decided that the Medal of the Order shall be presented to Dr. von Lecoq struck in gold, this being the first time that it has been awarded in that metal. Dr. Albert von Lecoq resides at Halensee, Berlin, and was till lately Chief of the Royal Prussian Archaeological Expedition to Turfan, Chinese Turkestan.

SPORTING NOTES.

The waning cricket season in England is still suffering from most unfavourable climatic conditions. The third and final test match with the South-African team, now in progress, has been much interrupted by rain, and with only an innings and a half concluded by Tuesday evening, another draw seemed inevitable. Not very much can be said for the batting of the home side, with one or two brilliant exceptions. Hirst, Crawford and Yessop did little, while Tyldesley and Braund hardly reproduced their usual form. Critics had been found earlier in the season to carp at the inclusion of C. B. Fry in the English team, but in each test match he has more than justified his selection, and in the match in question was responsible for a brilliant innings of 129. R. E. Foster the English captain, also played finely for 51, while Lilley, the veteran test match player, was responsible for 42. For the South-Africans, Sherwell and Faulkner soon lost their wickets, but Nourse and Snookes made a capital stand before the former was snapped at the wicket off Knox.

The Lawn Tennis Championship of Germany has this year fallen to a German, for in the tournament just brought to a conclusion at Hamburg, Froitzheim of Frankfurt was successful in wresting the championship from Ritchie who has held it for 4 years running. Ritchie was not in his best form, but none the less great credit is due to Froitzheim for beating so redoubtable an opponent in three straight sets 7-5, 6-3, 6-4. His successes did not end there, for in the open Men's Doubles together with Trafenster he defeated the holders Ritchie and Adler 6-3, 6-4, 6-3. England also went to the wall in the Mixed Doubles, for Frau Dr. Neresheimer and Herr Trafenster defeated Fräulein v. Madarasz and her English partner W. C. Lane after a great fight 11-9, 8-6, 6-3, last years winners, Fräulein Schmoller and Oskar Kreuzer having been knocked out in the 3rd round.

The premier race meeting of Germany at Baden-Baden begins today and once again there will be a great duel between French and German horses. M. Caillaut has entered several of his best racers, and will probably take one or two of the valuable prizes back to France. The Germans, however, hope to annex the Gold Cup, the chief prize of the meeting, with Fels.

A LITERARY TITAN.

Signor Gabriele D'Annunzio is credited with having in hand simultaneously the probably unprecedented number of five separate works widely differing in character. Two are comedies of modern life. Two others are tragedies—one, "La Nave", is really an apotheosis of the sea power of Venice, and the other upon the legend of "Tristan and Iseult." Then he is well under way with a short romance, entitled, "Perhaps, yes; perhaps, no."

CURRENT TOPICS IN AMERICA.

(By letter dated August 9th, from our New York correspondent.)

A CHINO-GERMAN-AMERICAN INCIDENT.

Four and twenty Chinamen may claim to have achieved renown in that they have been the central point of a small Chino-German-American diplomatic incident. The Chinese in question were members of the crew of a small German freight steamer, the "Tolosan" lying in San Francisco, and owing to alleged bad treatment they deserted. Since they declined to return on board, and since the Federal Shipping Commissioner in San Francisco ordered their deportation to China, the captain of the "Tolosan" had recourse to the German Embassy in order to obtain delivery of the deserters. The Embassy placed itself in communication with the State Department which referred the whole matter to the Department of Justice. This latter decided as was only to be expected, to hand over the deserters to the German Consul in San Francisco in virtue of the treaty existing between America and Germany whereby German sailors who have deserted are to be handed over to the representative of the German Government. Accordingly the Consul brought the Chinamen back to the "Tolosan". The deserters, when they understood that they would have to return on board, behaved like madmen. Some threw themselves down and beat their heads on the ground, others tore out their hair and uttered fearful groans, while others again gave vent to the most appalling threats.

The diplomatic incident need never have occurred, for under the Treaty the German Consul has power to settle differences between the Captain and the crew on German ships in American waters.

AWAY WITH THE TEDDY-BEARS.

An American household without a Teddy-bear is hardly to be imagined since Teddy-bear worship became so universal. If ever an invention was a lucky business speculation it was that of the new plaything in the shape of a bear, which in tender allusion to the fact that President Roosevelt had hunted so many little bears, was christened a "Teddy-bear". Teddy is the pet name of the mass of the population for Theodore Roosevelt. The Teddy-bear at once received a warm welcome in the children's world, and then came the Teddy-bear fashion and it was no uncommon thing to see elder girls, aye, even married ladies walking in the streets with Teddy-bears under their arms. Simultaneously with the arrival of this new fashion rose the cry of the doll manufacturers. Children took no more delight in dolls, they would only have Teddy-bears and the doll industry experienced a notable set-back. While for a time old and young, the doll-manufacturers excepted, were charmed with the Teddy-bears, soon enough, to the joy of these same manufacturers came a reaction, which is continually growing stronger. Now the doll-makers have been joined by those who see in the Teddy-bear a serious danger to youth. It is now believed that the Teddy-bear has killed the maternal instinct in the little girl which is aroused and fostered by dolls, and that it promotes race-suicide—that antipathy to the blessings of children prevalent in America and condemned at every opportunity by President Roosevelt. And now in many quarters shriller grows the cry "Away with the Teddy-bears!" The mistresses in the sewing department of the summer schools of the New York University are lamenting that the young girls instead of, as formerly, sewing clothes for their dolls, will have nothing more to do with dolls and expend all their caresses on Teddy-bears. The Teddy-bear is henceforth to be exiled from these classes. Even the mistresses of the New York public schools express themselves as being rendered most anxious as to the spread of the Teddy-bear fashion among their scholars. Now that the Teddy-bear has been characterised as a dangerous toy from the pulpit, its days may well be looked upon as numbered.

NEW YORK VANDALS.

The beautiful Beethoven Memorial in Central Park, a gift of the New York Beethoven male choir to the city, has been considerably damaged by the hands of vandals. From the hands of the female figure in front of the master's bust the lyre has been torn away. It is surmised that various young lads, who were seen loitering near the memorial are responsible for this disgraceful vandalism. But this repeated damaging of memorials gives cause for thought.

The Duke's chancellor	Herr Pust.

PLOT. Knight Hugo, with his attendant Veit, has been seeking adventure in accordance with the wishes of the Duke's daughter, Bertalda. Hugo falls in love with Undine, adopted daughter of a fisherman and marries her; though she says she has no soul, and is, in reality the daughter of Kühleborn, King of the water-spirits, who is very angry when he hears from Veit that Hugo may be unfaithful when he meets Bertalda again. Undine tells Hugo she is a water-spirit, and can only win a soul by a man's constancy. Bertalda is proved to be the daughter of Undine's foster-parents, and is turned out of the castle, but Hugo becomes unfaithful and Undine returns to her father, while Hugo takes Bertalda to live with him. He has all the wells closed, but Veit, in pity for Undine, uncovers one, and she appears just as Hugo is about to marry Bertalda. Hugo, in remorse, falls dead at her feet, the floods come up and cover everything, and Hugo's soul is pardoned on condition that he remains in the watery kingdom of Undine.

Constanze Zinner and other artistes.

Entertainment begins 8.30 p.m.

It may be pure coincidence, but it is at least remarkable that the New York vandals always lay hands on just those memorials which were presented by Germans and which are the work of German artists. First there was the wanton mutilation of the Lorelei fountain, then the shameful destruction of the memorial to the victims of the Slocum disaster, and now comes the injury to the Beethoven memorial.

MR. TAFT AS A GLOBE TROTTER.

On September 10th Mr. Taft is to start on a trip round the world. He first goes to the Philippines to attend the opening of the first Philippine Legislature. The return to America takes place via the Trans-Siberian railway and Europe. He will also visit the chief cities of Europe, although not in an official capacity. By the end of his journey he will have established a travelling record for a member of an American Cabinet. After his round the world trip he will have travelled about 100,000 miles since he entered the Cabinet.

THE LIBERTY STATUE WANTS REPAIR.

The Statue of Liberty in New York harbour has for a long time looked very shabby. Its exterior has suffered much from the weather and in its interior several stones have come away from the mortar. Now it is to have a new bronze robe at a cost of nearly 2,000 dollars, and various structural alterations are to be made inside the statue, which will require some 20,000 dollars. In the outstretched arm a circular stairway is to be placed and a lift is to be fitted inside the statue so that visitors will no longer require to perform gymnastic feats, should they desire to mount to the "lady's" arms!

THE LATE PROF. JOACHIM.

We reprint from the Times the following poetical tribute to the great violinist from the pen of Mr. James Rhoades, so well known for his beautiful metrical versions of Vergil's Georgics.

How oft his vibrant bow now laid supine—
 Mighty interpreter of the lords of sound—
 Hath caught the dust-drift of our daily round
 And danced it into mazy forms divine,
 Making the dull seem dear, the common fine,
 And our dead thoughts within to leap and bound
 With intricate phantasies lost as soon as found,
 And stainless left the floor-way of God's shrine!

Selfless and sacrosanct he held his aim
 Unwavering, true as needle to the star.
 For his initiate ear long deaf to fame,
 And ever rapt from earth's discordant din,
 The temple of music hung her door ajar.
 O who can grieve that he hath entered in?

DEATH OF A FAMOUS DETECTIVE.

Robert Pinkerton, the head of the famous American Detective Institute, died recently of heart disease on board the steamer "Bremen" during the voyage from New York to Plymouth. With him disappears one of the foremost in his profession. The Institute was founded by Allan Pinkerton, Robert's father, about 50 years ago and soon made itself respected by the discretion of its chief and the trustworthiness and incorruptibility of his officials; and the "Pinkertons", as his agents soon came to be called, rendered valuable services to the police. For instance, Allan Pinkerton saved President Lincoln's life in Baltimore, and of Robert a great number of Sherlock-Holmes-like stories are told, two only of which may here be mentioned. This great coup was the capture of the notorious bank-note forger and bank robber Walter Sheridan. Pinkerton himself led the chase, in which only the cleverest of his agents were employed. The chief difficulty lay in the fact that no portrait of Sheridan was to be had. Pinkerton was equal to the occasion. He disguised himself, broke into the house of one of Sheridan's relatives and carried off the precious portrait, which he forthwith had copied, distributing the copies among his army of detectives. It was not many weeks before Sheridan was in custody. Another good stroke of business was done by Pinkerton a comparatively short time ago. He had been engaged to carry £100,000 worth of bonds from one American State to another. This became known, and a band of criminals determined for once to outdo the famous detective. They boarded the train, gagged and bound the guard, threw the safe on to the track, and, while the train was still moving, leapt off in order to divide the spoil. When they opened the safe they found it contained worthless paper. Pinkerton was in the train, miles away, with the bonds neatly packed in the lining of his clothes.

LOCAL.

Once again miserable weather interfered greatly with the enjoyment of those attending a great charity fête, for the pitiless rain of Wednesday evening completely spoilt the out of door part of the fête given on behalf of the Albert Verein in the Exhibition grounds. When the fête opened at 4 o'clock the attendance was already very large. The band of H. M. the Emperor's yacht "Hohenzollern" performed in the garden kiosk, alternating with that of the 12th Saxon Infantry Regiment No. 177 and the Trumpeters of the Gardereiter Regiment. But hardly had the music begun when down came the rain, and from 5 o'clock onward the Gardereiter band performed in the great concert hall, the platform being decorated with herbaceous plants. The various stalls where lottery tickets were disposed of were largely patronised. Other attractions were a skittles tournament, a cinematograph theatre and a shooting booth. The contemplated firework display and illumination of the grounds had perforce to be abandoned. At 7 o'clock H. R. H. Princess Mathilde arrived, being followed shortly after by the patroness of the fête, H. M. Queen Carola. Her Majesty visited the Tombola and bought 30 tickets, one of which, to her evident satisfaction, bore a winning number. After a tour of the halls Her Majesty and Princess Mathilde left, having expressed themselves highly pleased with all they had seen. After a performance in the main hall by the Dresden Choral Union, dancing began and was carried on with great spirit till a late hour.

At the Central Theatre this evening, Friday the 23rd instant "Die Diebin" (Leah Kleschna), by Mc Clellan, will be given for the last time.—Tomorrow, Saturday the 24th instant, the latest novelty of the time, "Bühne und Welt", a play in 4 Acts by Frido Grelle, will be performed for the first time.—On Sunday the 25th instant at 3.30 p. m. "Sherlock Holmes" will be repeated at reduced prices, and at 8 p. m. "Bühne und Welt" at ordinary prices.

The last performance of the summer season will be that of "Bühne und Welt" on Wednesday the 28th instant.

The programme of this evening's orchestral concert at the Royal Belvedere, will be as follows:— (1) "Ziel erkannt, Kräfte gespannt!", Marsch, Forwerk; (2) Ouverture zur Oper "Das Glöckchen des Eremiten", Maillart; (3) Ideale, Romanze, Tosti; (4) Bachanale aus der Oper "Samson et Dalila", Saint-Saëns; (5) Einleitung zum III. Akt der Oper "Tannhäuser" (Tannhäusers Pilgerfahrt), Wagner; (6) Valse triste, Sibelius; (7) Tonbilder aus der Oper "Der Prophet", Meyerbeer; (8) Ouverture zur Operette "Frau Meisterin", v. Suppé; (9) Moment musical, Schubert; (10) Flirtation (für Streichinstrumente), Steck; (11) Nervös, Galopp, Fétras.

In order to obtain beautiful and characteristic pictures of the Dresden "Heide", of the Priessnitz valley, and of the König Friedrich August Baths for the next Prospectus of the Baths, the Gemeinde-rat of Klotzsche-Königswald has offered prizes to amateurs. The three best works will be awarded valuable prizes by a jury, and the purchase of other pictures is contemplated. Pictures which do not gain prizes will be returned to the senders. Any amateur may compete gratuitously, and pictures must be delivered before the 1st of October at the art photography salon of Herr Oskar Bohr, next the Café König, marked with an index-word and accompanied by the sender's name and address in a closed envelope. The pictures will be exhibited free in Herr Bohr's salon, where further particulars may be obtained.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 2nd Grenadier Regiment No. 101. The band plays about 12.40 p. m. in the Schloss Platz.

Whoever has lost or left anything in the streets or squares of this city should enquire for the same at the Fundamt (lost property office) of the Königliche Polizeidirektion, Schiess Gasse 7.
