SEDITION IN INDIA.

EUROPEANS ASSAULTED.

Calcutta, September 11.
The extremist leader, Mr. Bepin Chandra Pal, was yesterday sentenced to six months' rigorous imprisonment, for refusing to give evidence in the case in which the native journal Bande Mataram was charged with sedition.

A great crowd which had assembled in the vicinity of the police-court to hear the sentence, shouted Bande Mataram, refused to disperse, and resisted the police. Amid great confusion and disorder the prisoner was removed to gaol.

Calcutta, September 12.
The accused while on bail held inflammatory public meetings.

Affairs in Eastern Bengal have not improved. Many Europeans have been severely assaulted. One died.

This crime was witnessed by hundreds, but the police could get no evidence.

The Englishman declares a Special Crimes Act a necessity.

THE LOYALTY OF THE SEPOYS.

Calcutta, September 12.
The Englishman asserts that the true reason why Lajpat Rai was deported was that the native officers informed their colonels that the loyalty of the troops would be doubtful, if he were allowed to continue his speeches, and if the Punjab Land Colonies' Bill were not vetoed. The Government, adds the Englishman, was unwilling to veto the Bill, but Lord Kitchener insisted on its being done.

THE VANCOUVER RIOTS.

BARON ISHII ON THE SITUATION.

Victoria (B.C.), September 11, 8 p. m.
Interviewed before his departure, the Baron said, "I have received telegrams from our Government, from which I infer that Japan will not make an international incident of the recent riots. The relations between Great Britain and Japan are very close, and not to be disturbed by such an incident. The Japanese Government will demand the payment of damages to individual Japanese, but you will not hear from the Government officially. I look for no further rioting. The situation is well in hand, and our people have no fear."
Senator Bingham, of Oregon, who is staying here, declares that there is no disguising the fact that there is a common underlying feeling on the Pacific Coast on the question of Oriental immigration. When the Orientals begin to crowd out the white man, he said, the real trouble would commence. He intimated his belief that the United States and Canada would eventually have to pursue a common policy in the matter.

ARRIVAL OF 1,175 ORIENTALS.

Victoria (B.C.), September 12.
The S.S. "Monteagle" passed up the river today. She has in all 1,175 Hindoos and Japanese immigrants on board. Quiet prevails in Vancouver, and further trouble is regarded as improbable.
It is stated that there is no work for the Hindoos, nor is there any means of sanitarily housing them. It is seriously proposed to raise a public subscription to ship the lot to Ottawa by special train.

THE DEPREDATIONS OF THE APACHES.

PLEAS FOR THE GUILLOTINE.
Paris, September 13.
The sentence of death passed on the murderer Soleilland has been commuted into life-long deportation.

Numberless petitions had been sent in for the execution of this man, but without avail. According to the Evening Standard these show a curious aspect of French life and character. Soleilland is an atrocious murderer, and it may be the logic of the Latin races, of which we hear so much, which expresses itself in these demands for the last reprisals of justice. At the same time, they suggest that the ferocity which produced the sanguinary scenes of the French Revolution is not dead in the French character. Ferocity, however, is often provoked by fear. So it is, to some extent, in the present case. The depredations of the Apaches, not only in Paris but in other of the great French cities, may have been exaggerated. The fact remains that they, or the reports of them, have produced a reign of terror. Stern lessons are thought to be necessary for the ruffian and the murderer.

For some time such lessons have not been forthcoming. The Presidential prerogative of mercy has been almost invariably exercised after the capital sentence has been passed. The convict suffers a mild form of transportation instead of the guillotine, and is said—though this is hard to believe—rather to like it. More executions, in private, not in the public streets, form the recipe generally recommended for ridding France of the hooligans who threaten the public peace of mind.

THE ACCIDENT TO THE STANDART.

By the Czar's permission the work of floating the "Standart" has been entrusted to the Reval Salvage Company. Thanks to the height of the after-deck, there is no danger of water penetrating into the Imperial state-rooms, which are on that deck. No attempts to float the ship can be made until all that she contains has been taken out.

ATTEMPTS TO WRECK TRAINS.

Ostrov, September 13.

Two young men were arrested here by the police on the charge of having repeatedly attempted to wreck trains. Witnesses have deposed that they saw the prisoners place stones and iron bars on the rails three times without result, whereas the fourth time one of the cars had a wheel broken.

SIGNIFICANT INCIDENT IN BELGRADE.

Belgrade, September 13.

The evening papers report an incident which occurred in an officers' mess here and has created a painful impression. A few days ago, the successor to the throne, Prince George, had a dispute with some of the officers who belong to the conspirators and said to them: "I can't bear any of you. I know your intentions perfectly well. But you will know me when once I am your king. I expect you all to send in your resignations." Very diverging opinions are expressed in the town on the subject. (Our opinion is that the young man had better mind his manners if ever he wants to have a chance to shew himself a man. Prince George has been the subject of scandalous stories in the papers so often that we are forced to agree with the proverb: Where there is smoke there is fire.—Ed.)

In answer to an enquiry by cable General Drude has stated that he is perfectly well.

SMUGGLING OF ARMS.

Quite a considerable amount of smuggling is reported to be going on at Cape Spartel and the neighbouring coast.

THE ATTACK ON TADDERT.

Agence Havas reports that the destruction of the Cabyle camp near Taddert has made a deep impression in Morocco, especially in the district of the Shauja tribe.

RENEWED NEGOTIATIONS.

Negotiations with the Shauja and other tribes have been taken up again. The Shaujas are reported to have sent a messenger to General Drude to offer their submission. General Drude assented to a truce until yesterday midday by which time delegates of the Shauja's must have reached Casablanca. These are to be accompanied by delegates from the Duchallas, a tribe which is also hostile to the French. The General advised them that no delegates need come unless they were prepared to accept his conditions.

ARABS' HEAVY LOSSES.

A Reuter telegram from Casablanca published in London states that stragglers who had surrendered to the French declared that the losses of the Arabs on the 12th instant amounted to 300 killed and many wounded; but that was supposed to be an exaggeration. It was further reported that there were still two Arab camps in the neighbourhood of Casablanca, and that the next operations will be directed against them.

FROM YESTERDAY'S PARIS PAPERS.

The Echo de Paris says that the ports Rabat and Larache will be occupied exclusively by French and Spanish troops before the stormy weather sets in, as those places must be secured against all attacks by the Kabyles.

The former and the present Sheikhs of Lalla Marnia, a place on the French frontier, were brought there in chains, together with two other Moroccans; all four are accused of having aroused a feeling against the French among the tribes in the neighbourhood and particularly among the Beni Senassen tribe.

The General Commanding in Algeria, General Servièrre, and General Liauthey, commanding the Oran Division, have gone by automobile from Tlemcen to Udja. The Echo de Paris learns that the journey is in connection with an advance into the interior of Morocco which is to be made very shortly by the French force at Udja.

The Matin says that perfect quiet prevails at Rabat, thanks to the energetic attitude of the French Consul.

The Matin published a report from Mazagan as follows: "In view of the departure of the Sultan Abdul Asis for Rabat, the demands of Mulai Hafid for the delivery to him of the weapons and ammunition stored at Mazagan are becoming more urgent. The European inhabitants are uneasy, fearing an anti-foreign movement and a massacre which the war-ships would not be in a position to prevent. Many armed horsemen have arrived from Casablanca and entered the town, in order to possess themselves of cartridges by force."

Agence Havas says that the report of a strong French force being held in readiness in Udja for Morocco, is unfounded.

MR. WELLMAN'S UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT.

It is reported from Tromsø that on September 2 Mr. Wellman's balloon was guided by the S. S. "Express" some two miles north of Bird's bay island. Mr. Wellman with Messrs. Friesenberg and Waniman was in the car.

The balloon was easily steered and the engines worked admirably; it went so fast that the "Express" had a hard time to keep up with it. Near the island it was let go, with wind increasing and driving snow. It was blown across Spitzbergen, and when the valve was opened the car collided with an iceberg.

LADY AERONAUTS IN DANGER.

Paris, September 11.

Yesterday, a short time previous to the outbreak of a violent storm, the small balloon Ariane ascended from the park of the Aero Club de France, at St. Cloud.

Two ladies, Mdme. Carton and Mdme. Silberer, wife of the president of the Austrian Aero Club, were the occupants of the balloon. Carried away by a violent gust of wind, the Ariane soon arose amid a mass of storm clouds, and disappeared from the sight of the spectators in the park.

No news has yet been received as to the fate of the lady aeronauts.

DANUBIAN PUZZLES.

An interesting puzzle of the Danube has just been solved—by chemistry. At Fridingen part of the waters vanish under a mass of rocks littering their bed, and every effort to trace their direction had failed. On, however, two hundredweight of uranium being poured in at Fridingen, it reappeared after eight days in the Aach, an affluent of Lake Constance, which thus links the Danube both with the Black and North Seas.

THE GREAT BRIDGE DISASTER IN CANADA.

The first Canadian papers containing accounts of the collapse of the Quebec Bridge, which took place on August 29 and in which 83 lives were lost, have just arrived. It is interesting to read the accounts, written as they are under the direct influence of the impressions received at the scene of the appalling disaster. We take the following from the Toronto Daily Star.

Quebec, August 29.—One of the most terrible disasters in the history of bridge building in America took place this afternoon at the Quebec bridge, five miles up the river from this city, when the south anchor column and the 800 feet of the cantilever span projecting from it over the river collapsed, and carried down with it scores of the workmen who were engaged in the operations. The bridge structure is the greatest of its sort in the world, and the survivors of the disaster speak in terrified tones of the fearful sights and sounds when thousands of tons of steel, with a grinding noise quite indescribable, crashed down into the river. The disaster was entirely unexpected. At one moment the men were swinging beams into position and rivetting them, and at the next the vast mass was hurtling down with the poor fellows clinging to it or crushed beneath the wreckage long before the river received them.

Speciality: Good German spoken and taught by the Principals (North Germans). Limited number of Boarders. Day-pupils received. Choice of school-course or private lessons. First class Music and Painting. French by a Parisian.

The cause of the disaster is as yet unexplained, but survivors agree in saying that it occurred at the moment when a locomotive with three cars of steel went out upon the bridge.

The bridge fell exactly at twenty-three minutes to six this evening, just as many of the workmen were preparing to leave. It was, however, so horribly effective in wiping out the lives of the men employed on it that very little is known as to how the disaster happened, and those who are left are so completely benumbed by the horror of the situation that they can do little to aid.

EXTENSION COLLAPSED.

It was the southern extension of the bridge which collapsed, and this was rapidly nearing the zenith of the immense steel arch which was to span the river. For eight hundred feet from the shore the massive steel structure reared an arch, with no supports but the piers from the shore and one pier erected in the river a hundred or more feet from the shore, while the outward extremity was 180 feet above the water.

HEARD IN QUEBEC.

Suddenly those on the northern shore saw the end of the half arch bend down a little and a moment later the whole enormous fabric began to break, slowly at first, then with a terrific crash, which was plainly heard in Quebec, and which shook the whole countryside, so much so that the inhabitants rushed out of their houses, thinking that an earthquake had happened.

At the time of the collapse it is estimated there were ninety-two men working on the bridge. Of these eight have been so far rescued alive, being picked up immediately after the disaster by boats.

PINNED IN WRECKAGE.

The horror of the situation is increased by the fact that there are a number of wounded men pinned in the wreckage near the shore. Their groans and shrieks can be plainly heard by the anxious crowds who are waiting at the water's edge, but nothing so far can be done to rescue them or relieve their sufferings in the slightest degree. There are no searchlights available, and by the feeble light of lanterns it is impossible to even locate the sufferers, so that for the present nothing whatever can be done but leave them to their fate.

ONE PARTY'S ESCAPE.

party of friends this afternoon. They had scarcely driven off the structure and reached the road before the crash came, and before they could return to the edge of the river the whole structure was lying in ruins. A few moments later and they would have been killed with the rest.

FELT BRIDGE QUIVER.

The engine was seen to start out for the end of the bridge with a load of steel, and as it approached the end the first premonition of disaster was experienced by the engine driver, who felt his engine jerk. He at once shut off steam, but the engine continued to move, the outward end of the structure literally ducked a little, and a moment later collapsed. This much has been gathered from the engineer, who by some marvelous chance escaped the general destruction. He fell with his engine as the bridge gave way, but is not able to say how he escaped. He was picked up later by a boat and became unconscious, and when he recovered his senses knew little beyond the fact that he felt the bridge go and knew he was falling. When he returned to consciousness he was on shore. The rest of his crew were still in the river.

The day following the same correspondent writes from Quebec:

A pall hangs gloomily over Quebec today, for the Ancient Capital is face to face with the most lamentable disaster which has ever darkened its history. The Quebec Bridge, until yesterday the pride and delight of our citizens, which was looked forward to to connect the north and south shores in a union which meant a wonderful step in the development of our commercial and industrial history, is now a mass of tangled, broken and twisted steel work, lying in the bed of the St. Lawrence, and 63 human beings met death in its destruction.

A SURVIVOR'S STORY.

John Adams, one of the few who escaped from the wreckage, told the following story this morning, while he lay on a couch with one of his arms completely severed from his body.

He was exceedingly weak from loss of blood, and in broken sentences he said:

"It was at 5.37 o'clock, just about ten minutes before we would all quit work, when I looked back towards the south shore, as I felt something move, and to my horror I saw the immense steel frame close to the abutment give way, between the deep water pier and the shore. Then it rose many feet in the air, and its weight must have forced down the nine hundred feet of massive work which extended from the deep water pier out over the St. Lawrence, for the entire superstructure then gave way, and tumbled with a frightful crash into the depths of the swift current below.

REMEMBERED THE DESCENT.

"It all happened in a few seconds, but the seventy odd workmen who were aloft at the time felt that the end had come. I remember distinctly descending, and hearing a fearful crash, but I lost consciousness at that moment, and recollect nothing further until I found myself pinioned between two pieces of iron.

"I realised that it was a death struggle, and I first freed my head, and cried aloud for assistance. Some minutes later a boat came alongside me, and I must have again lost consciousness, for I can remember no more till I found myself in this condition on the shore."

These graphic descriptions give one an idea of the immensity of the disaster which brought sudden, terrible death to 83 hardworking men, and untold sorrow to their families, and which caused a loss to the contractors of over $4,000,000, besides the loss of at least two years' time to rebuild what now lies at the bottom of the river. By all accounts the piers upon which the bridge rests are still intact, so that the cause of the catastrophe cannot be looked for in any circumstance which could not be foreseen, such as shifting or giving way of the earth upon which the whole structure was founded; but the responsibility must be placed with the men who undertook such a work in which so many human lives were at stake. Any mistake made here, be it in the calculations upon which the construction was based, or be it in the selecting or manufacturing of the material employed, is culpable to a degree. But the last blame must be attached to the Government for having failed to exercise sufficient control over the constructors and contractors, to avoid the accident; they being the people are, therefore, responsible to the people.

PLOT. Lorenzo, a captain, is in love with Zerline, whose father Matteo threatens to give her to a richer man. Lorenzo hopes to secure the reward offered for the capture of a notorious brigand, Fra Diavolo. A travelling Englishman, Lord Cookburn and his wife, are robbed by Fra Diavolo's band, though the lord does not suspect Fra Diavolo, himself, who has introduced himself to him as the Marquis of San Marco. Lorenzo succeeds in recovering Lord Cookburn's property from the brigands and is richly rewarded. Fra Diavolo conceals himself in Zerline's room, and admits two of his companions; they are disturbed by Lorenzo, to whom Fra Diavolo pretends he had an assignation with Zerline, while he tells Lord Cookburn he came by appointment to meet Lady Cookburn. Lorenzo challenges him to a duel. The two other robbers betray themselves by repeating words they had overheard Zerline saying, and they are made to decoy Fra Diavolo who is easily captured.

Cast:

Figaro, servant of the Count	Herr Erwin.

PLOT. Count Almaviva, who figures in Rossini's opera "The Barber of Seville", is now married to Rosina, but is carrying on a flirtation with her maid, Susanna, who is about to be married to Figaro. The Count is jealous of his wife's page, Cherubino; and when Cherubino is in his wife's room, where Rosina and Susanna have been amusing themselves by dressing him up in woman's clothes, the Count comes and demands admittance. Cherubino escapes by the window. The Count, finding only Susanna with his wife, apologises, when the gardener, Antonio, enters and complains that his flower-beds have been trampled on. Figaro asserts that it was he who had been in the room, talking to Susanna, and even claims a document which Cherubino had dropped. Figaro is found to be Bartolo's son. Susanna and her mistress arrange a plot to punish the Count for his jealousy. They make appointments with the Count and Figaro, and await them at night dressed in each other's clothes. The Count takes Rosina for Susanna, and makes love to her, while Figaro, who has recognised Susanna, pretends to take her for Rosina, and makes violent love to her, till she boxes his ears, and he confesses he had been making fun of her. The Count is put to shame by his wife, who, however forgives him, and he unites Figaro and Susanna, and pardons Cherubino.

LOCAL.

The Bachmann Trio—Herren Bachmann, Bärtich, and Stenz—will give four Chamber Music Concerts in the coming winter season at the Neustadt Casino. Application for tickets should be made to H. Bock, Court music-seller, Prager Strasse 9.

Fräulein Tilly Sohr and Fräulein Hella Seyfert, two of the pupils of Fräulein Julia Hansen, the well known teacher of singing, have lately obtained operatic engagements, Fräulein Sohr in the Stadttheater at Lübeck, and Fräulein Seyfert in the Stadttheater at Beuthen. Fräulein Sohr studied her opera parts with Hofkapellmeister Hagen.

At the art salon of Emil Richter, Prager Strasse 13, the exhibition of the artist group "Brücke" is over, and the rooms with overhead light are now occupied by a collection of paintings by the Buda Pest artist Gyula Tornai, who is known and esteemed far beyond the boundaries of his own country. Herr Gyula Tornai studied in Vienna and Munich and, after living for a long time in Morocco, has of late years devoted himself to the representation of Oriental scenes. The present exhibition is the result of his residence and work in Japan, India, and Siam. The collection numbers over sixty paintings, among them some of considerable importance; the subjects being landscapes, folk-life in India and Japan, the religious customs and festivals of those countries, the life and symbolic flower dances of the Geishas, Japanese tea-houses, Indian temples, the sacred elephants of Nassik, &c. This exhibition attracted a great deal of attention when in London, and was repeatedly visited by King Edward, who expressed the pleasure it afforded him; it will no doubt be viewed with interest by the Dresden art-loving public.

A very remarkable, and under the circumstances wonderful, series of about fifty pastel drawings, of uniform size—about 30 by 20 inches—and strong individual character, is now being exhibited in the "garden saloon" of the Wiener Garten (Hotel Kaiserhof und Stadt Wien), Augustusbrücke 3 (just over the bridge on the right hand side). The drawings, as we learn, were done by a "medium" under the direction of "departed spirits", who inspired the design, and prescribed the colour that were to be used. The medium worked, entirely under such inspiration and direction, from one to five hours at a sitting, and many of the drawings took 100 hours each to complete. The designs may be described as ultra-oriental in character, reminiscent of Persian, Japanese, and Chinese arabesques, yet quite original; the drawing is forcible and at the same time minutely accurate, and the colouring harmonious and rich. The "wonder" is that the medium, who belongs to the lower middle class, never had any instruction in drawing nor ever took pencil in hand to draw until directed by "the spirits" to do so about three years ago. The subjects are mostly idealised plant forms, supposed to belong to some other planet and not to be mistaken for any belonging to our own. The exhibition will remain open daily, from 9 a. m. to 10 p. m., until Friday next inclusive, the 20th instant, and it is well worth a visit.

OVERHEARD IN THE SCHLOSS STRASSE.
A. "How do you do, Paul. Have you heard of the "Lusitania's" record-breaking maiden trip to New York? What do you say to that?"

Paul: "What do I say to that? I say that somebody must have been "pulling your leg", as the sailor says. She hasn't broken any record. 72,000 horse-power and 23 knots is a pretty poor show, in my opinion."

A. "Well, I am surprised. I thought I had won some money. But never mind. Her next trip will be a better one. Then she will show what she is worth."

Paul: "Come along into the Stadt Gotha and we will drink a glass of their incomparable beer to better luck next time."

In the wrestling at the Central Theatre on Friday, the fourteenth evening, Winzer, the Hamburg champion, was defeated in a lively bout of 8 1/2 minutes by Jackson, of Scotland, who was loudly cheered; Petlivan, the Turkish champion, got the better of Hissman, of Westphalia, in a little under 7 minutes; and Bech-Olsen, the Danish champion defeated his fellow-countryman Hansen in 4 1/2 minutes. The "decisive contest" between Romanoff, the Russian champion, and Dirk van der Berg, of Holland, was still undecided at the expiration of the allotted 30 minutes; it will be renewed on Monday evening. Dirk van der Berg showed superb form and did wonders against heavy odds; his opponent was several times called to order by the referee. The events to be decided today are: in the afternoon, Paxon, German American, v. Jackson, of Scotland; in the evening, Petroff, Bulgaria, v. Sturm, Berlin; Jackson, Scotland, v. Sauerer, Bavaria (this should be a very interesting match); Romanoff, Russia, v. Paxon, German American. Tomorrow evening the contests will be between Romanoff, Russia, and Dirk van der Berg, Holland; between Randolfi, Austria, and Sturm, Berlin; and between Pierrard, France, and Bech-Olsen, Denmark.

The programme of this evening's orchestral concert at the Royal Belvedere will be as follows: (1) General O'Byrn-March, Trenkler; (2) Jubel-Overture, Bach; (3) Kaiserin-Gavotte, Bilse; (4) Festlicher Aufzug und Chor aus der Oper, "Lichtenstein", Triebel; (5) Overture, Rietz; (6) Mein Ideal, Waltz, v. Blon; (7) Melody, Rubinstein; (8) Ein Abend in Toledo, Schmeling; (9) Hurra! All Deutschland! March, Gundlach; (10) Overture, "Der König von Yvetot", Adam; (11) Da geh' ich zu Maxim, Lehár; (12) Zick-Zack-Potpourri, Schenk; (13) Tonbilder from "Mignon", Thomas; (14) Cal Nidrei for 'Cello, Bruch; (15) Bilder vom Rhein, Suite, Schumacher; (16) Overture, "Die Grossherzogin von Gerolstein", Offenbach; (17) Märchen, Kranich; (18) Soco, Maurisches Ständchen, Arnold; (19) Irrlichter Galop, Faust. There will be no concert at the Belvedere on Monday evening.

The public are hereby informed of the arrangements of the Fundamt, and in particular that it is advisable to enquire for lost articles frequently within twelve months after the loss.

Finders of articles are reminded that they are compelled by law to give immediate notice of the finding of any article of the value of from three marks upwards, at the Fundamt or at the office of the Police district in which the finder resides.

EIFFEL'S "TOILET".

For the fifth time since its erection in 1889, the Eiffel Tower is performing its toilet. It is as well that the process is not more frequent, seeing that it costs £3,000. For the first three renewals the colour was orange, but last time they changed it to gold. Now it is to be silver white from the third platform upward, and iron brown lower down. Forty men will be at work for three months, and 300 pintals of paint will be used.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

(From our special Correspondent.)

When old age pensions became one of the political parrot cries of the day it can hardly have been imagined that any influential gathering of politicians would lightheartedly adopt such a plank for their platform as that which the independent Labour Party has announced at the Trades Union Congress. The Congress was, indeed, at one time in favour of bestowing upon every person who attained the age of 65 the sum of 10 shillings a week, but with astonishing moderation the Trades Unions have reduced their claim to 5/- a week for all persons 60 years old and upwards. According to the 1901 census, over 3 million persons in the United Kingdom had attained that age and the number is now estimated at half a million more, and to meet the cost of pensions then required a sum of £45,732,000 would have to be found annually. Taking the figures published on the subject by a London journal, to meet this new expense an income tax of 1/2 in the £ would hardly be sufficient. The Congress therefore particularly proposed to raise the present income tax to 2/3 in the £. Even if the 250,000 existing pensioners of 65 and upwards, receiving £10,532,000, are deducted there remain 3,268,000 beneficiaries under the Trades Union Congress scheme at a cost of £35,200,000 which exceeds by £2,600,000 the yield of last year's 1/- income tax.

To obtain this enormous sum the promoters of the scheme talk glibly of graduated income taxes and an increase in the death duties. The latter item of taxation, for the introduction of which Sir W. Harcourt was hailed as a heaven-sent financier, has already in many cases inflicted great hardship. Great country houses have had to be closed for several years, owing to their new owners finding it impossible to otherwise pay the enormous duties claimed by the State. But the mere fact that a man is rich, whether it be due to his own exertions or to those of his forbears, marks him down as the natural prey of the Socialists, whose prime doctrine is that if the working man cannot be placed in affluent circumstances by the results of his exertions he must have recourse to robbing his more well-to-do neighbours. That the new scheme will prove anything more than a chimera of the Socialist brain is unlikely, but we are to be surfeited by violent speeches in support of the scheme throughout the winter. Perhaps opponents of the scheme will be met with violent speeches, such as those which Mr. Greyson now appears to somewhat repent having uttered. It is, happily, not to be expected that the working men whom the Trades Unionist orators will address during the vacation will endorse the statement of M. Jaurès to their French colleagues that it is the right and duty of the proletariat to rise against the Government and use against it the rifles placed in their hands. Present social conditions may be, and probably are far from ideal, but it is doubtful if the millennium is to be reached by any such pauperising scheme as that proposed by the Trades Union Congress.
