THE SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT.

(From our London Correspondent.)

London, May 23.
In spite of the suffragettes the Suffrage Movement is becoming a first-class political question. Perhaps that statement is not altogether fair to the suffragettes. They have become, in a sense, reformed characters. The militant policy, which Miss Christabel Pankhurst directs with such endless resource from Clement's Inn, has taken on a shape more courteous to the intelligence of the elector and certainly more effectual in stimulating the movement. The almost isolated case of interruption at a meeting during the recent by-elections came from a member of the less influential Women's Freedom League, and was implicitly disapproved of, in strong terms, by the Women's National and Political Union, which represents, as it were, the "official" section of the agitation. To oppose the existing Administration until it relents in its procrastination, without, however, disturbing the public peace, is a form of political resource to which we are accustomed, and which is established, orthodox, acceptable. The suffragettes have learned this lesson, that only by reasonableness or a plausible show of reason will the obduracy of man be overcome. Glowing accounts have reached me from the fountain-source of the movement. In Shropshire, during the first few days of the election, nobody, still less the women, would have anything to do with them. By the time the election was over they had been raised to the level of national heroines. So, at all events, writes my fair correspondent. "The end: they had no idea suffragettes were ladies. Why, they were perfectly lady-like right through, and so charming, and why shouldn't they have a vote?" Earlier in the letter this enthusiastic politician describes her experiences as follows. "Our last day in Shropshire was the jolliest of all: wherever we went we had a perfect ovation. Having written down this last word I wonder whether it conveys the right meaning; Latin, ovo (sic) = egg. I assure you we had none thrown at us. I can truthfully say that we did turn a considerable number of votes. In our tour of the constituency we were everywhere received with immense good-will; in Drayton, our centre, we created the wildest enthusiasm. . . . Our reception in Drayton for the first day or two was very curious. Although not more than two of us were seen together, we were "spotted" at once. We had hidden away our button-badges, too, five minutes after leaving the station, knowing well it would be difficult to find lodgings. Even then, several turned us away, apparently having quite made up their minds that we were suffragettes. People gathered in little groups to discuss us, craned their necks to peep at us from behind doors and windows; one or two disgusted ladies tucked up their skirts and moved away quite pointedly. It was all curiosity, ridicule, or abuse; one or two men couldn't resist hurling insulting remarks at us. This was the beginning. The end I have already imparted above." Such is fame seen from within. I think I am justified in quoting this extract in proof of the contention that with a modification of their tactics the suffragettes have brought about a singular reversal in the attitude assumed towards them by a large section of voters. The really important step was taken on Wednesday, when a large deputation of members of the House of Commons waited on the Premier with a request for further facilities for Mr. Stanger's Bill, which has already passed its second reading. Mr. Asquith's answer did not commit him to anything beyond the offer that on the introduction of his promised Bill for electoral reform the question of woman suffrage might, by amendment and other means, be implicated with it. The answer did not please the suffragettes, as an unfortunate demonstration on the following morning on the very door-step of his official residence amply testified: they demand a definite pledge to be carried into effect this Session. As Miss Pankhurst put it in her letter to the Times, this answer seems "of too negative and vague a character to be of any value." Nevertheless, the supporters of woman suffrage have no reason to be actually dissatisfied. Mr. Asquith declared that, although he personally was not yet convinced of the desirability of woman suffrage, two-thirds of his Cabinet favoured the reform, while the deputation itself was of course a strong argument in its favour. On one point Mr. Asquith is likely to remain most firm. He insists that only on the strength of an overwhelming declaration from the women of England will the measure receive the support of the Government.

Meanwhile, the suffragettes will persist in their fight. On June 21 their great march to Hyde Park will take place, and there at a given signal some thirty speakers (I am not quite sure of the number) are to begin speaking from various platforms. Very soon posters of a prodigious size advertising the event will appear on our walls. That great meeting ought to be a case of kill or cure—one means, of course, not the ladies, but the Government's heretical minority.

GENERAL NEWS.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

KING EDWARD AND CZAR NICHOLAS.

From an authoritative source, writes a St. Petersburg private correspondent, I learn that the Czar on his journey to Reval to meet King Edward will be accompanied by the Empress, the Dowager-Empress, and probably by the little Crown Prince.

PRESIDENT FALLIÈRES' VISIT.

President Armand Fallières, accompanied by M. Pichon, Minister for Foreign Affairs, left Paris yesterday morning for Brest, where he will embark on the cruiser "Léon Gambetta" for England.

GERMAN MAYORS RECEIVED BY THE KING.

The municipal visitors from South Germany drove in open carriages to Buckingham Palace on Saturday to be received by King Edward.

Count Metternich, the German Ambassador, formally presented the visitors in a short speech to His Majesty delivered in German, and King Edward replied in German, heartily welcoming the Burgomasters, and expressing the earnest hope that they had enjoyed their trip in London.

The Burgomaster of Munich was deputed to acknowledge the compliment, and he expressed the thanks of the visitors for the great hospitality they had received in every quarter since they arrived in England. They had enjoyed their visit, and had derived much pleasure in seeing the various institutions which had been thrown open to them. They had not come for the purpose of studying British institutions, but for the purpose of sealing the friendship between England and Germany.

The members of the party were then separately presented to His Majesty, who shook hands with each in turn. His Majesty gave directions for the visitors to be shown over the State apartments.

This was done, and the Burgomasters, after a stay of upwards of an hour, then left for Hampton Court.

THE ZAKKA KHEL CAMPAIGN.

Dispatches from Gen. Sir James Willcocks, describing the Zakka Khel campaign, were published in last Saturday's Gazette. Lord Kitchener, in transmitting the dispatches to the Viceroy, specially commends the "excellent services" of Gen. Willcocks, and considers "that the work done reflects the greatest credit on all concerned." The dispatches show that the Zakka Khel were taken completely by surprise, with their best positions unfortified. Their villages were destroyed, and heavy loss inflicted on them. Immediately after the submission of the chiefs the British force on February 29 vanished as suddenly as it had come. The troops had the least possible transport, and in one column each man carried his ammunition and three days' rations on his back. Gen. Willcocks pays special tribute to the cheerfulness and admirable spirit with which the men bore all discomforts.

Constant peace training had brought the troops to the highest pitch of efficiency, and "so far as hill fighting is concerned," Gen. Willcocks observes, "our troops had little to learn from the Afridis."

ANARCHY IN INDIA.

A Calcutta despatch states that in a train standing at the platform of Howrah Station, from which the passengers had just alighted, two bombs filled with picric acid were found.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE "LUSITANIA."

After beating all her rivals, the "Lusitania" has achieved what is the last distinction open to her—to lower her own best previous record. Commenting upon the giant Cunarder's latest performance, a London contemporary says that on her arrival at New York in the early hours of Friday morning, she had not only made the fastest time ever known over the longer Atlantic course, followed at this time of year for greater security against icebergs, but had substantially beaten the record for a single day's run which she herself set up two months ago. It is small wonder that her reception in New York harbour was triumphal. The ship's officers deserve the heartiest congratulations on their splendid, and, in fact, unprecedented feat, while the Cunard Company has the proud distinction of further clinching the supremacy which the great British liners of have regained from their foreign rivals. On the trip just completed the "Lusitania" was considerably hampered by fog; and we have probably by no means yet seen the best results which can be got, at a pinch, out of the engines. In the reported utterance of the Chief Engineer, "We drove the vessel, but she can stand a lot more driving." In March the "Lusitania" set up the new record of 627 knots in a day. In the day's run completed at midday on Wednesday, she raised her record to 632. It will not be surprising if before the summer is out that record is still further improved. It is both striking and satisfactory to note that the vibration of the vessel is least when she is running at her fastest pace, for this holds out the promise that, with the still increased speeds which may be expected in the liners of the near future, all inconvenience from this cause may be removed. The commercial advantage of speed on the Atlantic route may be judged from the deep satisfaction Professor Frederick Sefton Delmer, an Australian, formerly of Melbourne University and afterwards of Königsberg University, has received the honour of being appointed Professor of English at the Berlin University. Professor Delmer was hitherto lecturer of English here, and is also principal instructor in English at the Academy of War in Berlin.

Among recent wonderful surgical operations is one of a most daring and unusual nature. An idiot child, six years old, the daughter of a resident of Berlin, has been converted into an intelligent being by the process of grafting part of the mother's thyroid gland upon the child's pancreas. In more popular language, this means that part of the mother's throat has been transferred by the grafting process to a gland, or tissue, lying directly at the back of the stomach. The operation was carried out by Dr. Karl Garre, an eminent German surgeon, whose successes in the transplanting of organs from one animal to another and even from the lower animals to human beings, has attracted the attention of the whole world.

MARK TWAIN'S MSS. DESTROYED.

The premises of Messrs. Harper, Franklin-square, says a New York despatch, have been the scene of a most destructive fire, and it is feared that no fewer than 150,000 manuscripts, including many of Mark Twain's, the Hon. W. D. Howell's, and Mary E. Wilkins', have been destroyed.

DISASTER TO AN AIR-SHIP.

A cable from New York dated Saturday reports an appalling accident to the air-ship "Great Morell" at Oakland, California. The envelope of the "Great Morell" was 450 feet long and contained 500,000 cubic feet of gas. On her trial trip the ship fell from a height of 300 feet. According to a report published by the New York Sun, the balloon burst suddenly and the apparatus, with its twenty occupants, sank at first slowly to within 75 feet of the ground. Then it collapsed and dropped, burying all the passengers under its ruins. Seven persons were killed, and all the others severely injured.

DESTRUCTIVE BLIZZARD IN SWITZERLAND.

The violent blizzard on Saturday, says a Berne telegram, visited the entire Swiss tableland north of the Alps. The snow-fall commenced at midday in western Switzerland, where vineyards and orchards suffered great damage; the storm then travelled in an easterly direction, reaching Zurich at 8 p. m. From all parts of the country reports of extraordinarily extensive damage come to hand, and the twelve-hours' blizzard constituted an actual catastrophe for the Swiss agriculturists and vintners. Crops have been destroyed for the most part. The entire telegraph and telephone system was interrupted, and communications had not been restored yesterday. At one place the railway tracks are destroyed. Many casualties are reported.

MINISTERIAL COUNCIL.

On Saturday a Ministerial council was held at the Elysée, when the promotion of Rear-Admiral Philibert, commander-in-chief of the French naval forces in Moroccan waters, to the rank of Vice-Admiral was ratified. Rear-Admiral Berryer will assume Admiral Philibert's command. As marine prefect at Cherbourg Vice-Admiral Ballue supersedes Admiral Besson. M. Chéron, Under-Secretary of State for War, laid before the council his scheme for reorganising the army medical service and the erection of new hospitals. The adoption of this proposal would entail an outlay of 75 million francs.

Upon the arrival at Cannes of the Monte Carlo-Paris express a man was arrested charged with attempting to chloroform and rob two passengers on the train. Police investigations connect the arrested man with a band of robbers who chiefly operate on trains, and who have committed many outrages during the last few months.

WARSHIP COLLIDES WITH PRINCE'S YACHT

In consequence of the heavy weather in Toulon harbour on Saturday, a French torpedo-boat-destroyer came into collision with the yacht "Princess Alice," owned by the Prince of Monaco. There were no casualties but both vessels received damage more or less serious, and were towed into dock for repairs.

SENTENCE PASSED ON TERRORISTS.

The Court Martial at St. Petersburg passed sentence on Sunday on eleven Socialist revolutionaries who have been tried for participation in a series of deeds of terrorism, including the murder of the military Procurator Pauloff, of the Chief of the prison administration Maksimoffski, and of Colonel Ivanoff, the Governor of Viborg prison; as also for being concerned in abortive attempts on the life of the Minister of Justice, and others. Four of the prisoners were sentenced to be hanged, four to penal servitude, and two to banishment. One was acquitted.

MOROCCAN AFFAIRS.

On the occasion of Admiral Philibert's retirement from the command of the French squadron on the Morocco coast, the Minister of Marine, M. Thomson, addressed a letter to him, pointing out the moral success achieved by the squadron under his command in ensuring the safety of the European colonists, and facilitating the regular provisioning of the troops of the expeditionary corps, thus contributing materially to the success of the land operations. The Minister then remarks on the personal devotion and energy displayed by Admiral Philibert, notwithstanding the drawbacks and difficulties of the climate, in keeping up and safe-guarding the supplies; and congratulates the Admiral on having acted throughout in perfect agreement with the generals and with the French and foreign diplomatists. Finally, M. Thomson thanks Admiral Philibert for having, by his lucid reports and despatches, kept the Government au courant with the course of events.

During a conversation which took place in the Spanish Senate on Saturday on the subject of the incident in Casablanca between French and Spanish soldiers, several Senators touched on the Moroccan question. The Liberal members Goreu and General Ahando held that the Spanish troops in Casablanca occupied a more than ambiguous position, and that they ought to be withdrawn. ### AN UNFORTUNATE KING.

Of the King of Bavaria, who has just completed his sixtieth year, a Paris contemporary gives an interesting glimpse. For thirty years His Majesty has been confined at the Chateau de Fürstenried. His bodily health is all that can be desired, but mentally there is no change. He rarely speaks, and eats and drinks in an automatic manner. His silence gets so on the nerves of his attendants that they are frequently changed. His Majesty takes his meals with his medical attendant and three keepers, who wear the uniforms of officers. Once a year the King receives a visit from the Prince Regent, visitors having been found to cause an excess of anger on the part of the royal patient.

TROUBLES OF A PROFESSOR.

Professor Koch, who is visiting the United States, is having a lively time between the curiosity of reporters and the hospitality of the citizens. He reached Chicago from New York, but then all trace of him and his wife was lost. One section of the community was pestering them with invitations for banquets, luncheons, scientific meetings, excursions, and five o'clock teas. The reporters were equally importunate in their demands for interviews, portraits, anecdotes, and the Professor's impressions of the Great Republic, so, in despair, the tormented Professor and his wife have betaken themselves somewhere where, it is hoped, reporters cease to trouble and the learned are at rest.

The annual Royal parade in honour of the birthday of His Majesty King Friedrich August took place yesterday on the Alaun Platz under weather conditions the reverse of ideal. Frequent showers did much to mar the pleasure of the occasion, and indeed to this circumstance may be attributed the apparent lack of enthusiasm on the part of the spectators. The spectacle itself, however, lacked nothing of its accustomed brilliance. The two young Princes arrived and assumed their places in the 1st and 5th companies of the First Grenadier Regiment respectively. Shortly before one o'clock H. M. the King, mounted on a magnificent charger, rode on to the ground followed by a brilliant suite, including H. R. H. Prince Johann Georg on a black horse. The Prince saluted the two regiments to which he is attached, viz. the Schützen Regiment No. 108 and the Gardereiter Regiment, as they passed in review. The appearance of the King was the occasion for an outburst of cheering, the playing of "God Save the King," and thunderous salutes fired by the Artillery. Then followed a line of equipages. In the first carriage, drawn by four horses with postillions, sat H. R. H. Princess Johann Georg, charmingly attired in white; the second carriage followed with Princess Mathilde and the two little Princesses Margherite and Marie Alix, the white gowns worn by the royal children and their aunt defying the grey, lowering skies. After the parade His Majesty moved among the officers, conversing with his accustomed geniality, and subsequently rode from the parade ground to Wachwitz.

The absence of the little Princess Anna was remarked and commented upon by many of the spectators.

Yesterday evening Count Hohenthal und Bergen gave a dinner in honour of His Majesty's birthday, the guests including the foreign representatives in Dresden, among whom was Mr. Mansfeldt de Cardonnel Findlay, the British Minister Resident. Numerous State dignitaries were also present.

Opera Evening. The pupils of Frau Söhle's Singing School again had an opportunity of giving a numerous audience in the Käuffer Strasse Theatre proof of their capabilities on Saturday. Surprises there were none, as the young ladies were well-known to us from previous performances of the kind, and had made no great progress, either vocally or dramatically, since we last heard and saw them. The one thing valuable both for the singers and their hearers was to note how these art-novices bore themselves in rôles that they had not attempted previously in public, and how those rôles suited the individuals. That was very interesting. Fräulein Füttner again displayed a very respectable talent for lyric parts. Her Mignon had gentle grace and, at times, affecting power, and the young lady never forget to manage her pretty voice well; thus her whole performance gave promise of something much greater when she is more advanced. Fräulein Milly Roth has yet to overcome some difficulties in the high register of her voice, but will certainly get on, as she possesses a fresh and natural talent for graceful acting. Fräulein Drescher was also very winning with her correct execution of florid and ornamental vocal passages; but the stage is not yet familiar ground to her, and its tricks sometimes cramped the freedom of her movements. Those tricks Fräulein Sewald knows much better how to master, and we shall be anxious to see how she develops at the Magdeburg Stadttheater, where she is engaged for the coming season. Fräulein Käthe Müller is ill advised to appear in public. Neither her voice nor her musical education nor her dramatic powers as yet justify her undertaking even the most modest part.

The male characters were represented by pupils of Herren Mann and Porth; not with much success on the part of any one of them. But criticism of their performances would here be out of place, as we are on this occasion concerned only with

At the invitation of Hofrat Dr. Friedrich a number of art-lovers met on the 15th instant at the Hotel Stadt Berlin, and unanimously resolved to found a Numismatic Society for Dresden, to encourage and cultivate an interest in the knowledge of coins and medals and their manufacture. Fifty gentlemen at once enrolled themselves as members. A draft of the rules of the Society was adopted. Dr. Friedrich was elected the first chairman; Rechtsanwalt Schlechte, second chairman; Herr Holst, first secretary; Dr. Hopf, second secretary; Herr Rötzeck, treasurer; and Herr Hohlfeld, librarian. The meetings of the Society are held on Friday evenings in the Hotel Stadt Berlin, Neumarkt.

The International Photographic Exhibition Dresden 1909 has just sent out 15,000 copies of the business rules, with forms of application for space, to societies and individuals interested in various ways and degrees in photography; similar papers were sent to manufacturing firms last January. The applications for space already received from these firms are sufficient to cover almost the whole area of the projected grand hall of industry. The exhibitors in the other groups are likely to be very numerous; already a great many applications have been received from scientific bodies, and reproduction firms, as well as from professional and amateur photographers. The last day for receiving applications will be the 1st of August next. The Exhibition has aroused great interest abroad. In some countries travelling societies are being organised, in order to secure favourable conditions for a visit to the Exhibition. The plan has been followed with great success in the different German States of establishing travelling funds. Many of these funds are likely to have either Government or municipal support. For the information of the public, sketches of lectures on the aims and contents of the Exhibition are being prepared. These will be lent free of charge, together with descriptive photographs, to societies interested. Information of all kinds as to the Exhibition may be obtained at the offices in the Hotel Stadt Berlin, Neumarkt 1, Dresden-A.

The programme of the orchestral concert at the Royal Belvedere this evening will be as follows:— (1) Kaiser Friedrich March, Friedemann. (2) Overture, "Der Khadi", Thomas. (3) Die Mühle, Raff. (4) Scène de Ballet, de Bériot. (5) Overture, "Euryanthe", Weber. (6) Violin solo, Wagner. (7) Bilder vom Rhein, Schumacher. (8) Overture, "Traviata", Verdi. (9) Schlummerlied, for 2 violins, Ersfeld. (10) Cavalry Trot, Rubinstein. (11) Waltz, Geschichten aus dem Wiener Wald, Strauss.

Dresden Lawn Tennis Club. The annual Tournament of the Dresden Lawn Tennis Club is due to begin today, tho' in view of the uncertainty of the weather a few preliminary rounds were arranged for yesterday. As several of the competitors are leaving Dresden in the beginning of next week, special efforts are being made to bring the Tournament to a successful conclusion by Saturday at latest.

The entries show a slight falling off from last year's, but are quite numerous enough to fill every afternoon—particularly as little progress will be possible on Thursday, Ascension Day. D. Rhodes, the holder of the Cup, will not defend his title this year, and it is doubtful if Countess Soumarokoff will be able to play at all. In the absence of Rhodes, Lieut. E. v. Haugk is most heavily penalised in the men's events, and Gräfin A. Montgelas in the Ladies', and together they will prove a formidable pair in the mixed doubles. In the Ladies' Doubles, for which there is an excellent list of entries, Gräfin Montgelas and Baroness J. v. Knorring should give a good account of themselves, though a good game is to be looked for if they should find the Misses Callendar in form. If only the weather proves a little more favourable than it has of late, many keenly contested games ought to be witnessed in the course of the week.

At the Central Theatre today, Panne, a comedy in three acts by Rich. Skowronnek, will be given for the last time but two this evening, beginning at 8 o'clock; tomorrow for the last time but one, and on Thursday evening for the last time. On Friday evening the cycle of Ibsen plays by the entire company of the Berlin Lessing Theatre will be opened with a performance of Die Frau vom Meere, with the following cast: Dr. Wangen, Oscar Sauer; Ellide, Irene Triesch; Böllette, Lotte Crusius; Hilde, Ida Orloff; Arnholm, Emanuel Reicher; Lyngstrand, Willy Grunwald; Ballested, Adolf Kurth; Ein fremder Mann, Bruno Decarli. On Saturday evening, the 30th instant, Nora will follow; on Sunday afternoon the 31st, at 3.30, Rosmersholm; and in the evening, at 8 o'clock, Die Stützen der Gesellschaft, the last piece of the series.

On Monday, June 1st, Der Tote Punkt, a farce in three acts by Franz Wolff, will be produced for the first time.

The two men arrested in connection with the death of a Russian student which occurred last week at a pension in the Sedan Strasse, have been released from custody without bail, owing to the inability of the authorities to extract from them any lucid account of the occurrence. Apparently, therefore, the mystery is to remain unsolved.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the 2nd Grenadier Regiment No. 101. The band plays about 12.30 p. m. in the Neustadt.

Whoever has lost or left anything in the streets or squares of this city should enquire for the same at the Fundamt (lost property office) of the Königliche Polizeidirektion, Schiess Gasse 7.

STOP PRESS NEWS.

FRENCH PRESIDENTIAL PROGRAMME.

Paris, May 25. The Figaro states that the date has now been fixed for the visits of President Fallières to the Scandinavian Courts, and for his meeting with the Czar of Russia. These visits will take place during the latter part of July, and on the 1st of August M. Fallières, together with the Minister for Foreign Affairs, who will accompany him throughout his journey, will return to France.

SEVERE EARTHQUAKE IN HUNGARY.

Buda-Pesth, May 25. Three earthquake shocks occurred yesterday at 9.45 a. m. in the town of Kockemet, followed in twenty minutes by more tremors, four in number. The people rushed panic-stricken from their houses, and the church congregations hurriedly left the edifices. More than one hundred chimneys fell, and many walls developed fissures. Still another shock occurred at 1.15 p. m., but this was of a milder character. The same phenomena were experienced in the town of Nagkoros.

ANOTHER AIRSHIP DISASTER.

New York, May 25. The airship "White Wing" was capsized by the strong wind after a flight of forty seconds' duration at an altitude of twenty feet.—The despatch does not state whether any casualties occurred.

THE CLERICAL VISIT TO ENGLAND.

Berlin, May 25. The German clergymen participating in the visit to England will sail from Bremerhaven tomorrow morning on board the S. S. "Kronprinzessin Cäcilie." The Reich learns that King Edward will receive a deputation of the reverend gentlemen at Buckingham Palace on Saturday, the 30th instant, at 10.45 a. m.

THUNDER AND THE BUDS.

Here is a problem for arboriculturists to solve. A writer states that he was talking to an aged park-keeper, who said you can always count on the hedges and trees showing twice as much green after a thunderstorm. The writer maintained that it was the rain that brought out the buds, not the thunder. But this the park-keeper would not admit. "Thunder does it somehow," he insisted, "but, whether or no, they are always twice the size after thunder." Is the park-keeper's theory tenable?

THREEPENNY MEALS.

The seven-cent restaurant, known as the May-flower, in Clinton-street, New York, furnishes evening and morning meals. There are twelve long tables in the restaurant, at which 120 people may be seated, and the places are occupied from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. and again from 5 to 7.30 p. m. The seven-cent meal is wholesome and clean. A similar establishment in Christie-street, where over 1,400 meals are served every day at six cents a meal, has been in existence nearly three years, and is self-supporting.
