GENERAL NEWS.

KING EDWARD AT REVAL.

THE SPEECHES.

The toasts proposed by the King and the Czar at Reval on the occasion of the state-dinner on board the "Standart" on Tuesday were as follows. The Czar said: With feelings of the sincerest satisfaction and pleasure I welcome Your Majesty and Her Majesty the Queen in Russian waters. I trust that this meeting will, by strengthening the manifold and close bonds between our Houses, have the happy result of drawing closer to each other our countries and promoting the maintenance of peace in the world. In the course of the past year several questions of equal importance for Russia and England have been settled in a satisfactory manner by our Governments. I am convinced that Your Majesty values these agreements as highly as I do. For, in spite of their confined objects they can only contribute to spreading mutual good-will and confidence in both our countries. I drink to the health of Your Majesty, Her Majesty the Queen, and the welfare of the Royal Family and the British People.

In reply King Edward said: I thank Your Majesty heartily on behalf of the Queen and in my own name for the cordial manner in which you have welcomed us in Russian waters, and for the gracious words in which you have proposed our health. I have happy recollections of welcome accorded to me on the occasion of former visits to Russia by your exalted grandfather, by your beloved father and by Your Majesty in person, and it is a source of sincere gratitude for me to have the pleasure of meeting Your Majesties again. I endorse with all my heart every word spoken by Your Majesty with reference to the agreement recently arrived at by our Governments. I believe that it will serve to draw still closer the bonds which unite the peoples of our two countries, and I am sure it will contribute in the future towards a satisfactory and friendly settlement of several important questions. I am convinced that it will not only serve to bring our countries more closely together, but also that it will considerably promote the general maintenance of peace in the world. I hope that this meeting will soon be followed by another opportunity of seeing Your Majesties. I drink to the health of Your Majesties, the Empress Maria Feodorowna, the members of the Imperial family, and above all to the welfare and prosperity of Your Great Empire.

THE CZAR AN ADMIRAL OF THE BRITISH FLEET.

King Edward has conferred the rank of Admiral of the British Fleet on the Czar of Russia. His Imperial Majesty paid visits of inspection to the battleship "Minoaur" and the yacht "Alexandra," both of which hoisted the British Admiral's flag. The serenade which had been given to the Royalities on Tuesday was repeated on Wednesday evening by special request of King Edward.

THE COMPLIMENT RETURNED.

During the banquet on Wednesday, at which the above speeches were exchanged, the Czar announced that he had made King Edward Admiral of the Russian fleet.

THE BRITISH WARSHIPS RETURN.

Reuter reports that the British ships weighed anchor at 3 a.m. yesterday. No salute was fired.

HONOURED BY THE KING.

King Edward has been pleased to confer the Grand Cross of the Victorian Order on M. Stolypin, Russian Premier, and on Baron Frederics, Minister of the Imperial House. His Majesty presented M. Isvolaki, Foreign Minister, with his picture.

THE MACEDONIAN QUESTION.

The King conferred for a long time with M. Isvolaki on Wednesday. Two long conferences took place on the same day between Sir Charles Hardinge and M. Isvolaki. It is positively asserted that the Macedonian reforms were principally discussed and that considerable progress has been made towards an understanding.

THE LAST EVENING.

Reuter reports that the last hours of the meeting of the monarchs were a brilliant closing of the entrevue. After the banquet on board the "Victoria and Albert" the Royal party and the guests assembled on the main deck. The Czar wore the uniform of his British cavalry regiment (II Dragoons, Royal Scots Greys), King Edward that of the Kieff Dragoons. Choral societies on board two steamers serenaded. When "God save the King" was sung, and the King and Queen bowed their acknowledgments, they were greeted with enthusiastic cheers. Later there was dancing until after midnight.

NEWS FROM ENGLAND.

MR. BURNS ON THE DANGER OF THE MOB.

Mr. John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, in speaking on Monday last at the opening of the recreation ground and pavilion on the estate of the Ealing Tenants (Limited), said they believed that houses should be homes, and both should be additionally attractive by rational recreation. The tendency in all modern movements was for great crowds to be brought together to see other people play.

"We now," said Mr. Burns, "cry in company, smile in battalions, sport in divisions, holiday in armies, and marry in mobs." The spirit of the horde was being developed. The individual was becoming less and less, and the mob was becoming more and more. This was a dangerous tendency which ought to be resisted. The best antidote was a good home and a good garden.

By efforts such as those undertaken by the Ealing Tenants it was hoped to check the tendency he had referred to, and to bring men and women back to the days of individual happiness and the joyous pleasures of old English games.

He did not like to see 120,000 men, and no women, watching twenty-two hired professional indented fellows developing the wrong end of their anatomy (laughter).

PENNY POST TO MOROCCO.

The Post Office on Tuesday last issued the following:—The postage on letters for places in Morocco, where the British Post Office maintains an agency, will be reduced on and from the 15th inst. to one penny the ounce.

Concurrently the postage on letters for the United Kingdom and British Colonies and Protectorates, and for Egypt, posted at these agencies, will be reduced to 10 centimos per 20 grammes.

The British Post Office maintains agencies at the following places in Morocco:—Aleazar, Casablanca, Fez, Larache, Mazagan, Mequinez, Mogador, Rabat, Saffi, Tangier, Tetuan.

NEWS FROM AMERICA.

GERMAN CRUISER IN NEW YORK HARBOUR.

The cruiser "Bremen" arrived in New York harbour on Wednesday, a salute being fired from Governor's island. A number of festivities have been prepared for the officers and sailors. The commander, Captain Alberts, went ashore and paid several official visits which later were returned on board his ship.

DESERTION IN THE FLEET.

The New York correspondent of the Daily Mail reported yesterday that more than 1,000 men of the Atlantic fleet had deserted their ships since Californian waters were reached.

ACCIDENT TO A N.G.L. STEAMER.

It is reported from New York that the S. S. "Kaiser Wilhelm," which was due on the 7th inst., arrived at a very slow speed on Wednesday, the 10th. The captain reported that on Sunday during a heavy storm he ran into the fog. His ship collided with icebergs and lost one screw. She got jammed in between 5 icebergs and was taken out of her course. One of the stokers became insane and was lost overboard.

NEWS FROM GERMANY.

THE DUKE OF CUMBERLAND'S SECOND SON JOINS THE GERMAN ARMY.

The second son of the Duke of Cumberland, Prince Ernst August, Duke of Brunswick-Lüneburg, has joined the German army, having been made lieutenant in a Bavarian cavalry regiment by the Prince Regent of Bavaria.

It will be remembered that the Duke of Cumberland is heir to the Duchy of Brunswick but that, owing to his claim to the Hanoverian throne, he cannot succeed to the ducal. His eldest son is serving in the Austrian army. The fact of his second son having joined the German army must not be understood as signifying any intention on his part to renounce for himself and his eldest son all claims to the Hanoverian throne.

Prince Ernst August is 21 years old, being born in November 1887, and is the youngest of 5 children.

AUTOMOBILISTS ATTACKED NEAR COLOGNE.

A gang of rowdies attacked an automobile on Wednesday night at Paffrath, near Cologne. Without having given any cause for offence the occupants, ladies and gentlemen from Cologne, were beaten with clubs, and when the gentlemen defended the party they were stabbed with knives; one lady also was wounded. The car was badly damaged. A married couple from Cologne who were coming along on a motor tandem were knocked off and badly injured. Police arrived in time to make a few arrests, but most of the rowdies escaped.

NEWS FROM RUSSIA.

MORE CRIMINAL ASSAULTS.

The Exarch of Georgia, Archbishop Nikon, was killed at Tiflis on Wednesday last, as he was ascending the stairs of the Synod building, by revolver shots. A monk walking by his side was severely injured. The murderers escaped.

This outrage was followed by another: As Captain Karaulow, the chief of the Tiflis branch of political police, who is engaged in the enquiries in connection with the above murder, was driving home he was severely wounded on the head, and an attempt was made to rob him of his official papers.

CHILI AND PERU.

RELATIONS ONCE MORE STRAINED.

In the endeavour to find a way out of the difficulties existing in regard to the peace-and-friendship treaty between Chili and Peru the Chilean Government has addressed an official Note to the Peruvian ambassador in Santiago proposing to alter the treaty to the effect that two million pounds sterling shall be paid as a compensation by that country which will finally retain the control of those provinces which since the Pacific war have been ruled by Chili. It is further proposed by the Chilean Government that commercial treaties should be made and an international railway be built to connect Santiago and Lima. In answer to this Note the Peruvian ambassador said that his government wished to have the nationality question settled prior to undertaking further steps.

Meanwhile, the Senate at Santiago has deliberated for three days in private sittings on the appointment of a new ambassador in Lima. The majority of the senators hold that, in view of the refusal of the Peruvian government to accept the Chilean proposals, the appointment of a new ambassador would be inopportune, and they are inclined to wait until the new President has come into office in September.

MOROCCAN AFFAIRS.

FRENCH TROOPS RETURN TO CASABLANCA.

Agence Havas reports from Casablanca: All troops have returned to their camps. General d'Amade will shortly review them. The period of active operations is terminated.

BERLIN

In consequence of the accident which befell H. M. the Empress while out riding on Wednesday last, the Imperial family put off all their engagements for that day. The Emperor had intended to be present at the Gala performance at the Opera house, but did not appear.

Dr. D. J. Hill, the new U. S. Ambassador to Germany, left the Hague on Monday on his way to Berlin to take up his duties. On Wednesday he presented his letter of recall at Luxembourg to the Court of which he had been accredited.

The Intendant General's Annual Report of the work of the Royal Opera in the season 1907-8 gives the following interesting particulars. From the 20th of August 1907 to the 6th of June 1908 inclusive, 275 performances were given in the Royal Opera House, comprising 54 different operas, 6 ballets, and one play. Besides these, 26 operatic performances took place at the New Royal Opera house, 10 Symphony Concerts were given by the Royal Orchestra, and one on Busstag by the Royal Opera Choir. The list of new works produced includes:—"Madame Butterfly," a Japanese tragedy in three acts by G. Puccini; "Thérèse," a musical drama in two acts by Massenet; and "Donna Diana," a comic opera by Cornélius; "Johann von Paris," an opera by Boieldieu; "Der Evangelimann," a music-drama in two acts by Kienzl; "Les Huguenots," by Meyerbeer. Operas by German composers were performed on 155 evenings, including 10 Wagner works on 70 evenings, the "Ring" cycle being given four times. "Madame Butterfly" and "Aida" were each given 27 times, and "Salome" the same number of times. Meyerbeer's "Les Huguenots" could only be given 13 times in consequence of the absence of the principal performers; next to it comes "Mignon," 12 times. The season will close on the 21st instant with "Tannhäuser."

M. O.

Kammersängerin Ida Hiedler, who closes her engagement with the Royal Opera at the end of this season, will appear for the last time on the 17th inst. in the rôle of Sieglinde in the "Walküre."

The summer-season opens at the Neues Theater on Monday the 15th inst. with "Kings zweiter Tod" and the comedy "Schöps," under the management of Woldemar Runge.

The next novelty at the Residenz Theater will be the four-act comedy "Das Glück der Anderen (Le Bonheur, Mesdames)" by Francis de Croisset. Later "Le Bout-en-Train," a three-act farce by Alfred Achies, and the latest Paris novelty: "Occupe toi d'Amélie" are to be given here. The production of "Gretchen" has not yet been permitted by the censor.

The Choral Society of the Budapest University will give a series of concerts in Berlin in the coming months. The conductor, Kapellmeister Ludwig Hackl, has left Budapest for Berlin to make preliminary arrangements.

Kammersängerin Maria Götzke will appear on the 14th instant in Wagner's "Rienzi"; this will be her first appearance since her recovery.

The Deutsches Theater closed its doors for the season on Whit-Sunday. Herr Max Reinhard may well be satisfied with the season's work. Shakespeare's comedy "As you like it," beautifully staged, and Schiller's youthful work "Die Räuber," have gained the most favourable notices from the critics and the continued approval of the public. The new member of the company, Herr Oscar Beregi, an Hungarian, won the full sympathy of his audiences in youthful heroic parts, and particularly as Romeo and Karl Moor. An interesting development may be expected from this gifted young artist, who has a good presence as well as intelligence and spirit. Altho' not a German, he has mastered the language thoroughly and is already a favourite in the capital. Herr Reinhard is to be congratulated on this successful result of his experiment in securing foreign artists for the German stage.

Dr. A. S.

The remains of Frédéric Chopin are to be moved from Paris, where he died on the 17th of October 1849, to his native place Warsaw. The active Chopin Verein at Warsaw, having decided to transfer the remains and to re-inter them in a tomb of honour, has sent a deputation to Paris to make the necessary arrangements. The Verein is in possession of a great number of valuable memorials of Chopin in the form of letters and MS. compositions, which it intends to collect in a Chopin Museum; a Chopin monument is also to be erected in Warsaw.

At the Lessing Theatre, where at other times the forms of Henrik Ibsen and Gerhard Hauptmann were embodied in masterly fashion, Herren Schönthan and Kadelburg are now reigning. The old and always popular farce "Der Raub der Sabinerinnen" is being played almost every day, and with great success. It is undoubtedly a great pleasure to see in this harmless, old-fashioned piece—in which not one of the characters is above the commonplace—such excellent human representatives, such admirable artists, as the ladies Else Lehmann and Wüst and Herren Bassermann and Marr. The performance is so imbued with humour, the actors are so pleased—if not at times too well pleased—to be engaged in this fun, that the audiences never cease laughing. The plot is well known—how the fifth-rate theatre Director Emanuel Striese, of Leipzig, brings out, and wrecks, the youthful work of an ingenious high-school Professor; and the complications that arise out of the fateful ready-willingness of the worthy Professor to get his work performed. Else Lehmann as a maidservant was delicious, unforgettable; and Herr Bassermann, as Striese, did his best to lift this stage figure into the sphere of real life.

Dr. A. S.

In the Passage Theater a calculating artist, Dr. Gotfried Rückle, has been exhibiting his powers to the public in the last month. What he does is really astounding. He raises sums of two and three figures to the third power, and extracts the cube root of a sum of seven figures, with a rapidity which one cannot explain in a natural way. But the climax of amazement is reached when Dr. Rückle not only enumerates backwards and forwards from memory 72 figures which have been called out to him by the audience, but at the same time makes additions and subtractions with them.—The other members on the programme are also worthy of the eminence to which this Variety theatre, which is ever growing more and more popular, has attained, thanks to the able and careful management.

GENERAL NEWS.

A further report says that the return of the troops to Casablanca on Tuesday was witnessed by Admiral Philibert, the Spanish Colonel Bernal, the French and the Spanish consuls, and by the whole of the German and French colonies. General d'Amade was in command and received the congratulations of Admiral Philibert upon the bearing of the men and the success of the expedition. For sanitary reasons the troops are camping outside the town.

MADRID CONCILIATORY.

In political circles at Madrid General d'Amade's invitation to, the Spanish officers to attend the return of the French troops to Casablanca is very favourably commented on. One gladly recognises that all official reports hitherto received testify to a good understanding between the French and Spanish officers.

PERSIAN AFFAIRS.

A REACTIONARY MOVEMENT ON FOOT.

Reuter reports from Teheran that the Emir Bahadur, the leader of the unpopular Court party whose banishment had been demanded, resumed his office at Court on June 7th. Five other members, whom the Shah had promised to dismiss, have likewise returned. Of fourteen notables who, on June 7th in the evening went to Court in order to remonstrate with the Shah on account of his having broken his promise, three were arrested, among them Zill-es-Saltaneh. The same evening the telegraph wires were cut by the Emir Bahadur's men, who also fired on a party attempting to repair the wires. The Shah strongly disapproved of such action. The political clubs and Parliament have not yet decided what steps to take. The town was quiet on Wednesday.

A ONE-WHEELED CLOCK.

A clock with but a single wheel is described in Work. It was constructed by a Los Angeles clock-maker, and its single wheel is more correctly described as a perforated disc, which is kept under rotary tension by two weights. In place of a pendulum and gearing, thirty-one 1/4-in. steel balls are used, which operate consecutively. When the timepiece is set, one of the metal balls is caused to descend, in zigzag fashion, on two pivoted plates, one located above the other. After the ball has descended on the lower plate, its course is directed in such a way that it enters one of the holes at the lower end of the perforated disc, releasing the disc and then proceeding in its rotary motion the space of one hole. The time consumed by this operation is limited to one minute, thus the disc is pierced with sixty holes for one hour's time. The forward motion and stopping is effected by the unlocking and locking of a spring.

THE CRADLE OF HOMOEOPATHY.

Allentown, in Pennsylvania, and homoeopathy are indissolubly linked together. In a certain sense Allentown is the cradle of homoeopathy, for it was here that the first homoeopathic college in the world was founded, and it is in Rittersville, just beyond the city limits, that the first homoeopathic insane asylum in the State is now in course of erection. The college is now used as school buildings, in which the young ideas of the Second ward are taught to shoot. The only changes made in the two structures since they passed into the hands of the city and the school authorities are the additions to the rear.

H. M. the King is spending the holidays with his two eldest sons at his shooting-box in Tarvis, and will return in time for the young princes to resume their studies on Monday.

The programme for this evening's Belvedere concert is as follows: (1) "Im bunten Dress," march, Fetras. (2) Overture: "Genevive," Stratton. (3) "So leben wir alle Tage," valse, Ziehrer. (4) Norwegian rhapsody, Svendsen. (5) Overture: "Der Nordstern," Meyerbeer. (6) The King's prayer from "Lohengrin," Wagner. (7) Grand Fantasia from "Indra," Flotow. (8) Overture: "Die diebische Elster, (La gazza ladra)," Rossini. (9) "Liebesketten," Polka, Blon. (10) "Priere d'une vierge," Massenet. (11) "Lassen," gallop, Faust.

With the success scored by the "Lustige Witwe" both in Berlin and Dresden still fresh in our memory it is interesting to read the comments of a London contemporary on the occasion of the anniversary of the first performance in London where it says that when a year ago Mr. George Edwardes introduced to London the Viennese comic opera, which has been played in half the capitals of Europe, he obviously hoped that his audiences would be willing to endorse the Continental estimate of Franz Lehar's melodious score and the quite charming story of Victor Leon and Leo Stein. But he can hardly have been prepared for so unanimous and enthusiastic a welcome as has been accorded "Die lustige Witwe." For a whole twelvemonth there has not been a vacant seat in Daly's Theatre, places are still being booked weeks in advance, and last Monday night when the opera, in its English version, celebrated its first anniversary, the reception offered alike to the play and the performers was so hearty as to give abundant hopes of "The Merry Widow" reaching an easy second anniversary.

We for our part confess that we are glad that here there is a falling off of the fascination which this partly melodious, partly sickly, and partly vulgar operetta exercised on the public.

An exodus of troops from Dresden took place yesterday when the Gardereiter Regiment, the two Field Artillery Regiments No. 12 and 48, and the machine-gun detachment No. 12 left for Zeithain where they will practice, subsequently to be inspected by the King.

|            | Fräul. Keldorfer.    |

PLOT. The Norns are discovered alone weaving the fate of the world. When the cord breaks they fly, as the dawn of another world is upon them. Siegfried, wishing to accomplish great deeds, takes farewell of Brünnhilde, entrusting her with the Ring. In the hall of the Gibichungs on the Rhine, Hagen, son of Alberich, is scheming to regain the Ring. He suggests to his half brother Günther to give Siegfried a draught which will make him forget Brünnhilde (of whose existence Günther is ignorant), and set him free to marry Gutrune, Günther's sister. All turns out as Hagen wishes: Siegfried arrives, drinks the potion and promises to win Brünnhilde for Günther. Waltraute, the Walkyrie, implores Brünnhilde to restore the Ring to the Rhine-maidens, to save Wotan and Walhalla. Brünnhilde refuses and soon after, Siegfried arrives in Günther's shape, snatches the Ring, and after keeping vigil all night with his sword between him and her, leads her away to Günther. Alberich appears to Hagen and urges him to kill Siegfried. Siegfried comes back and is welcomed by all, but Brünnhilde recognises the Ring on his finger, and accuses him of having betrayed his friend Günther by offering her violence. Brünnhilde discloses to Hagen that Siegfried has one vulnerable spot, namely in the back. The Rhine-maidens in vain seek Siegfried for the Ring. When resting from hunting, Hagen brings back Siegfried's memory by another potion. Siegfried tells the story of his life. Hagen kills him. The body is brought to Günther's hall where Hagen quarrels with Günther and kills him. Siegfried's body is placed on a pyre, onto which, when it is lighted, Brünnhilde, after singing a farewell to her dead lover, and proclaiming the end of the old regime and the dawn of a new world ruled by Love, leaps upon the pyre to perish with her dead lover. The Rhine overflows its banks, washes the pyre away and the Rhine-maidens snatch the Ring. Hagen rushes into the Rhine to get the Ring and is drowned. Walhalla is seen enveloped in flames.

CURRENT TOPICS IN AMERICA.

By letter, dated May 25th, from our New York correspondent)

THE GROUND VALUE OF NEW YORK CITY.

The freehold value of the city of New York has increased enormously in the last twenty years. The total value today, as assessed for taxation, is 6,712,500,000 dollars; a sum seven times as much as the indemnity paid by France to Germany after the war of 1870-1. The following figures speak for themselves. In 1883 the taxable value of the freehold property on the island of Manhattan, old New York, was 1,025,500,000 dollars; five years later it had risen to 1,225,500,000; in 1893, to 1,475,500,000; and in 1898 to 1,755,500,000. The average increment in each of those three periods of five years each was therefore 242,000,000; but a much greater rise was shown by the valuation in 1903, when the total value was assessed at 3,483,793,000, or nearly double what it stood at five years before. This year the amount is 4,748,000,000 dollars, or 1,264,207,000 dollars more than in 1903.

The freehold value of greater New York is more than that of all the gold and silver mines of the country added together, and all the cash of the world would not be sufficient to buy it. Yet the value of land in New York is continually increasing.

LORD ROSEBERY'S SNUFF-BOXES.

It is said that Lord Rosebery possesses the costliest collection of snuff-boxes in the world. Many of them are solid gold, and some are set with brilliants. A curiously inlaid enamel snuff-box was at one time the property of Napoleon Bonaparte. A small black box studded with three diamonds belonged to the eminent statesman, Pitt; while another, plainly inlaid with fine gold, was used by Fox. Although the collection only comprises 22 boxes altogether, its estimated value is £35,000.

PLANS OF THE THIRD AUSTAUSCH PROFESSOR.

Dr. Felix Adler, Professor of Political and Social Ethics at the Columbia University and the third Roosevelt Professor at the University of Berlin, has followed up his statement as to his conception of his mission as Austausch Professor with a further statement as to his aims and plans. Dr. Adler is filled with enthusiasm for his mission, and it affords him sincere pleasure to be able to act as the representative of the culture of a foreign country in the place where he pursued his studies in his youth, and gained part of his abundant knowledge. Dr. Adler spoke as follows to the representative of a New York journal: "Looking at the object of the exchange of Professors wisely initiated by the German Emperor, I conceive that it is our task to interpret the intellectual and scientific life of America to the German people, and above all to make that life accessible to learned Germans, in the person of its exponent and representative. That cannot be the work of a single individual, and the desired and confidently hoped-for success is not to be expected today or tomorrow. Many a year and many new men will be needed before that success is fully attained. But come it must. The Emperor William and President Roosevelt recognised that the scholar who speaks to his hearers in the language of their people, possesses a power of intelligently imparting knowledge which the written word has not. Free from the false presumption that we have reached a higher stage of culture, our first duty will be, less to teach than to exemplify the intellectual life and aspirations of our people. As the subject of the lectures which I shall deliver in the term from the end of October to March I have chosen the fundamental ideas of the American people and the influence of those ideas on our social and political life. The principles of freedom and equality will be specially kept in view, but nothing will be farther from my thoughts than the notion of making a cheap propaganda for Americanism. I shall be guided solely by the desire to explain to German students and Professors what we at home here understand by freedom and equality, how we interpret them and in what way they contribute to the progressive development of our people. If I may say one word more, I should like to remark that, in my capacity of Professor of the Columbia University, I go to Germany, not as one of a small clique, but as the representative of the world of American scholars. You know that I am the founder of the Society for Ethical Culture and one of the leaders of the ethical movement, which has its supporters in Germany also. But that has nothing at all to do with my mission; it only tends to show how grandly and freely the American thinks, although in such a matter neither religious nor political nor other considerations come into question."

STRAY SHAFTS.

If the Rev. Dr. Aked is to be believed, what he calls "the decline of Christianity" is due to the millionaires, who "fail to provide the funds necessary to make Christianity a success." The proposition is rather startling, coming as it does from a rev. gentleman who went over to New York to administer spiritual comfort to the auriferous Rockefeller. In the far-off days when Christianity was a real thing it did very well without the millionaires. Rome had rich men in plenty, but there were none in Galilee. Christianity was the poor man's religion; it was for the heavy-laden and the oppressed. Modern Christianity, so-called, dines with the rich, and preaches at the poor. Dr. Aked, it is true, every now and again preaches at Rockefeller, and for all we know to the contrary, dines with him also. The poor have had their fill of preaching; they want more to eat. They want amelioration of their social conditions, a practical, helpful sort of Christianity which gives them more happiness while they live instead of promising it to them when they die. They see all around them, professing Christians whose example by no means squares with their precepts; on the one hand waste with wealth, and on the other squalor with all the evils which squalor breeds. It is not that Christianity has failed. The world has never tried it, though here and there it makes a pretence of doing so on Sundays. In a Christian world, there would be nobody rich and nobody poor. We should not string together theological propositions and call them religion. We should live each for all, and all for each.

"Our cause was right enough, but there were not enough of us." These were the words used by Mr. Birrell when, some years ago, he lost his seat; and the Daily News opines that they are eminently applicable to the recent bye-elections. This reminds us of the story of the man who took his son to the shop of a Jewish clothes dealer to get an overcoat, but who objected that it did not fit, being about three times too large. "No," said the Jew, "it is all right, to coat fit vell enough, but te poy is too slim." Whilst dealing with the Daily News, we must also mention a statement for which it is responsible apropos the Dundee election, that "children sat up till midnight in their night-clothes waiting for the result." How does the editor know that?

Mrs. Pankhurst and Co., Unlimited, really cannot complain if and when the wild harum-scarum tactics they employ against certain political candidates are turned against themselves. One of the features of the Dundee contest, it will be remembered, was the Malony. Whenever Mr. Churchill appeared to address an open-air meeting this lady popped up with a bell, and started ringing it as if she were out selling muffins in Upper Tooting. Her object, in which she more than once succeeded, was to drown his voice in the din. Regarded as an electioneering notion, this was original; but when Miss Pankhurst and another lady held a suffrage meeting in Wood Green the other night, several of the audience deliberately stole the idea. As soon as a suffragette arose on her high heels, the bells started, the orchestra was increased by artists who played talented selections on tin whistles and toy trumpets. Finally the voices which might have breathed o'er Eden were extinguished utterly, and the meeting broke up in uproar. This sort of thing is not much to our liking whether practised on one side or the other, but if the suffragettes will not learn to conduct their political campaign with the amenities usual to the sex which is not theirs, they must take their change as they chance to get it. They should comport themselves as ladies if they would be treated as such.

The statement of Mr. John Burns that there are fifty thousand empty houses in London will not surprise anybody whose chief purport on earth is to pay rent. Not only old houses, but modern houses as well, wait in vain for tenants. And thousands of houses are only let for a few months. People take larger houses than they require for themselves in the hope that they will be able to let off, unfurnished. They occupy two or three rooms, and promptly exhibit cards in the front windows announcing "Apartments." But even lodgers do not always come for the hoping. The tenant may pay the first quarter's rent, and perhaps the second. At the third quarter he is off under the moon and the twinkling stars, and when the landlord's agent calls for his money he finds the blinds down and the tenant and the furniture to seek. J. B.

THE SNAKE AND UMBRELLA.

Here is a snake story by Dr. Emil Reich taken from the Philadelphia Record:—"A man took a nap in the woods, laying his umbrella on a rock beside him. After a while it began to rain, and the man awoke. He was all wet. He took hold of his umbrella and opened it hurriedly. It seemed rather stiff in going up, and there was a ripping, tearing sound. Then a live black snake fell to the ground, split in two from its head to its tail. You see, it had swallowed the umbrella, all but the handle, and the man did not notice what had happened till, putting the umbrella up, he halved the snake from stem to stern."
