AFRICA AS A PEACE FACTOR. ANGLO-GERMAN COLONIAL FRIENDSHIP.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM.)

LONDON, Saturday.—A brilliant banquet was given last night in honour of Herr Dernburg, the German Colonial Secretary, by the African Society. Sir George T. Goldie was in the chair, and a large number of diplomatic personages and prominent business men were present. After the toasts of King Edward and the German Emperor had been enthusiastically honoured, Herr Dernburg rose and, amidst lively applause, spoke to the following effect: It was a territorial necessity, he affirmed, that the prestige of white colonisers should be carefully maintained under all conditions in Africa, owing to the fact that the natives knew of no distinction between the various European races, but recognised all whites impartially as springing from one dominant race. For this reason all nations represented in Africa were equally interested in common co-operation. Peaceful development in the British colonies was just as important for neighbouring German territory as was peace in German territory for adjacent British settlements. The speaker then referred to the Anglo-German agreement whereby information of any disaffection among the natives was exchanged, and mentioned the last Hottentot insurrection, when British and Germans had fought shoulder to shoulder. Skilful statesmanship and good neighbourliness were always in harmony. In the conflict against the drink evil among natives Germany had invariably found active help and support from the British. The Congress for Combating the Sleeping Sickness had indeed failed of practical result as far as the disease itself was concerned, but it had, notwithstanding, succeeded in drawing the two nations closer together.

Herr Dernburg then gave hearty thanks for the hospitable reception accorded to him everywhere in British South Africa, and concluded by giving an appreciation of the late Cecil Rhodes' work, "a man whose name will for all time be coupled with the history of British colonial expansion." He praised the spirit of conciliation which had unified so remarkably all the great South African nations. If it were true that solidarity was the main interest of all colonising peoples in Africa, it was equally true that England and Germany had been the first to recognise this fact and had often laboured together for its accomplishment. "Let us hope," said Herr Dernburg, "that in future the two nations will continue to advance together in the same direction." Sir George T. Goldie greeted the friendly words of the German Colonial Secretary, and declared that the average Englishman had the greatest admiration and respect for the Germans.

Colonel J. E. Seely, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, welcomed Herr Dernburg in the name of the British Government as the representative of a great and friendly nation, and stated that the speech delivered by their guest would be read with enthusiasm throughout the country. He then described the whole-hearted co-operation of Englishmen in working at Imperial tasks, and said that the British regarded themselves in Africa less as owners than confidential agents. All difficulties in that country centred in the welfare of the black races. Party differences were all laid aside when the question of uniting South Africa first came up, and the carrying through of the Act of Unity was a State act of highest importance. It could not have been accomplished without the aid of their present political opponents. "It is our primary duty," continued Col. Seely, "to see that our occupation in South Africa leads to the betterment of native conditions. We hope that the two nations, England and Germany, will mutually strive to attain this betterment for the subject races." Neither the English nor the German campaigns had caused one-tenth of the deaths resulting from the sleeping sickness. After briefly describing the efforts made towards battling with this disease, Col. Seely continued: "The community of interests uniting the white races is thoroughly recognised at the Colonial Office; that alone is one good reason why we should remain friends. One of the strongest props of peace is the fact that we have both penetrated so deeply into Africa. It would be a misfortune shared by the whole world if a conflict broke out among the peoples of Europe. We will not fight, but will work together for the prosperous future of Africa." Count Wolff-Metternich, the German Ambassador, was the next speaker. After emphasising the necessity of co-operation of the two nations in Africa, he said: "It is our common task to face and solve colonial questions which arise from day to day. Germans and English have common interests, common views, common ideals. Our common civilisation is destined to eliminate barbarism and to substitute better conditions for the natives, while preparing the road for settlers of our own nationalities. I hope that Africa will prove a lesson to the Continent of Europe, teaching us instead of regarding one another with mistrust to labour energetically one for the other." Herr Dernburg again rose and made a brief speech, in which he eulogised French colonial activity in Africa.

NEWS OF THE WORLD.
 LONDON, Saturday.—Mr. A. Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, commented in the House of Commons last night on the House of Lords' amendments to the Irish Land Bill. He demanded that these amendments should be rejected en bloc, explaining that the Lords had completely wiped out 24 paragraphs, had altered 13, and had completely changed the meaning of the remaining 13. The amendments of the Upper House were utterly inconsistent with the proposals of the Government. But, concluded Mr. Birrell, there was plenty of room for a compromise, and it would be his endeavour to bring about an agreement satisfactory to both parties. A division was then taken, with the result that the Lords' amendments were rejected by 219 to 54 votes. The House of Commons is now adjourned till November 23.

NEW YORK, Saturday.—The Associated Press correspondent at Managua cables that the fierce battle on Thursday was in reality a victory for the Nicaraguan Government troops. Numerous adherents of the rebel commander Estradas were killed and wounded, while the forces of President Zelaya sustained only fifteen casualties. The rebel army has fled in the direction of Rama.

PORTSMOUTH (N.H.), Saturday.—The new United States battleship North Dakota (one of the Dreadnought type) commenced her trials yesterday, which were marred by a serious accident. After four hours' running at high speed one of the boiler tubes burst, badly scalding four stokers. In spite of this mishap, however, the vessel was able to complete the trials and attained the unexpected speed of 21 knots, which she kept up for four hours. The contract speed of the North Dakota was 20 knots, so that she has exceeded it by one knot.

LONDON, Saturday.—The Central News has received a cable from New York reporting the circulation there of a rumour that ex-President Roosevelt is either dead or dangerously ill. A cablegram from Nairobi declares this rumour to be without foundation.

PARIS, Saturday.—The following report is published from Athens: The King of Greece granted an audience to the Athens correspondent of the Mail, to whom his Majesty stated that the Greeks were a brave people, possessing good and noble qualities. Their healthy human outlook and lively intelligence would certainly overcome all difficulties. The celerity and determination which had characterised the suppression of the late naval mutiny, the unanimous and severe condemnation which had on all hands greeted this act of foolishness, proved that the patriotism and sound sense of the Grecian people had not been impaired. "I have a fixed conviction in the bright future and welfare of Greece," concluded the King. "Present difficulties will find a peaceful solution. That is my hope and confidence."

CHALONS, Saturday.—Mr. Henry Farman, the celebrated aviator, successfully tested a new flying machine on the aviation ground here yesterday afternoon. The apparatus is of a lighter construction than any machine previously used.

KING'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Arrangements for the King's Birthday Celebration are now nearly completed and it only remains for as many British subjects as possible to attend, to ensure a successful evening.

The dinner at the Hotel Adlon, Unter den Linden entrance, will take place at 8 o'clock punctually on Tuesday next, the 9th of November.

Tickets for the same, costing M. 3 each, exclusive of wine, can be obtained up till Monday, 8th inst. from:

Mr. L. Hamilton, Honorary Treasurer, Joachim Friedrich Strasse 40, Halensee

or at

The British Governesses' Home, Potsdamer Str. 28.

Applications for reserved tables, stating the number of seats required, from 1 to 8, as desired, should accompany the remittance for the tickets.

Tickets may also be obtained at the doors on November 9th, though the Committee would be very glad if the applications were made sooner, as it will greatly facilitate the arrangements.

The loyal toasts will be proposed at the conclusion of the dinner and an adjournment will then take place to the beautiful reception rooms on the ground floor, whilst the banqueting rooms are being cleared for dancing. A selection of popular English dance music has been provided and it is hoped that this portion of the proceedings may meet with hearty approval.

Evening dress is not essential and all British subjects, as well as English wives of German subjects, will be heartily welcome.

All social and other items intended for publication in this column should be sent to the Berlin representative of The Daily Record:—Miss C. M. Hook, Kalckreuth Strasse 11, W. (Tel. VI, 18,235). All business communications, relating to advertisements, etc., should be sent direct to the Dresden office:—Struve Strasse 5.

Copies of The Daily Record may be obtained at Selmar Mahne's bookstore, Charlottenburg, Joachimsthaler Strasse 44, opposite the Zoological Garden station.

The American Consul-General and Mrs. Thackara left on Friday morning for a week's bicycle trip, and a weekend visit with Frau Excellenz von Versen in Pommerania.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Babcock, of Boonville, New York, the parents of Dr. C. L. Babcock, of Berlin, are expected to arrive at the end of this week to spend the winter in Berlin. They will be accompanied by their daughter, Miss Jessie Louise Babcock.

Miss Boyer and Miss Ella Boyer, of Pine Grove, Penn., accompanied by Miss Florence Bertelette, have been spending a week at Pension Ludwig, Markgrafen Strasse 39-40, in the course of an extensive Continental trip. They left on Monday to visit Dresden, Vienna, and Paris before sailing for home.

Mr. Robert M. Berry, of the Berlin staff of the Associated Press, returned on Thursday from his several weeks' visit to America in connection with the momentous Polar discoveries of Dr. Cook.

Mrs. Elmer Roberts is rapidly recovering from her recent indisposition. Mrs. Andrade, Mrs. Roberts' sister, who has for some time been her guest in Berlin, has left for America accompanied by her young son Eduardo. Mrs. Andrade will again make her home with her father, at Jacksonville, Florida.

Mrs. Wm. E. Kugemann has returned from her short visit to England.

Mr. Arthur Hartmann, the well known American violinist formerly of Berlin, has opened a studio in Paris, at 5 rue Debroussy, where he is teaching the art which he understands so well.

Miss Alma Stencel, a young American pianist well known in Berlin, had the honour of accompanying Joan de Manén, the celebrated violinist, at his concert in the Philharmonie on Monday evening, November 1.

Miss Evelyn Suart, a well-known English pianist, achieved a distinct success in her Berlin concert of the same evening, the Berlin critics commenting on her noteworthy musical and technical talent.

Miss Edith Walton, another English pianist appearing in recital that evening, in the Beethoven Saal, found less approval in the eyes of Berlin's scathing musical judges, who referred to her as belonging to the ranks of the superfluous "whom one hears only to forget." This condemnation is the more surprising inasmuch as Miss Walton has given successful recitals in previous years, both in Berlin and Leipzig.

Miss Walton and her aunt Miss Kate D. Clark, who are staying at Pension Pfeifer, Lützow Strasse 68, leave for Vienna on November 11, and go thence to London, returning to Berlin early in January.

THANKSGIVING DAY CELEBRATION.

The President of the United States having appointed Thursday, the 25th of November, as a day of Thanksgiving, Americans resident in Berlin who wish to join in the National Festival, indicate their sympathy with those at home, and mark the attachment they feel for their own land, will meet together on that day.

A Banquet is to be given at the Landes-Ausstellungs-Park on November 25th at seven p.m. sharp, at which the Honorable Alexander M. Thackara, American Consul-General, will preside. Addresses by Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, President of the University of California; and by Dr. George Foot Moore, of Harvard University will be delivered.

The price for each seat has been fixed at eight marks. This does not include wine, which may be ordered on private account. There will be music and a dance at the close of the dinner.

Tickets may be obtained at the Consulate-General, Equitable building, corner of Friedrich and Leipziger Strasse, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., and at the American Woman's Club, Münchenstrasse 49-50, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Seats must be ordered before Tuesday, the 23rd, and no tickets will be sold after that date.

Americans are reminded that on former Thanksgiving Days, applicants not applying for tickets on time failed to get them. As heretofore, no tickets will be sold at the door.

PULPIT AND STAGE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE DAILY RECORD.

Lest readers of the Daily Record should take too seriously the amusing references to "Pulpit and Stage" appearing in today's Record and attributed to the Rev. C. F. Aked—commonly known as "Rockefeller's chaplain," to quote the Record's words—and since Dr. Aked may be thought to represent "all Christian people" when he said (if he did say it): "Take the case of actors and actresses; all Christian people put them under the ban and regard them as unclean"—it may interest them to know that, if there were nothing else—and there is quite enough—the existence and work of the Actors' Alliance in America, composed as it is of clergymen and laymen of the highest standing, as well as of actors and actresses, would be quite sufficient to show how completely such a statement misrepresents "all Christian people."

For years this Alliance has been doing a noble work, not only for the elevation of the stage, but also—and this is quite as important—in teaching actors and critics alike to be more fair and just, that is more Christian, more human, more sympathetic,—more Christ-like. It is thought by many that the temptation on the part of certain so-called Christians to become self-righteous and Pharisical is not sufficiently realised or resisted; but its deadly danger becomes plain when these so-called Christians presume to judge and condemn others in no tender or temperate language. Their condemnation becomes a fearful boomerang against themselves, and it is manifest how grossly they reverse the attitude of their Lord and Master, who said: "Judge not that ye be not judged; condemn not, that ye be not condemned; forgive and give!" They quite fail to see that they are in danger of placing themselves among those who called our Lord a "wine-bibber and a gluttonous man, a friend of publicans and sinners."

Personally I am inclined to think that if the Rev. Mr. Aked did actually make the statements attributed to him, the context would so qualify or explain his meaning as to rob the statements of even their appearance of wanting in charity.

In conclusion, I would like to add that I know a large number of actors and actresses whose lives and homes are as pure and clean as those of the most consistent church members. Indeed, in my own somewhat varied experience I have found that the best men among the clergy are invariably kind and gentle towards others, reserving their severity and condemnation for themselves, as they realise that open wrongdoing is far less dangerous than hypocrisy.

The social season was inaugurated on Friday night by a delightful musicale and dance given by Consul-General and Mrs. T. St. John Gaffney at the American Consulate-General. Some fifty guests from the American colony and Saxon circles attended. Among those who took part in the musicale were Mrs. Reed, Mr. George F. de Crano, Mr. Richard Waechter, Mrs. George F. de Crano, Baroness Siegfried von Plotho, Mr. Gaffney, and Herr Wagner. During the evening Count Julius von Linden and Frau Küntzelmann charmed the audience by character fancy dressing; and Baroness von Plotho and Mrs. G. F. de Crano in a humorous sketch in which they assumed the costume and rôles of Max and Moritz delighted the assembly. Gaertner's string orchestra supplied the music. Supper was served at midnight at round tables and dancing was kept up until an early hour.
 Among the guests were Miss Catherine Hill, daughter of the American Ambassador at Berlin; Baron and Baroness von Plotho; Mrs. Reid Alexander Kathan, of New York; Hauptmann von Funke, of the Saxon Artillery; Mrs. James Watson Benton; Rev. and Mrs. F. Ward Denys, of Baltimore, and Miss Denys; Mr. and Mrs. George F. de Crano; Lieutenant Georg von Schoenberg, 12th Saxon Infantry; Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm Küntzelmann; Mrs. Weed and Miss Weed, of San Francisco; Mr. Richard Waechter; Count Julius von Linden; Leutnant von Planitz; Deputy Consul-General and Mrs. Bywater; Regierungsrat von Wolf; Mrs. Craft and Miss Craft, of New Orleans; Miss Lawrence; Miss Michaelski; Leutnant Holtz, 12th Saxon Artillery; Mrs. Reed; Miss Merkle; Oberleutnant von Raabe; Mr. G. A. Cunningham; Oberleutnant Bucher, 12th Saxon Artillery; and Mr. Charles Genschler, Jr.

Raj Munad Din, a Bengalese gentleman who is now sojourning in Dresden, conversed on Friday with one of our representatives on conditions in India. He expressed himself most hopefully as to the result of the native agitation, which he denied was being conducted in a manner calculated to produce violence. "It is a vulgar error to suppose that we Bengalis, and Indians generally, preserve a hostile attitude towards the English Government," declared Mr. Munad Din. "From time to time there come reports of outrages against European officials, but it has yet to be proved that these crimes are traceable to responsible sources. Bengal was unanimous in its condemnation of the brutal assassination of Sir Curzon Wylie, a crime which will probably delay certain reforms indefinitely. Does it not stand to reason that if we sanctioned deeds of blood and violence we should be placing a powerful weapon in the hands of our enemies? Taken as a whole, the British Raj has contributed vastly to the progress of the Hindoo races. We have but one fault to find with the administration,—we want personal representation. It is a libel to describe us as being incompetent to govern ourselves. Ignorance is rampant, it is true, but that is the very evil we are setting ourselves to combat. I, personally, have no sympathy with militant agitation. The country is not, and probably never will be ripe for it. The evils we suffer under are legislative evils, and can only be removed by legislation."
 "No, I am not in Europe for any motives other than those of pleasure. It is a revelation to me to observe the aggressive progress which is everywhere evident in Germany. There are many Germans in Bengal, and one of my first mathematical teachers hailed from Dresden. That was in 1880, and I think his name was Herr Schilling. I hope to spend some time in Berlin, and eventually leave for Paris and London. I only hope that I shall survive the rigours of this my first winter in Europe."

A telephone message from Berlin yesterday announced that Lieutenant Humphreys, of the U.S. Army Signal Corps (the son of Mrs. St. John Gaffney, of the Dresden American Consulate-General) and Lieut. Lahm had met with an aeroplane accident at College Park, Maryland, U.S.A., where they are being instructed in aviation by Mr. Wilbur Wright. Messages were at once despatched to ascertain the facts of the case, but the natural anxieties of Mr. and Mrs. Gaffney were dispelled last night by a telegram to the effect that the accident was only slight and that the two young officers, although "shaken up," were practically uninjured.

The guards in the city today are furnished by the II. Jäger battalion No. 13, whose band plays about 12.30 p.m. in the Neustadt.

Whoever has lost or left anything in the streets or squares of this city should enquire for the same at the Fundamt (lost property office) of the Königliche Polizeidirektion, Schiesse Gasse 7.

Lola flirts with Turiddu, rousing Santuzza's jealousy. She appeals to Turiddu in vain and then denounces him and Lola to Alfio, who after challenging him to a duel in the Sicilian fashion, by biting his ear, kills him. Santuzza falls fainting to the ground.

 PLOT. Canio, head of a band of travelling actors, is very jealous of his wife Nedda. Nedda repulses Canio the fool, and meets her lover Silvio, a peasant. Tonio lures Canio, but he is too late to see Silvio's face; he is about to stab Nedda, but Beppo the Harlequin intervenes. The actors give their little play to the villagers. Nedda is supping with her lover, when Taddeo (Tonio) announces the approach of her husband Bajazzo (Canio). Nedda who is only acting, refuses to tell the name of the man who supped with her, but Canio grows more and more serious and finally, in a fit of passion, stabs Nedda; and hearing Silvio's name on his dying wife's lips he kills him too when he rests up.
 Composer: Leoncavallo, born 1859.

Tomorrow (Monday), beginning at 7.30, ending at 10.30

 PLOT. In the opening scene the mother of two young girls, Tatjana and Olga, recalls in conversation with her nurse the days of her youthful love, and concludes that, although she married a man other than her choice, she had nevertheless a happy life. From the progress of the opera it would appear that her history is to be repeated in the case of her daughters. Olga is in love with Lenski, who introduces his friend Eugen Onegin, to whom Tatjana immediately becomes passionately attached. After a struggle with her pride, Tatjana writes a letter to Onegin declaring her passion, in reply to which he offers her a brother's love. His attitude towards Olga, however, excites the jealousy of Lenski. A duel is arranged between them, in which Onegin shoots Lenski dead. Remorse at having killed his best friend drives him forth into the world to wander for twenty-six years. He finally returns to St. Petersburg, where at a grand Court fete he meets the Princess Gremin, in whom he recognises Tatjana. Her love for him revives, but she resists his overtures and remains true to her marriage vow.
 Composer: Tschaiakowsky, born 1840, died 1893.
