

that he put his Trust in God through Jesus Christ, according as he had advised him: and thereat the King presently wrung hard the Abp's Hand, and soon after departed.

CHAPTER II.

§. I.

OUr Abp., having lost his old Master, was not so sorrowful, but the Hopefulness of the new one did as much revive and solace him, because he concluded, that the Matters requisite for the Reformation were like now, to go on more prosperously and with less Impediment.

Conceives great Hopes of K. Edward.

One of the very first Things, that was done in King Edward the Sixth's Reign was, that the Bishops should be made, to depend intirely upon the King and his Council and to be subject to Suspension from their Office and to have their whole Episcopal Power taken from them at his Pleasure, which might serve as a Bridle in Case they should oppose the Proceedings of a Reformation. For the better Obtaining of which the Abp. began

The Abp. takes a Commission, to execute his Office.
