

Handwritten text in a highly decorative, calligraphic script, possibly a library stamp or title, enclosed in an oval frame. The text is arranged in several lines and includes a small emblem at the top right. The script is dense and ornate, with many flourishes. The text is written in a dark ink on a light-colored paper background.