Müller, Neumarkt.

Coffee and Beer are mostly good in these places; wine, indifferent and dear. Dinner and supper are served à la carte. In general it may be said that the art of cookery is but imperfectly understood here. However, after trying several places visitors will soon find out where they are pleased best. — Müller's family-dining house, in the Neumarkt, has acquired a very good reputation among Strangers. His dinners, wine, and coffee are good and cheap. Many English and Americans dine at this establishment, between 1 and 3 o'clock.
