

Collection of Coins and Medals.

Japanese Palace.

Open on Tuesdays and Fridays from 10 to 1, free.

This collection cannot be ranked among the first-class ones; still it is well arranged and will excite interest in amateurs and collectors. Antiquity and the middle ages are only imperfectly represented, so much more amply, however, the last three centuries. The collection of Saxon coins may be considered as complete.

Rietschel's Museum.

In the Palace, in the royal garden.

Open to the public on week-days from 3 to 6. On Wednesday and Saturday, free; on the other days, admission 2¹/₂ Ngr.

This Museum contains the almost complete series of models to the numerous productions of Ernest Rietschel, the eminent sculptor, who died in 1861. The collection was afterwards increased by the models to the Luther-Monument, erected at Worms 1868. Luther, a commanding figure, his right hand resting on the bible, stands surrounded by other reformers, precursors and contemporaries of his, and their protectors. The statue of Wickliffe, the English reformer, was executed by Rietschel himself. In the same room are placed the monuments of: Thaer, the great agriculturist (Leipsic 1844); — C. Maria v. Weber,
