

Top section of the manuscript page, featuring a grid of symbols. The symbols include vertical columns of dots, horizontal lines, and various geometric shapes such as circles and rectangles, some containing smaller symbols. The arrangement is organized into several columns and rows.

Middle section of the manuscript page, containing a grid of symbols and two large, detailed line drawings. The drawings on the left and right depict figures in traditional attire, possibly engaged in a ritual or dance. The central part of this section contains a grid of symbols, including vertical columns of dots and horizontal lines, similar to the top section.

Bottom section of the manuscript page, featuring a grid of symbols and three large, detailed line drawings. The drawings on the left, middle, and right depict figures in traditional attire, possibly engaged in a ritual or dance. The central part of this section contains a grid of symbols, including vertical columns of dots and horizontal lines, similar to the top section.