

This Business of Gardening

FROM THE FIRST glorious plans over a seed catalog, to the last row of asters late in the fall, it's all fun! And work! And heartbreaks and backbreaks and moments of ecstasy! For what if you do plant trillium here and it comes up several rows away? What if you do nurture carefully a plant which proves to be the rankest of weeds? What if your whole garden plays you false and flaunts but a single bloom the day you entertain your garden club? This business of gardening — no gardener will deny it — is the most uncertain, yet withal, the most absorbing and satisfying of outdoor sports!
