

For the Service of Those Industries Where Packaging is a Factor

IN AMERICA

where packaging has reached its highest development, one magazine alone covers the field completely, thoroughly and accurately. It is read by nine thousand American executives . . . read and re-read.

IN EUROPE

no one connected with package making, box making or printing can afford to fall behind in the knowledge of what the Americans are doing.

MODERN PACKAGING

the standard guide to the packaging industry, is read wherever packages are made. Each month it gives the latest developments in new design, new methods and new machinery for packaging. Its reproductions of packages in color, its sample papers, its articles and its advertisements are of daily value to everyone concerned with the design or manufacture of packages.

SUBSCRIBERS

to Modern Packaging are entitled to receive the Packaging Catalog, the standard yearly index of the packaging, paper and machine industries, over two hundred pages of information found on every packaging executive's desk in America. Four dollars a year, postage paid.

MODERN PACKAGING

11 Park Place, New York City, U. S. A.