

W I L K E

Among the younger German typographers, Martin Wilke is one of the most gifted. With an absolute certainty of touch, he understands how to create script of a high order, without doing violence to the clear legibility of the historical form of the type.