INTERNATIONAL STERLING'S NEWEST PATTERN

Here fashion, this year, touches all its own creations with the gracious, sunniness, and of beauty that women most adore.
 Harle Carriage's bridal costume—International's bridal silver—observe how each, in its own way, achieves this soft, romantic mood of elegance, at once modern and classic.

International Sterling presents Trousseau as the pattern above all others created for the bride of 1922. It is a design of unusual delicacy and charm—well balanced, well-proportioned. Let your jeweler show it to you. Any bride will fall in love with it at first sight—and live happily with it ever after!

Brides seem to be the ideal purchasers of the wares of the American silversmith

SILVER to love, honor and cherish

The most beautiful of all designs—meeting every need, designed for your choice, every pattern of great beauty—each bearing the famous name, International Sterling.

These are reproductions of pieces, made from designs that glorify the values of an olden day. Others are as modern as the modern. And we, for instance, would delight the bride who loves Georgian silver.

It is an artistic representation of 18th Century English Georgian silver. Known as a modern, it represents modern—inspired by the brilliance of the Empire Period.

We'd like to make the first set—on your list—the classic, complete and artistic beauty of 1845—in Early American loved by your great-grandmother, the artist, detail and royal magnificence of France—a piece which played a role of the French Revolution. Space forbids. But your guests will be delighted to show all these patterns to you, in Europe and Hollywood.

Write to us the banker giving complete description and prices of these patterns.
