P O L I S H P O S T E R S

A group of young Polish architects and graphic artists paid a visit to our editorial department and brought with them the posters reproduced in this number. It is not meant as disparagement when we say that the style and technique follow the trend of modern French posters. But there is one very informative fact, namely that the French language of form has become the fashion. We encounter it at present in all countries which have abandoned realism.

These external stimuli are very successfully worked up by the young Polish artists, and one is always conscious of a very strong determination to arrive at a form of decoration and means of expressing publicity of their own.
