

In nearly every illustration by

MAX HAUSCHILD

there is an attempt to summarize the atmosphere of a novel, short-story or landscape in the smallest space. His original illustrations for small advertisements are also successful attempts to produce an amusing illustration full of atmosphere. He is certainly one of the successful younger German illustrators.

Transl. by W. L. Campbell

Illustrations for advertisements