Business Men!
We are in your hands

THE POSTAL SERVICE IS YOUR SERVICE

It plays a vitally important part in your own business, in your particular industry and in the commercial organisation of your city. The Post Office has a problem. Every evening an avalanche of letters and packets pours into its sorting offices at the last minute of the business man's day. The congestion is acute. Spread the business more evenly over the day and the problem is solved. Earlier posting would lessen the strain on the Post Office machine and improve conditions for the staff. Help the Post Office by posting all you can at lunch-time and frequently thereafter, instead of waiting until your office closes.
