Poster for a Health Resort

a blessing to all those who wish for something more than utility in an advertising artist. Faller's posters are few in number but what he has produced may be spoken of in terms of effective publicity, for they are certainly convincing and persuasive. Here too, Faller reveals his own individual note. Humour pervades his work, a humour that is not superimposed but comes from within. Only those who can laugh at themselves may be said to possess genuine humour and Leo Faller certainly has this gift as may be seen in his self-portrayals which the attentive observer will find in a number of his pictures. Finally mention should be made of Faller's mural pictures. During the war he was commissioned by Herr Brademann, departmental president in the Reich Railway Administration in Berlin to design mural pictures for the new waiting-rooms
