

Illustrations
from J. Gotthell's "Lustige Brauffahrt"

artist whose pictorial language appealed to his own nature. Study trips through Germany's loveliest provinces and in foreign lands followed, nevertheless Mallek's heart was and still is in his Westphalian home to which in his capacity as an advertising and creative artist he devotes his best gifts. Waldemar Mallek has, moreover, made a special study of heraldry and is frequently responsible for the artistic arrangements and festive decorations for important Reich and Regional functions. Of late, however, this gifted artist has turned his attention more especially to the illustration of books and since he is an excellent engraver of woodcuts we may expect some distinctive and vigorous work from him in the future. Translated by Flora Salmond-Volkman

Buchumschlag Book cover

Illustrations
from G. Henssen's "In de Uhlenflucht"