

are of a monumental character and would be eminently suitable for more elaborate solutions. It is to be hoped that these two promising young artists will soon find an opportunity of applying their art to practical purposes and so give proof of their ability to the public generally.

Translated by Flora Salmond-Volkmann