

Zirkusmotiv „Freiheitsdressur“

Circus motif "Training"

for years on end it may be safely assumed that he has a flair for applied art. For what does a circus stand for? It means a high degree of concentration on an exceedingly active, mobile and energetic life, an urge to eccentric deeds of daring, the daily resolve to risk one's neck with a view to performing some new and brilliant feat, to breaking a record, to inventing a trick hitherto deemed impossible. Of all applied arts variety shows and circuses are most closely allied to the sensation and tempo of forceful reality. In this sense Stockmarr has real circus blood in his veins. In his creative work he always aspires to apply the artistic ideas conceived in his studio to practical life outside it. — Stockmarr's life bears witness to his observant and virile attitude