

Drawings for mural pictures in a Berlin Children's Home founded by the Reich Post vases, wreaths of flowers and fruit, old Cretan idols and Tanagra figures, temples, columns and profiles of heads decked with laurels. Flitting across other pictures are figures from Pan's groves, half tree, half man amid curious beasts, alrunas and all the figures familiar to us from the blissful realm of toyland. Finally to complete the list of the artist's manifold activities mention should be made of his topographic work, his etchings, drawings and aquarelles. Although serving with the Forces Griebel finds time to produce picture-books for his own children whereby he displays an extraordinarily intimate knowledge of a child's mind. Moreover, a whole series of illustrated calendar leaves was the result of his co-operation with a publishing house. The Meisenbach Verlag in Bamberg will publish
