

Handwritten text at the top of the page, possibly a title or header.

Main body of handwritten text, consisting of several lines of script, likely in a historical or religious context.