

A woman in historical costume, holding a large shield. The text below the image is a German inscription, likely a description of the figure or the source of the illustration. The text is written in a historical script and is partially obscured by the image's border.