

1771/11

This page contains several faint pencil sketches of architectural details, possibly columns or capitals, arranged in a grid-like structure. The sketches are arranged in a grid with approximately 10 columns and 10 rows. The sketches are very light and difficult to discern, but they appear to be architectural drawings of various forms, including what might be column capitals or decorative elements. The sketches are arranged in a grid with approximately 10 columns and 10 rows. The sketches are very light and difficult to discern, but they appear to be architectural drawings of various forms, including what might be column capitals or decorative elements.