

Handwritten text, likely a title or name, written in a cursive script. The text is mirrored across the page, suggesting bleed-through from the reverse side. The words are difficult to decipher due to the cursive style and fading.