HAMLET AND DR. DODD

Letter from a frenchman, translated from the french

MAURICE BARING

London, June 28, 1777.

Sir,
It is now three days since I arrived in London. I am still bewildered by the noise of the carriages and overwhelmed by an admiration which any foreigner must feel when for the first time he beholds the streets, the lanterns, and the pavements of London. Nothing could be better than these three things. The
